Agree On Plan To Reorganize Armed Forces

Senate-House Group Accepts Compromise

WASHINGTON, July 23—(AP)—A Senate-House conference committee reached agreement tonight upon legislation to unify the Army, Navy and Air Forces under a single Cabinet officer.

Sen. Gurney (R-SD) said all conferees accepted a compromise of differing Senate and House bills. The agreement now goes back to the House and then the Senate for final approval.

The postwar reorganization of the armed forces under a single civilian Cabinet member has been urged by President Truman and a number of congressional leaders for more than two years.

Under the compromise plan—worked out after a sharp Army-Navy dispute last year—a new air forces department would be created co-equal with the Navy Department and Army Department. (The latter is now known as the War Department and includes the Army Air Forces.)

Separate secretaries would administer the three departments but would not sit in the Cabinet. All would serve under a secretary of Defense who would have Cabinet status and supervise funds and policies for the three services.

Gurney said final points in dispute between the Senate and House were adjusted this way:

House conferees accepted a Senate provision that either a civilian or a commissioned officer could head the central intelligence agency established by the bill. The House at first had insisted this official be a civilian.

Senate conferees accepted House provisions specifying the functions of the Marine Corps and air arms of the Navy and Marines. This is intended to meet complaints that the Marine Corps and naval aviation might be swallowed up by the other services.

The bill calls for a national security council over which the President would preside. It would include the Secretaries of State, Defense, Army, Navy and Air Forces and chairman of the National Security Resources Board. This would be the top council to determine defense policies and co-ordinate them with foreign policies.

Naval Officer's Wife Found Beaten To Death

GREAT MILLS, Md., July 23 (AP)—Deputy Sheriff J. Lester Tippins, of St. Mary's County, said a young naval lieutenant returned from duty late today to find the nude and battered body of his wife in a log cabin near their home.

Tippins identified the victim as Mrs. Frank Katona, about 30, and said she had been beaten to death with a blunt instrument.

He said Katona told this story:

He returned to his home near Great Mills after a 24-hour tour of duty at the nearby naval air testing station at Cedar Point, Md., and was met by his two sobbing children.

They told hi mthey had not seen their mother all day and couldn't find her.

Katona searched the home, and not finding her, went to a nearby log cabin, used as a weekend cottage by out-of-towners.

His wife was lying on the floor, her head beaten in. She was nude except for shoes an dsocks.

British Loan Request To Be Studied By U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 23—(AP)—Secretary of State Marshall said today the American government must give further study to a British request for modification of the $3,750,000,000 loan agreement.

Britain, in an effort to conserve its dwindling dollar supply, had asked permission to reduce purchases from the United States while increasing imports from her cgolonies.

Marshall told a news conference the State Department will have to study the British proposal "in cooperation with other departments" before arriving at a decision.

Cheribon, North Java Port, Seized By Dutch

CONFIRMED—The Senate last night unanimously confirmed President Truman's nomination of Charles E. Bohlen (above), of Massachusetts, to be counselor of the Department of State, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Bohlen, the State Department's Russian specialist, succeeds Benjamin V. Cohen, who resigned effective July 31.

Indonesians Put Four Towns To The Torch

BATAVIA, Java, Thursday, July 24 (AP)—Dutch troops driving in from three sides have captured the important North Java coast port of Cheribon, semi-official dispatches from the Cheribon area said today.

The reports said Dutch forces moved into the city, 130 miles east of Batavia, yesterday afternoon. Cheribon's Indonesian defenders offered no resistance and bridges in the area were captured intaot, the dispatches added.

The port city was captured by troops who pushed halfway across Java from Bandoeng. It is in the heart of the rich Northwest Java rice growing area.

The mountain resort of Linggadjati, just outside Cheribon, was the scene of the conference where the Dutch and the Indonesians reached a political agreement which failed to work in practice and touched off current hostilities.

The capture of Cheribon occurred as Indonesian Republicans began a systematic application of a scorched earth policy.

Four Republican towns were put to the torch by the Republicans, an Indonesian communique announced. Salatiga, important objective south of Semarang, was burning when Dutch forces, driving from Semarang toward Jogjakarta, entered the town. Salatiga lies 46 miles by road across mountainous terrain from Jogjakarta.

The retreating Republicans also put the torch to Lawang, 12 miles north of Malang, in East Central Java, toward which other Dutch forces were advancing, and to Soemedang and Tjitjalengka, 20 miles east of Bondoeng, in Western Java.

In Sumatra, to which the fighting had spread, an official Dutch dispatch said irregular Indonesian soldiers belonging to the so-called People's Army had burned more than 100 homes before evacuating Arnhemia, a few miles south of Medan. Damage from the fires in Sumatra was estimated by the Dutch as high as $200,000.

The Dutch discounted the effectiveness of the Indonesian scorched earth tactics, however. The Netherlands army said this policy "manifested itself chiefly in robbing the more well-to-do inhabitants, especially the Chinese, and burning their properties."

In East Java, Dutch troops striking south from the Probolinggo beachhead and west from the eastern port of Banjoewangi threatened to slice the republic in two by cutting off 2,400 square miles of the island from contact with Republican centers to the west.

A Dutch army communique from Sumatra said a Dutch column had moved more than 70 miles to the west of Palembang, in the southeastern part of the island. In addition, the communique said Dutch troops had successfully occupied the entire plain around the coastal city of Padang.

Congress Works To Clear Slate By End Of Week

Big Appropriation Bills Await Turn

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Senate and House feverishly worked to clear their calendars of scores of secondary bills today in their rush to adjourn Saturday while six huge appropriation measures waited their turn.

The money bills involving many billions were in various stages of agreement. They have to pass to run the government this fiscal year. They include finances for the Army, the veterans and foreign aid.

While other "must" legislation stood aside for swift passage of the non-controversial bills, the Senate Republican leadership met and gave its backing to a proposed group of special investigations to be conducted after adjournment.

Housing Inquiry Okayed

Atop the list the Policy Committee put inquiries into housing and the cost of living. Most of the investigations will require both Senate and House approval.

One of the six big appropriation bills advanced toward action on the Senate floor when the Appropriations Committee approved $1,530,361,400 to pay for foreign aid. It carries $400,000,000 requested by President Truman for helping Greece and Turkey fend off Communism. The committee restored most of the 12.6 per cent cut in the bill made by the House.

Another of the six cleared a Senate-House conference committee. It carries funds for the Veterans Administration and other independent executive offices.

Wage Bill Put Aside

Other appropriations awaiting final passage include funds for the Agriculture Department, War Department, government corporations and War Department civil functions. The latter covers rivers and harbors and flood control works.

A bill to increase the national minimum wage was put aside for this session by a House Labor Subcommittee. Chairman McConnell (R.-Pa.) said it plans hearings during the fall on this and other features of the wage-hour program.

Chairman Taft (Ohio), of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said it will consider other proposed special investigations before Congress goes home. He said about 15 were taken up today and most were approved.

Costa Rican Clashes Take Lives Of Five

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, July 23 (AP)—At least five persons were killed by gunfire and 59 wounded in a series of political clashes and street fights in San Jose and other Costa Rican cities which began last Saturday and were brought under control today by police.

Although order appeared to have been restored in San Jose by late this afternoon, all business and transportation still was paralyzed by a general strike called by political opposition to the government, which closed all banks and business establishments.

(Two persons who arrived in Panama today from San Jose placed the number of dead at between 12 and 15 in the capital alone. Most of them were students, the travelers said.

(Informed sources in Panama said the five-day disturbance did not appear to have been an organized revolution and that most of the casualties were unarmed students who faced police machine-gun fire. It was reported in Balboa, Canal Zone, that the Costa Rican government had imposed martial law, and Pan American Airways in Balboa said all its flights in and out of San Jose had been cancelled.

(Sources in the neighboring Central American state of Guatemala said, however, that open revolt had flared in Costa Rica.)

Although numerous disturbances were reported in various sections of the country this morning, including an unsuccessful attempt by a band of 100 oppositionists to seize the San Jose station of the Electric Railroad of the Pacific, 2,000 civilian deputies were added to the national police force later in the day and aided in restoring peace.

The disturbances began Saturday with a street battle between political factions and grew in violence Sunday when government oppositionists demonstrated by throwing stones through windows and then fighting police squads. Intermittent shooting continued until late today.

An unofficial casualty report listed five oppositionists as having been killed, 23 wounded by bullets and 36 injured by other weapons.

Commission Is Establishing Atomic Weapon Proving Grounds In Pacific

WASHINGTON, July 23 — (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission reported today that it is giving "major attention" to developing and producing atomic weapons and that it is establishing proving grounds in the Pacific to test them.

At the same time, the commission said it is busily trying to turn atomic energy into peacetime uses, particularly in the fields of health and the eventual use of atomic energy for power.

The statements were made in the commission's second semi-annual report to the President.

Noting that Congress had told it to give paramount attention to "the common defense and security," the five-man board headed by David E. Lilienthal said:

"Accordingly, major attention is given to development and production in the field of atomic weapons. The magnitude of the program has been fixed by the President acting with the advice of the armed forces.

"Carrying out the program is largely a function of the commission's Los Alamos (N.M.) laboratory x x x Activities at this point are necessarily conducted under severe security restrictions, and no details will therefore be presented in this report. x x x

"The Atomic Energy Commission is establishing proving grounds in the Pacific for routine experiments and tests of atomic weapons."

There was no elaboration on these proving grounds, their place or nature. The Navy last year conducted some tests of the atomic bomb at Bikini atoll in the Marshall Islands about 4,500 miles west of the West Coast.

USSR Rejects Plan For Jap Peace Parley

Proposes Ministers' Conference Instead

LONDON, July 23—(AP)—Soviet Russia tonight rejected the American invitation to an 11-nation preliminary conference on peace for Japan, proposing instead the speedy convocation of a four-power foreign ministers council to take up the task.

Replying to a United States invitation of July 11 to meet with 10 other powers in Washington on August 19, the Soviet government declared in a statement broadcast by the Moscow radio that the United States had taken "unilateral action" in proposing the conference without previous four-power consultation and added:

"Unilateral Manner"

"The Soviet government cannot agree that the question of the calling of a conference for preparation of a peace treaty with Japan be decided by the government of the United States in a unilateral manner, without preliminary consultation with the governments of the Soviet Union, China and Great Britain."

The statement continued, "the Council of Foreign Ministers, formed on the initiative of the United States of America, was created precisely for preliminary work on the preparation of peace treaties and cannot, therefore, be ignored."

"As to the date for the convocation of the Council of Foreign Ministers to consider the question of a peace treaty with Japan, the Soviet government suggests that the Soviet, Chinese and British ambassadors in Washington, together with a representative of the United States, decide the earliest moment acceptable to all the interested governments, bearing in mind the desire to speed up the convocation of the council," the statement concluded.

Russian Contention

Russia said the Moscow agreement of 1945 recognized that the four powers had "particular interests" regarding the postwar situation of Japan.

The United States proposal for an 11-nation conference of Britain, the USSR, China, France, the Netherlands, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, India, Republic of the Philippines and the United States, all members of the Far Eastern Commission, was interpreted at the time as having been designed precisely to discard the foreign Ministers Council in making the peace for Japan. Long delays have been encountered in the council in writing the peace for Europe.

Mississippi Executes Two Youthful Negroes

WOODVILLE, Miss., July 23 (AP)—Two negroes, 15-year-old James Lewis and 16-year-old Charles Trudell, were electrocuted here today as the State of Mississippi turned a deaf ear to protests from "outside do-gooders."

The youths were convicted of the pistol slaying in February, 1946 of Harry McKey, lumberman by whom they were employed.

Because of the age of the condemned negroes many appeals were made to Gov. Fielding L. Wright that their lives be spared. One appeal was made personally by Mrs. Blanche Meiers, a mother of eight children, who travelled from Oakland, Calif., to speak to the Governor. In response to criticism from ohter states, Wright said in a statement that "outside do-gooders" should understand Mississippi was capable of handling its own affairs.

Trudell, who fired the shot that killed McKey, was sent last to the chair as priests who attended the two negroes reasoned that "the last man to go will suffer the most punishment."

Five Navy Fliers Killed

SEATTLE, July 23 (AP)—Five naval airmen attached to the fleet air wing at Whidby Island were killed about 10 o'clock last night when a four-motored PB4Y plane crashed while making a night landing, authorities of Fleet Air Wing Four announced today.

Won't Tell Whether They Are Commies

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Three officers of a CIO tobacco union in North Carolina refused today to tell a House committee whether they are Communists, while a Wisconsin CIO strike leader was indicted on charges of falsely swearing that he was not one.

The three, Edwin K. McCrea, Robert C. Black and W. Clark Sheppard, told the Unamerican Activities Committee that they based their refusal on the ground that to answer "may incriminate" them.

Previous witnesses had said the men were Communists and that the local involved, at Winston-Salem, N. C., was Communist-controlled. McCrea is an international representative of the CIO Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers assigned to the local. Black and Sheppard are co-chairman of the local.

Christoffel Indicted

In another major Washington development touching on Communism, a House Judiciary Subcommittee approved a bill to grant American citizenship to Victor Kravchenko, former Soviet official who said he fears for his life because of his denunciation of Communism.

The Wisconsin man indicated here is Harold Christoffel.

Christoffel's perjury indictment was brought by a federal grand jury at the request of the Justice Department. The department acted after the House Labor Committee had asked "such action as may be appropriate" following the accused's sworn statement to the committee that he was not a Communist.

Christoffel was president of Local 248 of the United Auto Workers in 1941 when the union called a long strike against the Allis-Chalmers Company of Milwaukee, makers of farm machinery then with defense contracts.

Before Committee Last March

He appeared before the committee last March, in its study of whether subversive influences were in on the strike. He said he was not a Communist and that it would have been a betrayal of the workers and the country had the local president called a strike on Communist orders.

However, the grand jury charged that he "was then a member of the Communist Party and had been such member for several years thereto and had worked with the Communist Party and with the Communist Political Association."

The indictment also said that Christoffel falsely swore to the House committee that he did not know Fred Blair and Ned Sparks. They were identified in the indictment as the head and former head, respectively, of the Communist Party in Wisconsin.

Three Soviet Satellites Peace Menace, U. S. Says

Uncle Sam Sheds Diplomatic Wraps

LAKE SUCCESS, July 23—(AP)—The United States suddenly removed diplomatic wraps today and bluntly told the United Nations Security Council that Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria were a menace to international peace.

American Deputy Delegate Herschel V. Johnson said there was not "the slightest evidence of civil liberties" in the three Soviet satellites and "a dictatorship is a dictatorship no matter what you call it."

He demanded that the council warn the three nations "to keep order in their own houses and leave other people's affairs alone," lest a war break out in the Balkans affecting the whole world. It was the second time in a United Nations meeting today that diplomatic talk was dropped.

Noting that Johnson had "begun to speak candidly," Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko jumped into the debate to say:

Advice Not Needed

"Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Albania do not need the advice of the United States on their internal order. If such advice is given from the rostrum of the United Nations, although not asked for, the only explanation is that these authors overestimate the importance of their advice."

"There has been much talk of monarchy-Fascism as if that were the only form of government that might be objectionable to some people," Johnson said. "We have no brief for the Greek government as such, but Greece is not a menace to international peace. We think her three northern neighbors are."

Previously Russia's vigorous defense of Albania in a United Nations membership committee touched off one of the strongest personal attacks ever leveled at a Soviet delegate here.

Stripping off all diplomatic language, Britain's Valentine G. Lawford termed a speech by Alexei N. Krasilnikov, chief United Nations deputy to Gromyko, "junk" and said it was "deplorable" that United Nations delegates should be subjected to such tirades "day after day."

The United States and Australia quickly joined in lambasting Krasilnikov, Soviet delegate to the committee and former minister to Iceland.

Greek Case Discussed

As Albania's application for United Nations membership was under fire in the committee, the parent Security Council resumed discussions of the Greek case where Albania has been accused—along with Yugoslavia and Bulgaria—of fomenting Balkan border disorders.

Krasilnikov delivered a 30-minute speech castigating the western powers for their opposition to the admission of Albania and accusing them of attempting to "undermine

BURGLARIZES STORE TO GET MONEY TO PAY BACK INCOME TAXES

BALTIMORE, July 23—(AP)—William Messick, 46, was sentenced to three years in the House of Correction today after he told Judge Joseph Sherbow in Criminal Court he burglarized a store to get money to pay his back income taxes.

"I got a letter I owed the United States government $90 for income taxes for 1944," he told the judge. "I burglarized this place to get the money."

Police said his "take" was 86 cents.

Eight Are Killed In Berlin Blast

BERLIN, July 23 (AP) — A mysterious explosion wrecked a large part of German police headquarters in the Russian sector of Berlin today, killing eight persons and injuring nine, and raising the possibility that a sabotage ring was in operation.

The American-licensed newspaper, Der Abend, said a suitcase found in the ruins "leads to the conclusion that a bomb was smuggled into the building" and declared the blast 'presumably was the act of saboteurs."

However, the explosion occurred in a wing of the building that houses a special police squad charged with the demolition of abandoned munitions and dangerously weakened structures, so the possibility remained that the blast was caused by the accidental detonation of explosives.

Russian authorities would not comment, and police said they were still investigating.

The dead included four German policemen and four workmen. Together with the nine injured this was the highest toll taken in a series of three explosions in the Russian sector of Berlin in little over a year.

500 Remington-Rand Pickets, Officers Clash

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., July 23—(AP)—A force of 60 state police, carrying arms, patrolled the gates of the strikebound Remington-Rand Corporation today after 500 CIO pickets skirmished with local authorities for the third time in as many days.

The troopers were ordered to the scene by Gov. Kim Sigler after Berrien County Sheriff Erwin Kubath said "the situation has passed beyond my control" and warned that new disorders might break out Thursday.

Sheriff's officers used a fire hose today to disperse the pickets, three of whom were arrested. No casualties were reported.

Marshall Field Offers To Buy Chicago Times

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Marshall Field, publisher of the Chicago Sun, announced today he had offered to buy the Chicago Daily Times, afternoon tabloid, "to expand my Chicago newspaper interest."

Field said he had offered $60 a share for the stock of the Times, and that Richard J. Finnegan, publisher of the Times, and two of his associates, "are agreeable to that price" and were transmitting Field's proposal to their fellow stockholders.

The Sun's publisher stated he hoped to publish the Sun in the morning, the Times in the afternoon, and a Sun-Times on Sunday. All would be in tabloid form.

Vet Is Nabbed After Truman Visits Senate

Police Sure Events Have No Connection

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — A man with a pistol in his pocket was arrested in the Capitol today just after President Truman had made a precedent-shattering visit to the Senate chamber, but officers expressed confidence there was no connection between the events.

Edward P. McGinnis, Senate sergeant-at-arms, told reporters the man identified himself as Clifton R. H. Spires, 39, Augusta, Ga. He added that the man had been a patient in a veterans' hospital at Augusta.

Spires was taken into custody in a washroom one floor below the Senate chamber by policemen who said they noticed the weapon in his hip pocket. McGinnis declared it was "purely coincidental" that the arrest took place only five minutes after Mr. Truman had delievered a brief speech one flight up as the "ex-Senator from Missouri." The President left the building immediately after his appearance on the Senate floor.

Private Lorain Crump, of the Capitol Police, told newsmen he noticed the gun in Spires' pocket when they were together in the washroom.

Crump called Private Paul G. Shelby, who asked the man if he had a permit for the pistol.

Denied Having Gun

Both officers said Spires denied he had a gun, but they searched him and found a .25 caliber automatic. He was taken to the District of Columbia-operated Gallinger Hospital for examination. McGinnis said he believed Spires would be held at the hospital "probably for 30 days" for observation.

Later Spires was taken to a police station and charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Police said he told them he came here last night by bus from Augusta where he had been living at the home of a sister whom he named as Mrs. Jessie Hillman.

Officers quoted Spires as saying he had intended to turn in the gun during his visit to the Capitol, but had not been sure where to deliver it. Since the start of the war persons entering the visitors' galleries of Congress have been required to register cameras and other packages with guards. Spires said he had not been in the galleries. The washroom is on a corridor through which the President had passed a few minutes before on his way to the Senate chamber.

Hazy About War Service

Spires wore the insignia of the 45th "Thunderbird" Division but police said he could not account for his war service beyond saying he had been in the Army 14 months and was the only man in his outfit who was not wounded.

Spires, six feet tall and weighing 145 pounds, appeared dazed when reporters saw him just before he was taken to the hospital. Gray haired, thin faced and dark of

Homes Are Padlocked After Erie, Pa., Flood

ERIE, Pa., July 23 (AP)—Approximately 100 Erie residents, evacuated from their homes during a record-breaking storm which deluged the city with more than nine inches of rain, found their homes padlocked today by order of the city health officer.

Dr. James R. Smith, health officer, said the move was taken to prevent disease. He declared occupants could move back in as soon as the premises were cleaned and pronounced sanitary.

The families made homeless yesterday afternoon by the heavy rain continued to stay with friends, relatives or in the hastily provided temporary quarters set up in the City Hall annex.

City officials estimated damage at more than $1,000,000 from water which ran two and three feet deep in scores of streets, flooded uncounted basements, paralyzed traffic and disrupted telephone service in some areas.

Congress Gets Measure To Honor U. S. Chickens With Postage Stamp

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — The 1,000,000,000 chickens in the country soon may have something they really can cackle and crow about.

For Rep. Sadlak (R-Conn) has just introduced into Congress a resolution calling for a special stamp in the chickens' honor.

Sadlak did this at the request of Paul Ives, editor of Cackle and Crow, poultry magazine published at New Haven, Conn. Ives naturally is quite excited because exactly 100 years ago this nation had its first poultry show.

Want to talk about progress? Want to talk about tremendous achievements? Well, then, talk about chickens.

"Like many other immigrants," says the Department of Agriculture in a tribute to its feathered friends, "the modern chicken has found the United States a land of opportunity."

And indeed it has. Few chickens ever think much about it now, but their ancestors came from the jungles—from New Guinea, Java and Malaya.

They were taken into Europe, and from there to the American colonies.

The chickens liked the new environment fine—so much so that now one out of every three chickens in the world lives in the good old U. S. A.

And now for some feathery facts:

Farmers get $3,000,000,000 from their chicken crop each year.

Like a mattress tester, a hen can get ahead by laying down on the job. But she once figured that 86 eggs were a year's work. The average now has been boosted to 113, and in good flocks smart clucks do twice that well.

A gizzard has nothing to do with a chicken's digestion. A rooster had one removed, felt fine, lived four more years.

Agree On Plan To Reorganize Armed Forces

Senate-House Group Accepts Compromise

WASHINGTON, July 23—(AP)—A Senate-House conference committee reached agreement tonight upon legislation to unify the Army, Navy and Air Forces under a single Cabinet officer.

Sen. Gurney (R-SD) said all conferees accepted a compromise of differing Senate and House bills. The agreement now goes back to the House and then the Senate for final approval.

The postwar reorganization of the armed forces under a single civilian Cabinet member has been urged by President Truman and a number of congressional leaders for more than two years.

Under the compromise plan—worked out after a sharp Army-Navy dispute last year—a new air forces department would be created co-equal with the Navy Department and Army Department. (The latter is now known as the War Department and includes the Army Air Forces.)

House conferees accepted a Senate provision that either a civilian or a commissioned officer could head the central intelligence agency established by the bill. The House at first had insisted this official be a civilian.

Senate conferees accepted House provisions specifying the functions of the Marine Corps and air arms of the Navy and Marines. This is intended to meet complaints that the Marine Corps and naval aviation might be swallowed up by the other services.

The bill calls for a national security council over which the President would preside. This would be the top council to determine defense policies and co-ordinate them with foreign policies.

Naval Officer's Wife Found Beaten To Death

GREAT MILLS, Md., July 23 (AP)—Deputy Sheriff J. Lester Tippins, of St. Mary's County, said a young naval lieutenant returned from duty late today to find the nude and battered body of his wife in a log cabin near their home.

Tippins identified the victim as Mrs. Frank Katona, about 30, and said she had been beaten to death with a blunt instrument.

He said Katona told this story:

He returned to his home near Great Mills after a 24-hour tour of duty at the nearby naval air testing station at Cedar Point, Md., and was met by his two sobbing children.

They told hi mthey had not seen their mother all day and couldn't find her.

Katona searched the home, and not finding her, went to a nearby log cabin, used as a weekend cottage by out-of-towners.

British Loan Request To Be Studied By U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 23—(AP)—Secretary of State Marshall said today the American government must give further study to a British request for modification of the $3,750,000,000 loan agreement.

Britain, in an effort to conserve its dwindling dollar supply, had asked permission to reduce purchases from the United States while increasing imports from her colonies.

Marshall told a news conference the State Department will have to study the British proposal "in "cooperation with other departments" before arriving at a decision.

Cheribon, North Java Port, Seized By Dutch

CONFIRMED—The Senate last night unanimously confirmed President Truman's nomination of Charles E. Bohlen (above), of Massachusetts, to be counselor of the Department of State, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Bohlen, the State Department's Russian specialist, succeeds Benjamin V. Cohen, who resigned effective July 31.

Indonesians Put Four Towns To The Torch

BATAVIA, Java, Thursday, July 24 (AP)—Dutch troops driving in from three sides have captured the important North Java coast port of Cheribon, semi-official dispatches from the Cheribon area said today.

The reports said Dutch forces moved into the city, 130 miles east of Batavia, yesterday afternoon. Cheribon's Indonesian defenders offered no resistance and bridges in the area were captured intact, the dispatches added.

The port city was captured by troops who pushed halfway across Java from Bandoeng. It is in the heart of the rich Northwest Java rice growing area.

The mountain resort of Linggadjati, just outside Cheribon, was the scene of the conference where the Dutch and the Indonesians reached a political agreement which failed to work in practice and touched off current hostilities.

The capture of Cheribon occurred as Indonesian Republicans began a systematic application of a scorched earth policy.

Four Republican towns were put to the torch by the Republicans, an Indonesian communique announced. Salatiga, important objective south of Semarang, was burning when Dutch forces, driving from Semarang toward Jogjakarta, entered the town. Salatiga lies 46 miles by road across mountainous terrain from Jogjakarta.

The retreating Republicans also put the torch to Lawang, 12 miles north of Malang, in East Central Java, toward which other Dutch forces were advancing, and to Soemedang and Tjitjalengka, 20 miles east of Bondoeng, in Western Java.

In Sumatra, to which the fighting had spread, an official Dutch dispatch said irregular Indonesian soldiers belonging to the so-called People's Army had burned more than 100 homes before evacuating Arnhemia, a few miles south of Medan. Damage from the fires in Sumatra was estimated by the Dutch as high as $200,000.

The Dutch discounted the effectiveness of the Indonesian scorched earth tactics, however. The Netherlands army said this policy "manifested itself chiefly in robbing the more well-to-do inhabitants, especially the Chinese, and burning their properties."

In East Java, Dutch troops striking south from the Probolinggo beachhead and west from the eastern port of Banjoewangi threatened to slice the republic in two by cutting off 2,400 square miles of the island from contact with Republican centers to the west.

A Dutch army communique from Sumatra said a Dutch column had moved more than 70 miles to the west of Palembang, in the southeastern part of the island. In addition, the communique said Dutch troops had successfully occupied the entire plain around the coastal city of Padang.

Congress Works To Clear Slate By End Of Week

Big Appropriation Bills Await Turn

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Senate and House feverishly worked to clear their calendars of scores of secondary bills today in their rush to adjourn Saturday while six huge appropriation measures waited their turn.

The money bills involving many billions were in various stages of agreement. They have to pass to run the government this fiscal year. They include finances for the Army, the veterans and foreign aid.

While other "must" legislation stood aside for swift passage of the non-controversial bills, the Senate Republican leadership met and gave its backing to a proposed group of special investigations to be conducted after adjournment.

Housing Inquiry Okayed

Atop the list the Policy Committee put inquiries into housing and the cost of living. Most of the investigations will require both Senate and House approval.

One of the six big appropriation bills advanced toward action on the Senate floor when the Appropriations Committee approved $1,530,361,400 to pay for foreign aid. It carries $400,000,000 requested by President Truman for helping Greece and Turkey fend off Communism. The committee restored most of the 12.6 per cent cut in the bill made by the House.

Another of the six cleared a Senate-House conference committee. It carries funds for the Veterans Administration and other independent executive offices.

Wage Bill Put Aside

Other appropriations awaiting final passage include funds for the Agriculture Department, War Department, government corporations and War Department civil functions. The latter covers rivers and harbors and flood control works.

A bill to increase the national minimum wage was put aside for this session by a House Labor Subcommittee. Chairman McConnell (R.-Pa.) said it plans hearings during the fall on this and other features of the wage-hour program.

Chairman Taft (Ohio), of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said it will consider other proposed special investigations before Congress goes home. He said about 15 were taken up today and most were approved.

Costa Rican Clashes Take Lives Of Five

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, July 23 (AP)—At least five persons were killed by gunfire and 59 wounded in a series of political clashes and street fights in San Jose and other Costa Rican cities which began last Saturday and were brought under control today by police.

Although order appeared to have been restored in San Jose by late this afternoon, all business and transportation still was paralyzed by a general strike called by political opposition to the government, which closed all banks and business establishments.

(Two persons who arrived in Panama today from San Jose placed the number of dead at between 12 and 15 in the capital alone. Most of them were students, the travelers said.

(Informed sources in Panama said the five-day disturbance did not appear to have been an organized revolution and that most of the casualties were unarmed students who faced police machine-gun fire. It was reported in Balboa, Canal Zone, that the Costa Rican government had imposed martial law, and Pan American Airways in Balboa said all its flights in and out of San Jose had been cancelled.

(Sources in the neighboring Central American state of Guatemala said, however, that open revolt had flared in Costa Rica.)

Although numerous disturbances were reported in various sections of the country this morning, including an unsuccessful attempt by a band of 100 oppositionists to seize the San Jose station of the Electric Railroad of the Pacific, 2,000 civilian deputies were added to the national police force later in the day and aided in restoring peace.

The disturbances began Saturday with a street battle between political factions and grew in violence Sunday when government oppositionists demonstrated by throwing stones through windows and then fighting police squads. Intermittent shooting continued until late today.

An unofficial casualty report listed five oppositionists as having been killed, 23 wounded by bullets and 36 injured by other weapons.

USSR Rejects Plan For Jap Peace Parley

Proposes Ministers' Conference Instead

LONDON, July 23—(AP)—Soviet Russia tonight rejected the American invitation to an 11-nation preliminary conference on peace for Japan, proposing instead the speedy convocation of a four-power foreign ministers council to take up the task.

Replying to a United States invitation of July 11 to meet with 10 other powers in Washington on August 19, the Soviet government declared in a statement broadcast by the Moscow radio that the United States had taken "unilateral action" in proposing the conference without previous four-power consultation and added:

"Unilateral Manner"

"The Soviet government cannot agree that the question of the calling of a conference for preparation of a peace treaty with Japan be decided by the government of the United States in a unilateral manner, without preliminary consultation with the governments of the Soviet Union, China and Great Britain."

The statement continued, "the Council of Foreign Ministers, formed on the initiative of the United States of America, was created precisely for preliminary work on the preparation of peace treaties and cannot, therefore, be ignored."

"As to the date for the convocation of the Council of Foreign Ministers to consider the question of a peace treaty with Japan, the Soviet government suggests that the Soviet, Chinese and British ambassadors in Washrington, together with a representative of the United States, decide the earliest moment acceptable to all the interested governments, bearing in mind the desire to speed up the convocation of the council," the statement concluded.

Russian Contention

Russia said the Moscow agreement of 1945 recognized that the four powers had "particular interests" regarding the postwar situation of Japan.

The United States proposal for an 11-nation conference of Britain, the USSR, China, France, the Netherlands, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, India, Republic of the Philippines and the United States, all members of the Far Eastern Commission, was interpreted at the time as having been designed precisely to discard the foreign Ministers Council in making the peace for Japan. Long delays have been encountered in the council in writing the peace for Europe.

Mississippi Executes Two Youthful Negroes

WOODVILLE, Miss., July 23 (AP)—Two negroes, 15-year-old James Lewis and 16-year-old Charles Trudell, were electrocuted here today as the State of Mississippi turned a deaf ear to protests from "outside do-gooders."

The youths were convicted of the pistol slaying in February, 1946 of Harry McKey, lumberman by whom they were employed.

Because of the age of the condemned negroes many appeals were made to Gov. Fielding L. Wright that their lives be spared. One appeal was made personally by Mrs. Blanche Meiers, a mother of eight children, who travelled from Oakland, Calif., to speak to the Governor. In response to criticism from ohter states, Wright said in a statement that "outside do-gooders" should understand Mississippi was capable of handling its own affairs.

Trudell, who fired the shot that killed McKey, was sent last to the chair as priests who attended the two negroes reasoned that "the last man to go will suffer the most punishment."

Five Navy Fliers Killed

SEATTLE, July 23 (AP)—Five naval airmen attached to the fleet air wing at Whidby Island were killed about 10 o'clock last night when a four-motored PB4Y plane crashed while making a night landing, authorities of Fleet Air Wing Four announced today.

MAKE CAPITOL NEWS—A man who identified himself as Clifton R. H. Spires (right), 39, Augusta, Ga., was arrested in the Capitol at Washington yesterday about five minutes after President Truman left the Senate chamber after a surprise visit. Spires was carrying a .25 caliber automatic and later was charged with carrying a concealed weapon. Three Officers Of Tobacco Union Defy Committee

Won't Tell Whether They Are Commies

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Three officers of a CIO tobacco union in North Carolina refused today to tell a House committee whether they are Communists, while a Wisconsin CIO strike leader was indicted on charges of falsely swearing that he was not one.

The three, Edwin K. McCrea, Robert C. Black and W. Clark Sheppard, told the Unamerican Activities Committee that they based their refusal on the ground that to answer "may incriminate" them.

Previous witnesses had said the men were Communists and that the local involved, at Winston-Salem, N. C., was Communist-controlled. McCrea is an international representative of the CIO Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers assigned to the local. Black and Sheppard are co-chairman of the local.

Christoffel Indicted

In another major Washington development touching on Communism, a House Judiciary Subcommittee approved a bill to grant American citizenship to Victor Kravchenko, former Soviet official who said he fears for his life because of his denunciation of Communism.

The Wisconsin man indicated here is Harold Christoffel.

Christoffel's perjury indictment was brought by a federal grand jury at the request of the Justice Department. The department acted after the House Labor Committee had asked "such action as may be appropriate" following the accused's sworn statement to the committee that he was not a Communist.

Christoffel was president of Local 248 of the United Auto Workers in 1941 when the union called a long strike against the Allis-Chalmers Company of Milwaukee, makers of farm machinery then with defense contracts.

Before Committee Last March

He appeared before the committee last March, in its study of whether subversive influences were in on the strike. He said he was not a Communist and that it would have been a betrayal of the workers and the country had the local president called a strike on Communist orders.

However, the grand jury charged that he "was then a member of the Communist Party and had been such member for several years thereto and had worked with the Communist Party and with the Communist Political Association."

The indictment also said that Christoffel falsely swore to the House committee that he did not know Fred Blair and Ned Sparks. They were identified in the indictment as the head and former head, respectively, of the Communist Party in Wisconsin.

Three Soviet Satellites Peace Menace, U. S. Says

Uncle Sam Sheds Diplomatic Wraps

LAKE SUCCESS, July 23—(AP)—The United States suddenly removed diplomatic wraps today and bluntly told the United Nations Security Council that Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria were a menace to international peace.

American Deputy Delegate Herschel V. Johnson said there was not "the slightest evidence of civil liberties" in the three Soviet satellites and "a dictatorship is a dictatorship no matter what you call it."

He demanded that the council warn the three nations "to keep order in their own houses and leave other people's affairs alone," lest a war break out in the Balkans affecting the whole world. It was the second time in a United Nations meeting today that diplomatic talk was dropped.

Noting that Johnson had "begun to speak candidly," Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko jumped into the debate to say:

Advice Not Needed

"Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Albania do not need the advice of the United States on their internal order. If such advice is given from the rostrum of the United Nations, although not asked for, the only explanation is that these authors overestimate the importance of their advice."

"There has been much talk of monarchy-Fascism as if that were the only form of government that might be objectionable to some people," Johnson said. "We have no brief for the Greek government as such, but Greece is not a menace to international peace. We think her three northern neighbors are."

Previously Russia's vigorous defense of Albania in a United Nations membership committee touched off one of the strongest personal attacks ever leveled at a Soviet delegate here.

Stripping off all diplomatic language, Britain's Valentine G. Lawford termed a speech by Alexei N. Krasilnikov, chief United Nations deputy to Gromyko, "junk" and said it was "deplorable" that United Nations delegates should be subjected to such tirades "day after day."

The United States and Australia quickly joined in lambasting Krasilnikov, Soviet delegate to the committee and former minister to Iceland.

Greek Case Discussed

As Albania's application for United Nations membership was under fire in the committee, the parent Security Council resumed discussions of the Greek case where Albania has been accused—along with Yugoslavia and Bulgaria—of fomenting Balkan border disorders.

Krasilnikov delivered a 30-minute speech castigating the western powers for their opposition to the admission of Albania and accusing them of attempting to "undermine

BURGLARIZES STORE TO GET MONEY TO PAY BACK INCOME TAXES

BALTIMORE, July 23—(AP)—William Messick, 46, was sentenced to three years in the House of Correction today after he told Judge Joseph Sherbow in Criminal Court he burglarized a store to get money to pay his back income taxes.

"I got a letter I owed the United States government $90 for income taxes for 1944," he told the judge. "I burglarized this place to get the money."

Police said his "take" was 86 cents.

Eight Are Killed In Berlin Blast

BERLIN, July 23 (AP) — A mysterious explosion wrecked a large part of German police headquarters in the Russian sector of Berlin today, killing eight persons and injuring nine, and raising the possibility that a sabotage ring was in operation.

The American-licensed newspaper, Der Abend, said a suitcase found in the ruins "leads to the conclusion that a bomb was smuggled into the building" and declared the blast 'presumably was the act of saboteurs."

However, the explosion occurred in a wing of the building that houses a special police squad charged with the demolition of abandoned munitions and dangerously weakened structures, so the possibility remained that the blast was caused by the accidental detonation of explosives.

Russian authorities would not comment, and police said they were still investigating.

The dead included four German policemen and four workmen. Together with the nine injured this was the highest toll taken in a series of three explosions in the Russian sector of Berlin in little over a year.

500 Remington-Rand Pickets, Officers Clash

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., July 23—(AP)—A force of 60 state police, carrying arms, patrolled the gates of the strikebound Remington-Rand Corporation today after 500 CIO pickets skirmished with local authorities for the third time in as many days.

The troopers were ordered to the scene by Gov. Kim Sigler after Berrien County Sheriff Erwin Kubath said "the situation has passed beyond my control" and warned that new disorders might break out Thursday.

Sheriff's officers used a fire hose today to disperse the pickets, three of whom were arrested. No casualties were reported.

Marshall Field Offers To Buy Chicago Times

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Marshall Field, publisher of the Chicago Sun, announced today he had offered to buy the Chicago Daily Times. afternoon tabloid, "to expand my Chicago newspaper interest."

Field said he had offered $60 a share for the stock of the Times, and that Richard J. Finnegan, publisher of the Times, and two of his associates, "are agreeable to that price" and were transmitting Field's proposal to their fellow stockholders.

The Sun's publisher stated he hoped to publish the Sun in the morning, the Times in the afternoon, and a Sun-Times on Sunday. All would be in tabloid form.

Vet Is Nabbed After Truman Visits Senate

Police Sure Events Have No Connection

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — A man with a pistol in his pocket was arrested in the Capitol today just after President Truman had made a precedent-shattering visit to the Senate chamber, but officers expressed confidence there was no connection between the events.

Edward P. McGinnis, Senate sergeant-at-arms, told reporters the man identified himself as Clifton R. H. Spires, 39, Augusta, Ga. He added that the man had been a patient in a veterans' hospital at Augusta.

Spires was taken into custody in a washroom one floor below the Senate chamber by policemen who said they noticed the weapon in his hip pocket. McGinnis declared it was "purely coincidental" that the arrest took place only five minutes after Mr. Truman had delievered a brief speech one flight up as the "ex-Senator from Missouri." The President left the building immediately after his appearance on the Senate floor.

Private Lorain Crump, of the Capitol Police, told newsmen he noticed the gun in Spires' pocket when they were together in the washroom.

Crump called Private Paul G. Shelby, who asked the man if he had a permit for the pistol.

Denied Having Gun

Both officers said Spires denied he had a gun, but they searched him and found a .25 caliber automatic. He was taken to the District of Columbia-operated Gallinger Hospital for examination. McGinnis said he believed Spires would be held at the hospital "probably for 30 days" for observation.

Later Spires was taken to a police station and charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Police said he told them he came here last night by bus from Augusta where he had been living at the home of a sister whom he named as Mrs. Jessie Hillman.

Officers quoted Spires as saying he had intended to turn in the gun during his visit to the Capitol, but had not been sure where to deliver it. Since the start of the war persons entering the visitors' galleries of Congress have been required to register cameras and other packages with guards. Spires said he had not been in the galleries. The washroom is on a corridor through which the President had passed a few minutes before on his way to the Senate chamber.

Hazy About War Service

Spires wore the insignia of the 45th "Thunderbird" Division but police said he could not account for his war service beyond saying he had been in the Army 14 months and was the only man in his outfit who was not wounded.

Spires, six feet tall and weighing 145 pounds, appeared dazed when reporters saw him just before he was taken to the hospital. Gray haired, thin faced and dark of

Homes Are Padlocked After Erie, Pa., Flood

ERIE, Pa., July 23 (AP)—Approximately 100 Erie residents, evacuated from their homes during a record-breaking storm which deluged the city with more than nine inches of rain, found their homes padlocked today by order of the city health officer.

Dr. James R. Smith, health officer, said the move was taken to prevent disease. He declared occupants could move back in as soon as the premises were cleaned and pronounced sanitary.

The families made homeless yesterday afternoon by the heavy rain continued to stay with friends, relatives or in the hastily provided temporary quarters set up in the City Hall annex.

City officials estimated damage at more than $1,000,000 from water which ran two and three feet deep in scores of streets, flooded uncounted basements, paralyzed traffic and disrupted telephone service in some areas.

Commission Is Establishing Atomic Weapon Proving Grounds In Pacific

WASHINGTON, July 23 — (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission reported today that it is giving "major attention" to developing and producing atomic weapons and that it is establishing proving grounds in the Pacific to test them.

At the same time, the commission said it is busily trying to turn atomic energy into peacetime uses, particularly in the fields of health and the eventual use of atomic energy for power.

The statements were made in the commission's second semi-annual report to the President.

Noting that Congress had told it to give paramount attention to "the common defense and security," the five-man board headed by David E. Lilienthal said:

"Accordingly, major attention is given to development and production in the field of atomic weapons. The magnitude of the program has been fixed by the President acting with the advice of the armed forces.

"Carrying out the program is largely a function of the commission's Los Alamos (N.M.) laboratory x x x Activities at this point are necessarily conducted under severe security restrictions, and no details will therefore be presented in this report. x x x

"The Atomic Energy Commission is establishing proving grounds in the Pacific for routine experiments and tests of atomic weapons."

There was no elaboration on these proving grounds, their place or nature. The Navy last year conducted some tests of the atomic bomb at Bikini atoll in the Marshall Islands about 4,500 miles west of the West Coast.

Congress Gets Measure To Honor U. S. Chickens With Postage Stamp

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — The 1,000,000,000 chickens in the country soon may have something they really can cackle and crow about.

For Rep. Sadlak (R-Conn) has just introduced into Congress a resolution calling for a special stamp in the chickens' honor.

Sadlak did this at the request of Paul Ives, editor of Cackle and Crow, poultry magazine published at New Haven, Conn. Ives naturally is quite excited because exactly 100 years ago this nation had its first poultry show.

Want to talk about progress? Want to talk about tremendous achievements? Well, then, talk about chickens.

"Like many other immigrants," says the Department of Agriculture in a tribute to its feathered friends, "the modern chicken has found the United States a land of opportunity."

And indeed it has. Few chickens ever think much about it now, but their ancestors came from the jungles—from New Guinea, Java and Malaya.

They were taken into Europe, and from there to the American colonies.

The chickens liked the new environment fine—so much so that now one out of every three chickens in the world lives in the good old U. S. A.

And now for some feathery facts:

Farmers get $3,000,000,000 from their chicken crop each year.

Like a mattress tester, a hen can get ahead by laying down on the job. But she once figured that 86 eggs were a year's work. The average now has been boosted to 113, and in good flocks smart clucks do twice that well.

A gizzard has nothing to do with a chicken's digestion. A rooster had one removed, felt fine, lived four more years.

Girl Who Is "Old For Her Age" Advised To Strike Compromise

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 14 years old and in my sophomore year at high school. I can't stay interested in boys of my own age, and I must confess I don't try very hard. It's just that our interests sort of clash. For one thing, if I mention classical music, or some musician who doesn't compose jazz, kids stare at me as if I were a specimen! I always feel self-conscious with boys my own age.

It's entirely different, though, with young men from 20 to 22. I feel at ease with them, and enjoy myself. We can talk about things that matter without feeling foolish.

I am much too young to be allowed to have dates, or a "steady," and consequently this older gang I go with always meets at one another's homes. Have I a bad inferiority complex that makes me turn to older companions?

"PUZZLED."

Dear "Puzzled":

It is quite true that some girls are much more mature for their age than others, and perhaps you are one of these. The fact that you seem to be farther along in school than the average 14-year-old makes it appear that this could be the case. If so, it is not strange that your interests should be different from those of boys your own age.

However, I think you are going to the other extreme when you spend so much time with young men in their early twenties. There's no harm in having occasional good times with them, since you appear to find their companionship so congenial, but it would be a mistake to concentrate on them to the exclusion of those nearer your own age group.

I suggest that you strike a compromise, and find some friends among boys no more than two or three years older than yourself. You may be overlooking some good bets in that direction.

Thinks Her Thinness Makes Her Unpopular

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 15 years old and very thin. Some of the boys I know make fresh remarks about my thin legs. I exercise every night till my legs pain me so I can't sleep.

I like a boy very much who goes with another boy who doesn't like me and says things to him like: "Boy, what a thin thing she is!" When I go to dances, I thing the boy I like would ask me to dance but is ashamed to, because this other boy will make fun of him. Please tell me what to do.

"IMPATIENT."

Dear "Impatient":

If you really want to put on some weight and make yourself healthier and prettier, you can do it. The only hard thing about it will be to hold yourself sternly to the necessary program of proper food and rest. You probably eat a poorly balanced diet and don't get nearly enough sleep. Did you know that a lot of rest will put weight on you quicker than anything else?

What you should do is to go to your doctor, tell him your problem and ask him to recommend a regime for you; then keep to it strictly. If, in addition, you want some exercises to help develop certain parts of your body, consult the physical education instructor in your school or your local YWCA. Don't just exercise according to your own ideas, as you're apparently doing now. That's foolish, and can do you more harm than good.

If you really want to put on some weight and make yourself healthier and prettier, you can do it. The only hard thing about it will be to hold yourself sternly to the necessary program of proper food and rest. You probably eat a poorly balanced diet and don't get nearly enough sleep. Did you know that a lot of rest will put weight on you quicker than anything else?

What you should do is to go to your doctor, tell him your problem and ask him to recommend a regime for you; then keep to it strictly. If, in addition, you want some exercises to help develop certain parts of your body, consult the physical education instructor in your school or your local YWCA. Don't just exercise according to your own ideas, as you're apparently doing now. That's foolish, and can do you more harm than good.

"Onward, Christian Soldiers" is probably the most popular hymn of the last half of the 19th century. It was written by Sabine Baring-Gould, a prominent clergyman and writer of the Church of England.

why

Rosenbaum's for Furs in July?

Not just MUSKRAT, but rich, silverblu Muskrat with flare back, huge sleeves, and the new longer ¾ length.

because

in this year of dramatic change in silhouette, our furriers bring you the most exciting collection of furs in fur-fashion history. You'll see sumptuous new ripple backs, elegant little collar and cuff details, leg-o-mutton and parachute sleeves, new, richer color blendings of deep beauty, new lengths that completely cover the new longer dresses or the smart ⅞ lengths scaled to longer fashions.

because

recent cost increases in the fur market and among manufacturers may be reflected in prices later this season. These coats are made of prime pelts from the past winter's catch, tailored unhurriedly by master craftsmen during the slow Spring and Summer season.

because

furs are Rosenbaum's business . . . have been for 99 years. We know furs as a diamond cutter knows his facets. You can make your purchase here in complete confidence that the style is right, the quality is right, and the price as low as is consistent with their fine workmanship and prime pelts. Your fur dollar gives you a sound investment for your money when you choose your coat from this unusual collection.

Our New York Furrier brings a Special Collection for your choosing --Thursday, Friday, and Saturday

Not just MARMOT, but mink-dyed let-out Marmot with push-up sleeves and back fullness.

Here are but a few styles from the collection which brings you every wanted fur and style . . .

Not just PERSIAN, but tightly-curled rich black Persian with shawl collar, ripple back, and leg-o-mutton sleeves.

Cumberland Nursing Pay Better Than The Average

In an effort to ascertain why so few girls are entering the nursing profession the Labor Department has conducted a survey of all branches of nursing in all states. Five words sum up what it found. "Hard work and low pay are the basic reasons for the current shortage of trained nurses."

Of course, that is hardly the case in Cumberland, although those engaged in the nursing profession may feel differently about it. Nursing rates here have increased over the years until today a white-garbed woman of mercy is receiving $8 for each "trick" she is engaged. Because of the continuing shortage of nurses, they can, if they wish, be employed all of the seven days per week, which gives them a gross income of $56. The public, to be sure, which is usually on the paying end, is inclined to think of nursing as a well-paid profession. At any rate, most persons know that it is mighty expensive business to have a trained nurse in the house or at a sick bed in the hospital for a week or two. And, if a patient requires three "specials" at the prevailing rate Cumberland nurses are paid the cost of $24 daily soon proves a tremendous financial burden for those making those payments.

So, Cumberland nurses can hold their head high in the face of the Bureau of Labor Standards survey which disclosed the average registered nurse gets $40 for a 44-hour week—a wage on a par with what lawn mowing and other unskilled labor is bringing in many parts of the country. The modern standards and considering the long course of training during which a student nurse must equip herself with the full knowledge of the human anatomy in order that she will be capable of serving and administering to every need of her patient, and be able to recognize at a glance the need of attention from the patient's surgeon or medical doctor, the $40 a week which the average nurse is reported to be earning is indeed on the low side.

The suggestion that the country can obtain more nurses by raising rates of nursing pay, while useful, is hardly a novel proposal. The survey brought out some other interesting points. It found that at least a quarter of the duty hours of the average hospital nurse were spent on such things as making beds, feeding patients, carrying trays, answering lights, and other duties which could be done just as efficiently by less well-trained personnel. But we question the wisdom of delegating these tasks to the less trained persons. It is necessary for nurses to be schooled in these matters so that when they graduate they will have that technique of doing those things with ease and with the least of annoyance to their patients.

Nurses also complained of lack of security against unemployment, poor living conditions and lack of provision for retirement. But the main answer seems to be that it will be necessary to make nursing more attractive and, where rates are low, pay them better if enough girls are to be induced to enter the profession to meet the nation's needs.

When young men now entering politics are accused of speaking through their hats, it will be understood that the term is figurative.

Another Police State

Behind the iron curtain, in country after country, Russia is showing her hand ever more boldly. The puppet governments in eastern Europe are in various stages of development toward becoming police states on the soviet pattern—but the process is being pushed. The recent coup d'etat in Hungary showed that. Now there is more proof from Romania.

At Bucharest the regime has announced the arrest of several leaders of the National Peasant Party, which has opposed the communist-dominated bloc. The official communique reveals the government for what it is—a tyrannical group of zealots who hold their power by virtue of force. For it admits that these men were seized because they "attempted to escape."

What about the charges against them? They are vague. The official statement says they were "full of hate for the popular democratic regime" and wanted to overthrow it, were "implicated in the criminal actions of elements hostile to the people," and were "afraid of the responsibilities before justice and the people's anger at the illegalities they have committed . . ." There is nothing specific on what these criminal actions or illegalities may have been.

Place the event against its background. For weeks the Romanian government has been arresting oppositionists without warrants and throwing them into concentration camps. The United States government has protested in vain against this terror. These men knew they were in danger because they had stood up for democratic institutions. The regime has now declared openly that there is a crime in Romania. So doing it has convicted itself, beyond all doubt, of being another copy of the Russian dictatorship.

Dewey's supporters are reported worried by Wallace's third party threat, and Truman's are not intrigued by the possibility.

An Effective Force

If anyone believes that retailers are principally concerned with how to dredge more dollars out of price-conscious consumers, he should read the reports of recent conventions and meetings attended by leaders in the merchandising field.

The most intense attention has been given to ways and means of preventing further price increases, and to reducing prices whenever possible. Equal attention has been given to the possibility of improving the quality of goods—which, if achieved, is in itself a form of price control.

In the day by day course of business, retailers have been working closely with manufacturers on these related problems of price and quality. The objective is to reduce costs in every possible direction—and to pass the saving on to the buyer.

It is difficult for the individual consumer to measure the results of these undertakings. All he knows is that the cost of many articles has continued to go up, and the cost of relatively few articles has come down. But it is unquestionably true that, had it not been for the work of the retailers, prices would have been substantially higher than they actually are. And this is a very positive achievement in the interest of the public pocketbook.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

GREEN-SICKNESS, AN OUTMODED DISEASE

AS CUSTOMS change, our way of living is altered and in the process our health is influenced for better or for worse. Sometimes new hazards are created. Conversely, with improvement in nutrition and sanitation, other diseases become less common and may disappear from the community entirely.

Forty years ago a peculiar form of anemia was encountered frequently among girls between the ages of 14 and 17. The complexion assumed a curious yellow-green tinge which accounted for its popular name, green-sickness. The condition, known medically as "chlorosis," caused breathlessness and palpitation of the heart on exertion. In severe cases, fainting was not unusual. It is little wonder that the victim feared that the heart or lungs might be involved.

The country lass was rarely afflicted but the city physician was quite familiar with the disorder, mainly among girls who were confined to small, badly lighted quarters. It was common for the petite, unmarried women of that day to lead a cloistered life. Sun and fresh air were taboo so that the skin would remain white; and dainty meals were preferred in order to keep the waistline slim. Apparently these factors made them more eligible as wives.

After marriage, however, color and strength returned. Perhaps this is the reason why the malady was dubbed "love sickness." Grandmother was not aware of the true cause but had one suggestion as an alternate to marriage which occasionally produced astonishing results. A sword, preferably of the Sir Lancelot type, was placed in a rain barrel for several days until the water became rusty. This crude iron solution was then administered to the patient.

We know now that the anemia of chlorosis was brought on by dietary deficiencies along with inadequate exercise and fresh air. After the girl married, she took advantage of her new freedom and had no need to keep a trim figure. Thus as she ate well and spent more time out of doors, the elements so necessary to build blood were acquired. Grandmother's idea of using rusty water was not too farfetched. If she were alive today, she would be surprised to see how quickly a simple iron salt could bring cure. Chlorosis, like some other varieties of anemia, responds readily to this metal.

Thus today the abnormality has almost vanished. Our young people eat balanced meals and spend much time in the sun. But in becoming more civilized, other hazards are arising. The strain of running a busy world encourages jitteriness and makes the blood pressure mount. Forty years ago, coronary thrombosis had not yet been described as a disease and 100,000 persons were not being killed in accidents annually.

These are but two of today's problems. But, as with many of the older ailments, the solution will undoubtedly be found. Must we change our mode of living or will our scientists discover an antidote in the form of a drug or diet to enable us to continue at our present pace?

SPATTERED HOSE

A. P. writes: What causes girls to spatter mud all over the back of the stockings on rainy days? I have no physical defects in my legs or feet but always have this trouble. This happens whether or not I wear rubbers and the size of the heels has no effect.

REPLY

This occurs so frequently that it cannot be blamed upon walking habits. The invention of a mudguard is not a medical problem and some one else will have to help you gals.

DEPRAVED APPETITE

Mrs. O. S. writes: What deficiency causes a child to pull out her own hair and that of her playmates and eat it?

REPLY

"Pica" is the word used to denote a condition such as this in which the subject has a perverted appetite. The disorder is seen more often in children and it generally indicates emotional immaturity rather than a dietary deficiency.

SENSITIVE TO MILK

L. B. writes: Is it possible for a person allergic to milk to work up a tolerance for it by starting with small amounts? Is there any drug which may be employed to aid in gaining tolerance?

REPLY

Randolph states that the method you describe is rarely effective. I know of no drug which will be helpful along this line. The antihistaminic preparations, such as benadryl, are not too successful in relieving the symptoms of food allergies.

NOT FOR ME

D. S. writes: Are there any benefits from taking cold showers in the morning?

REPLY

Some individuals think they are stimulating and add to their feeling of well being. In my opinion they represent a form of useless torture.

CUTTING OUT PERSPIRATION

U. F. writes: Will cutting the sweat glands stop perspiration?

REPLY

Yes, but the task would be formidable since the sweat glands are so numerous. You may refer to a sympathectomy in which the nerves leading to some of these structures are severed.

NOT ROUTINELY

K. A. writes: Is there pain in hernia?

REPLY

In the majority of cases the condition is painless except during periods of strain or in the presence of strangulation.

THE RIGHT KIND OF TAX BILL AT THE RIGHT TIME

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Representative Knutson, Chairman Of Ways And Means Committee, Begs For $25,000; Harry Truman Forgets Harsh Words Regarding Secretary Patterson

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Bull-headed Ways and Mean Chairman Harold Knutson, who has a habit of acting first and consulting his Committee afterward, recently stepped out too far. Without a word to the Committee or authorization from anyone, he appointed a special tax-study group, largely composed of Wall Street lobbyists, and generously promised that the Government would pay all their expenses.

But at a closed-door meeting the other day, the bumbling Minnesotan awkwardly begged the Committee's forgiveness.

"I exceeded my authority," he blurted. "I apologize to the Committee."

Then he asked the Committee to approve resolutions belatedly authorizing both his appointments to the tax-study group, and $25,000 for their expenses. A few stubborn Democrats, however, long annoyed over Knutson's arbitrary manner, balked.

"By what authority did you appoint this advisory committee?" pressed Rhode Island's Aime Forand.

"Technically I didn't have any," Knutson reddened. "I acted too hastily.

"It reminds me," he added weakly, "of the old saw, better late than never."

"Well, Harold, it looks like you're going to have to dig into your own jeans," needled another Democrat.

Forand pointed out that most of Knutson's appointees already had testified at Committee hearings and favored exactly the same tax legislation advocated by big business.

"I fail to see why we need to pay $25,000," he declared, "when we already have their views on record."

When Knutson made it plain that he intended to make no changes in the advisory group, Forand snapped: "This is merely a case of legalizing an illegal act taken several weeks ago."

After the discussion simmered down, Knutson turned to the Committee and spoke humbly: "It's up to you. I want you fellows to decide."

The committee decided, 18-4, to "save face" for their Chairman.

Here are some of the tax advisers for whom the taxpayers will now pay $25,000 for advice on future taxes: Roswell Magill, Wall Street tax lawyer; John L. Connolly, counsel for the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.; Cheever Cowdin, chairman Universal Pictures Transcontinental Air Transport; Carson Duncan, the American Association of Railroads; John Hanes, director of Pan American Airways, Sperry Gyroscope, Johns-Manville, U. S. Lines, Bankers Trust, and American Superpower.

Truman Loves

In Harry Truman's make-up runs a queer mixture of great magnanimity and petty vindictiveness. He can be as bighearted and forgiving as a Latter Day Saint, but he can also remember personal grudges even more diligently than Franklin Roosevelt.

For instance, most people who read the fulsome praise Truman heaped on Bob Patterson when he resigned as Secretary of War did not know that at one time Truman was so sore at Patterson he advised Roosevelt to fire him as undersecretary.

Truman's ire especially surged over the Canol oil project in Alaska which Truman regarded as wanton waste, and which Patterson staunchly defended. Newsmen who talked to Truman about Canol and its Army backers remember vividly how he boiled over.

Truman also hit the ceiling when he discovered the Army was covering up cracked airplane cylinders manufactured by Curtiss-Wright near Cincinnati. And when Patterson, who was in charge of all Army production, tried to defend the brass hats and explain away the cracked cylinders, the then Senator from Missouri seethed with indignation.

There was almost nothing too harsh for him to say about Patterson—at that time.

Last week, however, as Patterson stepped out of office Harry Truman, forgetting the past, turned on the magnanimity.

"It is hard for me to find proper words to describe your service to your country," he wrote. "It has been magnificent. I saw a great deal of your work when I was head of the Senate Committee to investigate the national defense program . . . How well you acquitted yourself!"

U. S. Going Through Same Kind Of Conditions As In The 1920s

By MARK SULLIVAN

In the Economic Report which President Truman sent to Congress this week, is one statement calling for emphasis as both news and history: "Our free economy has become today . . . the richest and most productive machine ever devised by the minds and the hands of men."

That statement, as made in the Economic Report, is not mere rhetorical exultation. It is a summation of facts which the Report states in detail: "We have surpassed previous high records of civilian production and are now producing goods and services at a rate of 225 billion dollars annually. . . . In January we reached a level of 60 million civilian jobs, regarded by many as impossible to attain. Our standard of living is exceptionally high, and purchasing power has thus far been adequate to absorb completely the enormous production of American farms, mines and factories. Farm income has attained a record level. The financial position of business is strong."

So much for the cheerful and the present. When the Economic Report turns to the future, its emphasis is in danger, danger of inflation.

As this report pictures the condition, America is walking a tightrope across a pit. If we slip, we fall into the pit, which is catastrophic inflation. But if we cross successfully we can, in the view of the report, make our present prosperity more or less permanent.

That is the Report's vision. In putting it forward the Report assumes that the degree of inflation which has already taken place will remain: "A large part of the increase in prices since 1940 has become embedded in the cost and income structure of the economy." "We are in the process of seeking to find a workable pattern of income and price relationships on a new price-level."

Acceptance by the Administration of the present price-level as a basis for future policy is in itself an important event, regardless of whether or not it is possible to realize the vision which this Economic Report holds out.

In dealing with the danger of inflation, the Economic Report reflects a characteristic point of view of the Truman Administration. Among conditions which might cause "a new inflationary push" the report mentions the recent wage raise in coal. The Report says it is a "major question" whether this "will give impetus" to other wage demands. "If so, it could lead to a more or less general wage-price spiral."

To this danger, the principal answer given by Mr. Truman's Economic Report is a scolding admonition to business: "Coal operators now have opportunity to demonstrate the efficiency of private management." "Every effort should be made to absorb the increases. . . . through reduction in profit margins." This part of Mr. Truman's report, like a previous formal statement he issued after the wage raise in coal, seems to seek to put responsibility for the economic consequence on one branch of our economy, business.

Throughout the Report, there is reticence on the part played in price increases, in the part or in future, by labor, by agriculture, and by Administration policies. This does not prevent the Report from being a valuable factual statement and analysis covering a wide range of the economy of a nation which is experiencing a production of goods never before attained.

In caution it is necessary to remember that, following the First World War, during the 1920s, we had the same experience, an unparalleled production and prosperity, which at the time was frequently described as an "economic miracle."

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Expression

It is the duty, and indeed the God-given privilege of us all to be expressive. By look, voice, or act. It is the life of us all. If there is no expression there is no life. One simple expression in words has often carried a man's fame down the years into limitless history.

Said Stevenson: "There are not words enough in all Shakespeare to express the merest fraction of a man's experience in an hour." Ambrose Bierce wrote one of the greatest of American short stories, called "An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge." Yet the entire story is confined to but the few seconds that elapsed at the time of a man's hanging during the Civil War.

We would dry up in mind and soul if we did not express ourselves. Expression is our outlet. Expression is breath and growth, as well. Nature in action. The bird, bursting forth in song, the animal romping and playing, or uttering its cry of expression, its happiness in being alive. The interesting personality is that one which expresses itself in a variety of ways and moods.

All about us are examples of expression. In books, works of art, useful utensils, and wondrous inventions are to be found the expression of men and women. The living touch of genius is to be noted.

I recently visited a home where the owner had taken great interest in his beautiful garden of flowers. I looked upon each pathway, each arrangement of beds, and upon all the many varieties of shrubs and flowers as an expression of himself, though he was a noted lawyer and a lover of books. Both he and his wife combined their love of expression in this unique garden of theirs.

Everything, it sometimes seems, shows in the face. Happiness, anger, confidence, joy, hope, pleasure, surprise, and many other expressions stand out like printed signs there. No words need be spoken. The mere expression speaks louder, and more pronouncedly, than words.

The aim of us all should be to express ourselves, in as honest a fashion as we know, regardless of others, and not to worry as to the result. The result will be all right.

Political Argument In Truman's Economic Report Adulterates It

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Some splendid statements of economic reasoning are to be found in the midyear economic report transmitted by President Truman to Congress but unfortunately someone at the White House has interspersed just enough political argument, designed presumably for the 1948 campaign, to adulterate the whole document.

It is unfortunate that Congress has not passed legislation requiring that the report of the non-political economic advisers appointed under the full employment act be transmitted to Congress unedited by the White House politicians. Such a step would be constructive and would be received in the future.

Thus, it is not customary for economists to argue as this report does that, after all, John Lewis's coal contract wasn't inflationary, or that the President had a considerable influence on the price situation, or that the removal of OPA controls last year didn't result at the time in the increases of production that were claimed.

Political Reasoning Used

All the reasoning of a political nature could well have been omitted and the midyear report would nevertheless have been a valuable document. If the Democratic National Committee needs to have the report written in a certain way, then the public ought to be informed which is political puff and which is the analysis by the impartial economists. Incidentally, these experts cannot protest, because the document doesn't purport to be their work but merely the President's own economic report. In his letter to Congress he mixes up the political and the economic advice in this sentence:

"In preparing this report I have had the advice and the assistance of the Council of Economic Advisers, members of the Cabinet and the heads of independent agencies."

Such an over-all letter of transmittal makes it difficult for the Council of Economic Advisers to object since nowhere in the letter is there any statement of what parts came from the political cabinet and what parts came from the economic advisers.

There is in the President's edited version of the report several sentences of a politically defensive nature inserted obviously to answer criticism or to defend action taken.

Incidentally, Mr. Truman's political henchmen map find that one paragraph in the report will boomerang some day. Thus, the President is represented as saying:

"Month by month there has been talk of recession; month by month recession has failed to materialize."

This gives the impression that those who have been warning about a correction of the economic situation were wrong. Later on in the same report, however, significant warnings are given indicating that perhaps the recession may come after all. Thus the report adds in a subsequent paragraph:

"We must remember that full employment at a high price level is being sustained at present by the reconversion demands of business and the backlog demands of consumers, by extensive savings and credit, and by an extraordinary excess of exports over imports. These are temporary props to our economic system. As they weaken, we shall need to make basic readjustments to complete the transition to a permanently stable and maximum peacetime economy."

Conceals Fears of Recession

These are carefully chosen words to conceal the fears of a recession, in fact to camouflage the virtual certainty that there will be one. Economists should not mince words and mislead the country by optimism in one paragraph and protective phrases in the next saying the opposite.

Back in the summer of 1929 this correspondent recalls how certain influential persons were saying publicly that there would be no recession and how a courageous and non-political body such as the Federal Reserve Board told the American people, beginning in April 1929, the unvarnished facts. Something of the same courage is needed now but the White House apparently has got itself into such a fix by refusing to change the tax rates that when a recession does come it may be too late to make the "basic readjustments" which the Administration thinks it can apply overnight, presumably, to cushion our economic system against some severe jolts.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

THE VOICE OF AMERICA

THE test of any public relations policy or propaganda it its effectiveness. Great experts can sit about a council table spoting on what should be done, profoundly discussing great plans, or making presentations, as they call it. But if it all defeats the intended objectives, the job is badly done, no matter who does it.

For instance, Nelson Rockefeller made a terrific to-do and spent huge amounts of the taxpayers' money on what was sloganized into "The Good Neighbor Policy." The objective of this activity was to make Central and South American countries friendly to the United States. Or was it that? At any rate, we come out of the war with The Argentine and most of the Central and South American countries not a little suspicious of the great American benefactor.

Similarly the OWI was a great government agency to tell the world about the United States. Apparently, it told them everything but that. It worked to convince the Europeans that Soviet Russia was a democratic and peace-loving country—and the United States paid for that.

When the OWI was abolished, its functions together with some of its personnel were transferred to the State Department. At the head of the enterprise was placed William Benton, formerly of Benton and Bowles, advertising men in New York who had handled big accounts. The assumption was that an advertising man, who could by slogans and jingles make the American people chew a particular kind of breakfast food, could by similar devices make the world love America.

Maybe it is an impossible task. Maybe debtors never can love their creditor. Maybe poor and starving nations can never forgive a rich and prosperous nation, the fact is that whatever it was that William Benton undertook to do, there is little evidence that it has been done.

Mr. Benton's job is to win friends for this country in Europe and Asia. He has devised what he calls "The Voice of America," a radio short-wave propaganda program. It seems to get nowhere.

Mr. Benton and the State Department ask for large appropriations for his office on the ground that the Russians spend lots of money. His opponents point to the fact that while there is a powerful pro-Russian party in the United States, including members of Congress, there is no evidence that there is a pro-American party in Russia. The answer to that is either that it cannot be done—then why spend the money; or that it is badly done—then why not change both the method and the personnel?

J. H. Huizinga once made an interesting point about Goebbels. He said:

". . . His political principles were not afraid to recognize that foreign policy is but the continuation of war by other means. And it was this fundamental intellectual honesty underlying German foreign policy which placed their propagandists in such a favourable position. It allowed them to conduct a psychological warfare, where others could make only vague propaganda or, better, information. It freed them from the moral restraints . . . It enabled them . . . to tell not only whopping big lies but, even more effective propaganda, whooping big truths."

Of course, it is questionable whether Americans want to engage in and such activity or could do it if they tried. We are not good liars. Maybe that is why Archibald MacLeish, Elmer Davis, Nelson Rockefeller and William Benton have failed in a field where lying is so much a part of the job. In fact, among a free people, lying is almost impossible, for someone somewhere will call attention to the lie.

At any rate, the general feeling among the Republicans in Congress is that Benton, like his predecessors, has failed and that he ought to quit or be fired. They generally feel that he had handled his job with that distant look of the great New York executive who leaves details to his juniors, and they do not like many of his juniors.

Congressman Fred E. Busbey put it all succinctly when he said: ". . . To defend ourselves we should first of all make a thorough housecleaning and liquidation of the present monstrosity in the State Department . . ." This job needs a thorough study by competent men. That has never been done.

It Says Here

Snap-happy amateur photographers are popping up everywhere these days and they'll do anything to get a good candid shot. They patrol the streets with shutters raised and a mad gleam in their eyes looking for interesting subjects. If anyone should get hit by a car they come rushing up, yelling, "Don't just lie there . . . smile!"

And they go for those really exciting action shots . . . athletes hurtling through the air . . . race horses dashing across the finish line . . . women making for seats on the sunset bus.

They'll use anything for a darkroom. Now when you want to make a phone call you not only have to wait for the buzzing signal but for the camera fiend inside the booth to develop his film.

But they're not satified with just any old pose. They want you hanging from the third balcony or biting the neighbor's dog.

I don't mind having my picture taken unawares but when a guy sticks his head out of my refrigerator and complains about the bad light, that's too much!

I went in for photography myself once but I had to give it up. Every time I got my camera set up, they pulled down the shades.

It all started when I overheard two guys talking about something that was "well developed and overexposed?"

How'd I know they meant film?

Cumberland Nursing Pay Better Than The Average

In an effort to ascertain why so few girls are entering the nursing profession the Labor Department has conducted a survey of all branches of nursing in all states. Five words sum up what it found. "Hard work and low pay are the basic reasons for the current shortage of trained nurses."

Of course, that is hardly the case in Cumberland, although those engaged in the nursing profession may feel differently about it. Nursing rates here have increased over the years until today a white-garbed woman of mercy is receiving $8 for each "trick" she is engaged. Because of the continuing shortage of nurses, they can, if they wish, be employed all of the seven days per week, which gives them a gross income of $56. The public, to be sure, which is usually on the paying end, is inclined to think of nursing as a well-paid profession. At any rate, most persons know that it is mighty expensive business to have a trained nurse in the house or at a sick bed in the hospital for a week or two. And, if a patient requires three "specials" at the prevailing rate Cumberland nurses are paid the cost of $24 daily soon proves a tremendous financial burden for those making those payments.

So, Cumberland nurses can hold their head high in the face of the Bureau of Labor Standards survey which disclosed the average registered nurse gets $40 for a 44-hour week—a wage on a par with what lawn mowing and other unskilled labor is bringing in many parts of the country. The modern standards and considering the long course of training during which a student nurse must equip herself with the full knowledge of the human anatomy in order that she will be capable of serving and administering to every need of her patient, and be able to recognize at a glance the need of attention from the patient's surgeon or medical doctor, the $40 a week which the average nurse is reported to be earning is indeed on the low side.

The suggestion that the country can obtain more nurses by raising rates of nursing pay, while useful, is hardly a novel proposal. The survey brought out some other interesting points. It found that at least a quarter of the duty hours of the average hospital nurse were spent on such things as making beds, feeding patients, carrying trays, answering lights, and other duties which could be done just as efficiently by less well-trained personnel. But we question the wisdom of delegating these tasks to the less trained persons. It is necessary for nurses to be schooled in these matters so that when they graduate they will have that technique of doing those things with ease and with the least of annoyance to their patients.

Nurses also complained of lack of security against unemployment, poor living conditions and lack of provision for retirement. But the main answer seems to be that it will be necessary to make nursing more attractive and, where rates are low, pay them better if enough girls are to be induced to enter the profession to meet the nation's needs.

When young men now entering politics are accused of speaking through their hats, it will be understood that the term is figurative.

Another Police State

Behind the iron curtain, in country after country, Russia is showing her hand ever more boldly. The puppet governments in eastern Europe are in various stages of development toward becoming police states on the soviet pattern—but the process is being pushed. The recent coup d'etat in Hungary showed that. Now there is more proof from Romania.

At Bucharest the regime has announced the arrest of several leaders of the National Peasant Party, which has opposed the communist-dominated bloc. The official communique reveals the government for what it is—a tyrannical group of zealots who hold their power by virtue of force. For it admits that these men were seized because they "attempted to escape."

What about the charges against them? They are vague. The official statement says they were "full of hate for the popular democratic regime" and wanted to overthrow it, were "implicated in the criminal actions of elements hostile to the people," and were "afraid of the responsibilities before justice and the people's anger at the illegalities they have committed . . ." There is nothing specific on what these criminal actions or illegalities may have been.

Place the event against its background. For weeks the Romanian government has been arresting oppositionists without warrants and throwing them into concentration camps. The United States government has protested in vain against this terror. These men knew they were in danger because they had stood up for democratic institutions. The regime has now declared openly that there is a crime in Romania. So doing it has convicted itself, beyond all doubt, of being another copy of the Russian dictatorship.

These are but two of today's problems. But, as with many of the older ailments, the solution will undoubtedly be found. Must we change our mode of living or will our scientists discover an antidote in the form of a drug or diet to enable us to continue at our present pace?

SPATTERED HOSE

A. P. writes: What causes girls to spatter mud all over the back of the stockings on rainy days? I have no physical defects in my legs or feet but always have this trouble. This happens whether or not I wear rubbers and the size of the heels has no effect.

REPLY

This occurs so frequently that it cannot be blamed upon walking habits. The invention of a mudguard is not a medical problem and some one else will have to help you gals.

DEPRAVED APPETITE

Mrs. O. S. writes: What deficiency causes a child to pull out her own hair and that of her playmates and eat it?

REPLY

"Pica" is the word used to denote a condition such as this in which the subject has a perverted appetite. The disorder is seen more often in children and it generally indicates emotional immaturity rather than a dietary deficiency.

SENSITIVE TO MILK

L. B. writes: Is it possible for a person allergic to milk to work up a tolerance for it by starting with small amounts? Is there any drug which may be employed to aid in gaining tolerance?

REPLY

Randolph states that the method you describe is rarely effective. I know of no drug which will be helpful along this line. The antihistaminic preparations, such as benadryl, are not too successful in relieving the symptoms of food allergies.

NOT FOR ME

D. S. writes: Are there any benefits from taking cold showers in the morning?

REPLY

Some individuals think they are stimulating and add to their feeling of well being. In my opinion they represent a form of useless torture.

CUTTING OUT PERSPIRATION

U. F. writes: Will cutting the sweat glands stop perspiration?

REPLY

Yes, but the task would be formidable since the sweat glands are so numerous. You may refer to a sympathectomy in which the nerves leading to some of these structures are severed.

NOT ROUTINELY

K. A. writes: Is there pain in hernia?

REPLY

In the majority of cases the condition is painless except during periods of strain or in the presence of strangulation.

THE RIGHT KIND OF TAX BILL AT THE RIGHT TIME

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Representative Knutson, Chairman Of Ways And Means Committee, Begs For $25,000; Harry Truman Forgets Harsh Words Regarding Secretary Patterson

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Bull-headed Ways and Mean Chairman Harold Knutson, who has a habit of acting first and consulting his Committee afterward, recently stepped out too far. Without a word to the Committee or authorization from anyone, he appointed a special tax-study group, largely composed of Wall Street lobbyists, and generously promised that the Government would pay all their expenses.

But at a closed-door meeting the other day, the bumbling Minnesotan awkwardly begged the Committee's forgiveness.

"I exceeded my authority," he blurted. "I apologize to the Committee."

Then he asked the Committee to approve resolutions belatedly authorizing both his appointments to the tax-study group, and $25,000 for their expenses. A few stubborn Democrats, however, long annoyed over Knutson's arbitrary manner, balked.

"By what authority did you appoint this advisory committee?" pressed Rhode Island's Aime Forand.

"Technically I didn't have any," Knutson reddened. "I acted too hastily.

"It reminds me," he added weakly, "of the old saw, better late than never."

"Well, Harold, it looks like you're going to have to dig into your own jeans," needled another Democrat.

Forand pointed out that most of Knutson's appointees already had testified at Committee hearings and favored exactly the same tax legislation advocated by big business.

"I fail to see why we need to pay $25,000," he declared, "when we already have their views on record."

When Knutson made it plain that he intended to make no changes in the advisory group, Forand snapped: "This is merely a case of legalizing an illegal act taken several weeks ago."

After the discussion simmered down, Knutson turned to the Committee and spoke humbly: "It's up to you. I want you fellows to decide."

The committee decided, 18-4, to "save face" for their Chairman.

Here are some of the tax advisers for whom the taxpayers will now pay $25,000 for advice on future taxes: Roswell Magill, Wall Street tax lawyer; John L. Connolly, counsel for the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.; Cheever Cowdin, chairman Universal Pictures Transcontinental Air Transport; Carson Duncan, the American Association of Railroads; John Hanes, director of Pan American Airways, Sperry Gyroscope, Johns-Manville, U. S. Lines, Bankers Trust, and American Superpower.

Truman Loves

In Harry Truman's make-up runs a queer mixture of great magnanimity and petty vindictiveness. He can be as bighearted and forgiving as a Latter Day Saint, but he can also remember personal grudges even more diligently than Franklin Roosevelt.

For instance, most people who read the fulsome praise Truman heaped on Bob Patterson when he resigned as Secretary of War did not know that at one time Truman was so sore at Patterson he advised Roosevelt to fire him as undersecretary.

Truman's ire especially surged over the Canol oil project in Alaska which Truman regarded as wanton waste, and which Patterson staunchly defended. Newsmen who talked to Truman about Canol and its Army backers remember vividly how he boiled over.

Truman also hit the ceiling when he discovered the Army was covering up cracked airplane cylinders manufactured by Curtiss-Wright near Cincinnati. And when Patterson, who was in charge of all Army production, tried to defend the brass hats and explain away the cracked cylinders, the then Senator from Missouri seethed with indignation.

There was almost nothing too harsh for him to say about Patterson—at that time.

Last week, however, as Patterson stepped out of office Harry Truman, forgetting the past, turned on the magnanimity.

"It is hard for me to find proper words to describe your service to your country," he wrote. "It has been magnificent. I saw a great deal of your work when I was head of the Senate Committee to investigate the national defense program . . . How well you acquitted yourself!"

U.S. Going Through Same Kind Of Conditions As In The 1920s

By MARK SULLIVAN

In the Economic Report which President Truman sent to Congress this week, is one statement calling for emphasis as both news and history: "Our free economy has become today . . . the richest and most productive machine ever devised by the minds and the hands of men."

That statement, as made in the Economic Report, is not mere rhetorical exultation. It is a summation of facts which the Report states in detail: "We have surpassed previous high records of civilian production and are now producing goods and services at a rate of 225 billion dollars annually. . . . In January we reached a level of 60 million civilian jobs, regarded by many as impossible to attain. Our standard of living is exceptionally high, and purchasing power has thus far been adequate to absorb completely the enormous production of American farms, mines and factories. Farm income has attained a record level. The financial position of business is strong."

So much for the cheerful and the present. When the Economic Report turns to the future, its emphasis is in danger, danger of inflation.

As this report pictures the condition, America is walking a tightrope across a pit. If we slip, we fall into the pit, which is catastrophic inflation. But if we cross successfully we can, in the view of the report, make our present prosperity more or less permanent.

That is the Report's vision. In putting it forward the Report assumes that the degree of inflation which has already taken place will remain: "A large part of the increase in prices since 1940 has become embedded in the cost and income structure of the economy." "We are in the process of seeking to find a workable pattern of income and price relationships on a new price-level."

Acceptance by the Administration of the present price-level as a basis for future policy is in itself an important event, regardless of whether or not it is possible to realize the vision which this Economic Report holds out.

In dealing with the danger of inflation, the Economic Report reflects a characteristic point of view of the Truman Administration. Among conditions which might cause "a new inflationary push" the report mentions the recent wage raise in coal. The Report says it is a "major question" whether this "will give impetus" to other wage demands. "If so, it could lead to a more or less general wage-price spiral."

To this danger, the principal answer given by Mr. Truman's Economic Report is a scolding admonition to business: "Coal operators now have opportunity to demonstrate the efficiency of private management." "Every effort should be made to absorb the increases, . . . through reduction in profit margins." This part of Mr. Truman's report, like a previous formal statement he issued after the wage raise in coal, seems to seek to put responsibility for the economic consequence on one branch of our economy, business.

Throughout the Report, there is reticence on the part played in price increases, in the part or in future, by labor, by agriculture, and by Administration policies. This does not prevent the Report from being a valuable factual statement and analysis covering a wide range of the economy of a nation which is experiencing a production of goods never before attained.

In caution it is necessary to remember that, following the First World War, during the 1920s, we had the same experience, an unparalleled production and prosperity, which at the time was frequently described as an "economic miracle."

Today's Talk

Expression

It is the duty, and indeed the God-given privilege of us all to be expressive. By look, voice, or act. It is the life of us all. If there is no expression there is no life. One simple expression in words has often carried a man's fame down the years into limitless history.

Said Stevenson: "There are not words enough in all Shakespeare to express the merest fraction of a man's experience in an hour." Ambrose Bierce wrote one of the greatest of American short stories, called "An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge." Yet the entire story is confined to but the few seconds that elapsed at the time of a man's hanging during the Civil War.

We would dry up in mind and soul if we did not express ourselves. Expression is our outlet. Expression is breath and growth, as well. Nature in action. The bird, bursting forth in song, the animal romping and playing, or uttering its cry of expression, its happiness in being alive. The interesting personality is that one which expresses itself in a variety of ways and moods.

All about us are examples of expression. In books, works of art, useful utensils, and wondrous inventions are to be found the expression of men and women. The living touch of genius is to be noted.

I recently visited a home where the owner had taken great interest in his beautiful garden of flowers. I looked upon each pathway, each arrangement of beds, and upon all the many varieties of shrubs and flowers as an expression of himself, though he was a noted lawyer and a lover of books. Both he and his wife combined their love of expression in this unique garden of theirs.

Everything, it sometimes seems, shows in the face. Happiness, anger, confidence, joy, hope, pleasure, surprise, and many other expressions stand out like printed signs there. No words need be spoken. The mere expression speaks louder, and more pronouncedly, than words.

The aim of us all should be to express ourselves, in as honest a fashion as we know, regardless of others, and not to worry as to the result. The result will be all right.

Political Argument In Truman's Economic Report Adulterates It

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Some splendid statements of economic reasoning are to be found in the midyear economic report transmitted by President Truman to Congress but unfortunately someone at the White House has interspersed just enough political argument, designed presumably for the 1948 campaign, to adulterate the whole document.

It is unfortunate that Congress has not passed legislation requiring that the report of the non-political economic advisers appointed under the full employment act be transmitted to Congress unedited by the White House politicians. Such a step would be constructive and would be received in the future.

Thus, it is not customary for economists to argue as this report does that, after all, John Lewis's coal contract wasn't inflationary, or that the President had a considerable influence on the price situation, or that the removal of OPA controls last year didn't result at the time in the increases of production that were claimed.

Political Reasoning Used

All the reasoning of a political nature could well have been omitted and the midyear report would nevertheless have been a valuable document. If the Democratic National Committee needs to have the report written in a certain way, then the public ought to be informed which is political puff and which is the analysis by the impartial economists. Incidentally, these experts cannot protest, because the document doesn't purport to be their work but merely the President's own economic report. In his letter to Congress he mixes up the political and the economic advice in this sentence:

"In preparing this report I have had the advice and the assistance of the Council of Economic Advisers, members of the Cabinet and the heads of independent agencies."

Such an over-all letter of transmittal makes it difficult for the Council of Economic Advisers to object since nowhere in the letter is there any statement of what parts came from the political cabinet and what parts came from the economic advisers.

There is in the President's edited version of the report several sentences of a politically defensive nature inserted obviously to answer criticism or to defend action taken.

Incidentally, Mr. Truman's political henchmen map find that one paragraph in the report will boomerang some day. Thus, the President is represented as saying:

"Month by month there has been talk of recession; month by month recession has failed to materialize."

This gives the impression that those who have been warning about a correction of the economic situation were wrong. Later on in the same report, however, significant warnings are given indicating that perhaps the recession may come after all. Thus the report adds in a subsequent paragraph:

"We must remember that full employment at a high price level is being sustained at present by the reconversion demands of business and the backlog demands of consumers, by extensive savings and credit, and by an extraordinary excess of exports over imports. These are temporary props to our economic system. As they weaken, we shall need to make basic readjustments to complete the transition to a permanently stable and maximum peacetime economy."

Conceals Fears of Recession

These are carefully chosen words to conceal the fears of a recession, in fact to camouflage the virtual certainty that there will be one. Economists should not mince words and mislead the country by optimism in one paragraph and protective phrases in the next saying the opposite.

Back in the summer of 1929 this correspondent recalls how certain influential persons were saying publicly that there would be no recession and how a courageous and non-political body such as the Federal Reserve Board told the American people, beginning in April 1929, the unvarnished facts. Something of the same courage is needed now but the White House apparently has got itself into such a fix by refusing to change the tax rates that when a recession does come it may be too late to make the "basic readjustments" which the Administration thinks it can apply overnight, presumably, to cushion our economic system against some severe jolts.

THESE DAYS

THE VOICE OF AMERICA

THE test of any public relations policy or propaganda it its effectiveness. Great experts can sit about a council table spoting on what should be done, profoundly discussing great plans, or making presentations, as they call it. But if it all defeats the intended objectives, the job is badly done, no matter who does it.

For instance, Nelson Rockefeller made a terrific to-do and spent huge amounts of the taxpayers' money on what was sloganized into "The Good Neighbor Policy." The objective of this activity was to make Central and South American countries friendly to the United States. Or was it that? At any rate, we come out of the war with The Argentine and most of the Central and South American countries not a little suspicious of the great American benefactor.

Similarly the OWI was a great government agency to tell the world about the United States. Apparently, it told them everything but that. It worked to convince the Europeans that Soviet Russia was a democratic and peace-loving country—and the United States paid for that.

When the OWI was abolished, its functions together with some of its personnel were transferred to the State Department. At the head of the enterprise was placed William Benton, formerly of Benton and Bowles, advertising men in New York who had handled big accounts. The assumption was that an advertising man, who could by slogans and jingles make the American people chew a particular kind of breakfast food, could by similar devices make the world love America.

Maybe it is an impossible task. Maybe debtors never can love their creditor. Maybe poor and starving nations can never forgive a rich and prosperous nation, the fact is that whatever it was that William Benton undertook to do, there is little evidence that it has been done.

Mr. Benton's job is to win friends for this country in Europe and Asia. He has devised what he calls "The Voice of America," a radio short-wave propaganda program. It seems to get nowhere.

Mr. Benton and the State Department ask for large appropriations for his office on the ground that the Russians spend lots of money. His opponents point to the fact that while there is a powerful pro-Russian party in the United States, including members of Congress, there is no evidence that there is a pro-American party in Russia. The answer to that is either that it cannot be done—then why spend the money; or that it is badly done—then why not change both the method and the personnel?

J. H. Huizinga once made an interesting point about Goebbels. He said:

". . . His political principles were not afraid to recognize that foreign policy is but the continuation of war by other means. And it was this fundamental intellectual honesty underlying German foreign policy which placed their propagandists in such a favourable position. It allowed them to conduct a psychological warfare, where others could make only vague propaganda or, better, information. It freed them from the moral restraints . . . It enabled them . . . to tell not only whopping big lies but, even more effective propaganda, whooping big truths."

Of course, it is questionable whether Americans want to engage in and such activity or could do it if they tried. We are not good liars. Maybe that is why Archibald MacLeish, Elmer Davis, Nelson Rockefeller and William Benton have failed in a field where lying is so much a part of the job. In fact, among a free people, lying is almost impossible, for someone somewhere will call attention to the lie.

At any rate, the general feeling among the Republicans in Congress is that Benton, like his predecessors, has failed and that he ought to quit or be fired. They generally feel that he had handled his job with that distant look of the great New York executive who leaves details to his juniors, and they do not like many of his juniors.

Congressman Fred E. Busbey put it all succinctly when he said: ". . . To defend ourselves we should first of all make a thorough housecleaning and liquidation of the present monstrosity in the State Department . . ." This job needs a thorough study by competent men. That has never been done.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Snap-happy amateur photographers are popping up everywhere these days and they'll do anything to get a good candid shot. They patrol the streets with shutters raised and a mad gleam in their eyes looking for interesting subjects. If anyone should get hit by a car they come rushing up, yelling, "Don't just lie there . . . smile!"

And they go for those really exciting action shots . . . athletes hurtling through the air . . . race horses dashing across the finish line . . . women making for seats on the sunset bus.

They'll use anything for a darkroom. Now when you want to make a phone call you not only have to wait for the buzzing signal but for the camera fiend inside the booth to develop his film.

But they're not satified with just any old pose. They want you hanging from the third balcony or biting the neighbor's dog.

I don't mind having my picture taken unawares but when a guy sticks his head out of my refrigerator and complains about the bad light, that's too much!

I went in for photography myself once but I had to give it up. Every time I got my camera set up, they pulled down the shades.

It all started when I overheard two guys talking about something that was "well developed and overexposed?"

How'd I know they meant film?

Ship Discharging Jews At Haifa Is Sunk By Explosion

British Vessel Was Used In Deportations

JERUSALEM, July 23—(AP)—The former Liberty ship Empire Lifeguard was sunk in Haifa harbor by an internal explosion today while discharging legal Jewish immigrants from Cyprus. It apparently was a blow of revenge for the ship's part in deportations of would-be immigrants.

While divers installed pumps and salvage crews went to work with hopes of raising her, Jewish sources voiced fears that the British military may crack down harder on all Jewry as a result of the new terror offensive which in the past week has taken a toll of eight killed and more than 60 wounded.

Jewish leaders recalled that a little over a year ago, on June 29, the army suddenly occupied Jewish institutions and rounded up a number of Jewry's most prominent leaders here after several weeks of violence flaring from the underground.

Time Bomb Explosion Muffled

The Empire Lifeguard, one of four ships used to haul would-be immigrants from Palestine to Cyprus when their ships are intercepted by the British navy, went down when a time bomb ripped a hole three by six feet in her bottom. Since the bomb was placed far below the waterline, the explosion was muffled, resembling the depth charges which are intermittently dropped in the harbor to discourage attacks by "frogmen." Consequently, the first alarm was not given until the ship began to sink.

The Lifeguard had brought 261 immigrants from Cyprus and had discharged all but 40 or 50. These were taken off safely.

Believed Work Of Hagana

The pattern of the attack suggested that it was the work of Hagana, the illegal Jewish militia which has undertaken the organization of immigration against British wishes.

This was the fourth attack on a deportation ship. The first was last August, when "frogmen", or underwater swimmers, attached a mine to the hull of one of the Lifeguard's sister ships, the Empire Riva. The damage was slight. Last April an internal explosion blew a hole in the bottom of the Ocean Vigour in Cyprus harbor, filling the hold with water. The following night the Empire Rival was blasted again while en route from Haifa to Port Said, causing her to take considerable water.

There were no casualties in any of the attacks, all of which have been attributed to Hagana.

Father Drinks Poison As Five Children Watch

SALISBURY, Md., July 23 (AP)—Edward Lee Long, 40-year-old State Department worker, seeing five of his children playing in the yard, called them into the house and told them he was going to kill himself.

He drank a bottle of poison while the children watched, and died an hour later last night in Peninsula General Hospital.

Long, father of seven children, had been employed by the Salisbury Street Department for several years.

Police who answered frantic call from the children said Long did not give them a reason for drinking the poison.

Dr. Charles T. Fish, assistant deputy medical examiner for Wicomico County, returned a verdict of suicide.

State Given Warning On Pollution Patrolling

BALTIMORE, July 23—(AP)—John E. Clark, chairman of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission, said today the United States Public Health Service had warned the State of Maryland to "do something better" to patrol polluted waterways.

Clark told the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission, of which he is a member, that patrolling must meet federal standards before Maryland seafood products can be certified for sale.

Meeting today in Baltimore, the commission also heard a warning from Dr. Robert H. Riley, state director of health, that sanitary conditions in seafood packing houses must be improved. Riley said his department had been advised that unless conditions were improved, the Public Health Service would withdraw the state's right to approve marketing permits.

Temporary Truce In Resort Dispute

OCEAN CITY, Md., July 23—(AP)—There was a temporary truce today in the tense controversy between Mayor Daniel Trimper and his three city councilmen.

Slot machines, pin wheels, bingo games and the other gambling dodges, which provide the Atlantic resort's chief amusement back of the beach, went merrily on.

The councilmen said there wasn't any connection between their differences with the Mayor and a furore which has been whipped up over gambling and protests that unlicensed dealers have been selling liquor.

The Mayor asked them point blank if it was "me or the liquor" when he walked out of an impromptu meeting with the council last night. He said the three councilmen were trying to make him the "goat" and clumped down the stairs. The three councilmen said they didn't know what letter he might have in mind.

The Mayor's leave-taking came after Councilman G. Lester Esham "temporarily" withdrew the letter of resignation which he composed last Saturday and mailed Monday morning.

He said he put the letter in the mail before he saw the first newspaper story, which called attention to the prevalence of slot machines and gambling games along the boardwalk.

Esham said he was withdrawing his resignation because by "pure coincidence" with the gambling stories it had caused unexpected and unfavorable publicity.

He was indicted earlier today by a federal grand jury in Washington on six counts of perjury before the House Labor Committee last March 1, during which he denied any affiliation with Communists or the Communist Party.

Stassen Says Marshall Plan Clash Is Competition Between Ideologies

DES MOINES, July 23 (AP)—Refusal of Russia and eight other European countries to join in the Paris conference on the Marshall plan presages "the greatest basic competition in all history," former Gov. Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, said tonight.

"We are to be engaged in a continuing major competition and clash of economic systems and ideologies," Stassen said in a prepared address to the opening session of the 21st International Sunday School Convention.

Stassen, an announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, is president of the International Council of Religious Education which is sponsoring the convention attended by more than 5,000 persons representing 40 denominations, 48 states, and eight foreign lands.

Stassen told the delegates that "we are entering the decade which may well determine whether we can have a lasting peace or a third world war" and said the moral foundation of Americans "is of prime importance" in the outcome.

Describing the clash between the United States and the 16 European nations co-operating on the Marshall plan with the nine European nations, including Russia, which declined to join, Stassen said:

"It is a competition between the ideology of materialism sponsored by Communists, which denies the fatherhood of God, depreciates the worth of the individual human being, and worships the things of the earth controlled by rulers of men, as opposed to an ideology based on the fundamental concepts of our religious beliefs, humbly recognizing the fatherhood of God, emphasizing the worth and dignity of the individual human being, safeguarding individual freedom, and teaching service and compassion and mercy."

Stassen said the competition does not inevitably lead to war and that it "need not unavoidably be decided by force."

Baltimore Harbor Yields Woman's Trussed Body

BALTIMORE, July 23 (AP)—The nude body of a woman, trussed in canvas wrappings weighted with 83 pounds of iron and lead, was found floating in the lower harbor today.

Dr. George Nerrill, deputy Baltimore City medical examiner, said death apparently came by drowning. The woman's jaw was fractured in two places and her cheek bones were broken, he reported after an autopsy. The post-mortem failed to disclose a head wound which preliminary examination had indicated.

The body had been in the water from two to eight weeks, he said.

Baltimore County police theorized the woman had been beaten into unconsciousness, wrapped and bound in the weighted sack and thrown into the harbor while still alive.

Lt. Carroll Simmons, of the county force, said "there is not a single doubt it could be anything but murder."

He said the woman was between 32 and 35, of medium stature, and had long, light brown hair.

Delegates Shelve Atom Veto Issue

LAKE SUCCESS, July 23 (AP)—United States atomic delegates shelved the vital issue of the veto indefinitely today after the United States and Soviet Russia reaffirmed their sharply-opposed positions.

Frederick H. Osborn, United States Deputy, told the working committee of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission that this country stands firmly behind the principle of no veto on atomic punishments and "will not be a party to any change."

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, declared that Russia still is behind the veto in the Security Council; that any attempts to change the present set-up were "doomed to failure."

U. S. Firm On Aid Stand

LAKE SUCCESS, July 23—The United States made it clear to the United Nations today that she had no intention of abandoning the Truman doctrine of military aid to countries threatened by Communism.

The American position was set forth by Assistant Secretary of State Willard L. Thorp, who told the Economic and Social Council the United States was strongly opposed to a Russian proposal to prohibit international loans for military purposes.

Thorp spoke after Britain and France had challenged another Soviet declaration that certain powerful nations were seeking to impose an economic dictatorship over the weaker countries.

"Unfortunately," he said, "in some parts of the world today there is a relationship between military and economic matters. We do not favor large armaments but we feel we must attack the problem directly.

"By this (the Soviet) suggestion we are permitting countries which have large resources to militarize and saying that those countries which need assistance may not do so."

Billion And Half Cut From Budget

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—House Appropriations Committee statistics show today that on seven of the 13 supply bills already sent to President Truman, Congress has cut $1,502,000,000 from the President's appropriations requests.

On the remaining six still on Capitol Hill, the House has voted reductions of $1,411,000,000, but the Senate has restored $603,000,000 of the House-voted cuts on four of them. The Senate has not considered the other two.

Early this year the House voted to trim $6,000,000,000 from the President's overall spending budget of $37,500,000,000 for the fiscal year that began July 1. The Senate lowered the proposed cut to $4,500,000,000 and the two branches have failed to reach a compromise.

Republican fiscal leaders in the House have made no formal claims recently but are awaiting adjournment before announcing what they have accomplished. They privately count cutbacks of more than $1,500,000,000 as part of their promised savings. These cancellations were of appropriations made in previous years but still not spent.

Democrats, on the other hand, dispute even the Appropriations Committee's statistics and insist that some of the claimed savings are "phony."

complexion, he appeared older than the age of 39 which he gave.

The affair took place near the spot where two pistol shots were fired July 12 at Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio). Bricker, boarding the subway car that carries senators between the Capitol and their office building, escaped unharmed. A man identified by Bricker and others as William Kaiser, a former Capitol policeman, was arrested later by Washington police and charged with assault with intent to kill.

Mr. Truman paid his visit to the Senate on a dare after a luncheon at the Capitol with old Senate colleagues.

His appearance touched off a lively ovation as senators and gallery visitors stood up and applauded.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), regular presiding officer, quickly spotted the President and led the demonstration which overlooked the Senate rules against such displays.

As everyone laughed, Vandenberg concluded an ornate welcome with:

"The ex-Senator from Missouri is recognized for five minutes."

Mr. Truman arose at his former desk in the back row on the Democratic side and with a broad smile addressed Vandenberg as "Mr. President," the customary recognition for the Senate's presiding officer.

"You are very kind to me," Mr. Truman said. "In fact, I never received such a cordial reception anywhere — and I have been many places since I left this great body."

Spoke From Rostrum In 1945

"The Senate never invites anyone to speak in the Senate but senators," he added, "and you are exceedingly kind to me to give me an opportunity to reply to the gracious words you have just uttered."

Actually as President, Mr. Truman addressed the Senate July 2, 1945, urging ratification of the United Nations Charter. But then he spoke from the rostrum, not his "old seat" as senator.

Several Presidents have made addresses to joint sessions of Congress but Senate historians said only a few have talked to the Senate alone. Former Presidents Hoover, Harding and Wilson did.

"I sometimes get homesick for this seat," the President said. "I spent what I think were the best 10 years of my life in the Senate. I made friendships and had associations which I can never forget."

Poland Excluded From U. S. Relief

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The United States excluded Poland today from a prospective $15,000,000 share in American foreign relief and there were indications that Hungary also would be ruled out because of improved crop prospects in Soviet-dominated Eastern Europe.

The State Department announced the action on Poland, publishing an official report saying the country has sufficient food in sight for minimum needs until at least the end of this year.

Officials said at the same time that estimates of current crop yields in Hungary were mounting.

Secretary of State Marshall said in response to a news conference question that the survey in Poland, made by Col. R. L. Harrison, of the Agriculture Department, was the basis for the decision to cut Poland out of the program for which the House last week voted a reduced appropriation of $332,000,000.

He said Poland's boycott of the Paris conference on the Marshall plan for European recovery was not the reason for the decision.

Ship Discharging Jews At Haifa Is Sunk By Explosion

British Vessel Was Used In Deportations

JERUSALEM, July 23—(AP)—The former Liberty ship Empire Lifeguard was sunk in Haifa harbor by an internal explosion today while discharging legal Jewish immigrants from Cyprus. It apparently was a blow of revenge for the ship's part in deportations of would-be immigrants.

While divers installed pumps and salvage crews went to work with hopes of raising her, Jewish sources voiced fears that the British military may crack down harder on all Jewry as a result of the new terror offensive which in the past week has taken a toll of eight killed and more than 60 wounded.

Jewish leaders recalled that a little over a year ago, on June 29, the army suddenly occupied Jewish institutions and rounded up a number of Jewry's most prominent leaders here after several weeks of violence flaring from the underground.

Time Bomb Explosion Muffled

The Empire Lifeguard, one of four ships used to haul would-be immigrants from Palestine to Cyprus when their ships are intercepted by the British navy, went down when a time bomb ripped a hole three by six feet in her bottom. Since the bomb was placed far below the waterline, the explosion was muffled, resembling the depth charges which are intermittently dropped in the harbor to discourage attacks by "frogmen." Consequently, the first alarm was not given until the ship began to sink.

The Lifeguard had brought 261 immigrants from Cyprus and had discharged all but 40 or 50. These were taken off safely.

Believed Work Of Hagana

The pattern of the attack suggested that it was the work of Hagana, the illegal Jewish militia which has undertaken the organization of immigration against British wishes.

This was the fourth attack on a deportation ship. The first was last August, when "frogmen", or underwater swimmers, attached a mine to the hull of one of the Lifeguard's sister ships, the Empire Riva. The damage was slight. Last April an internal explosion blew a hole in the bottom of the Ocean Vigour in Cyprus harbor, filling the hold with water. The following night the Empire Rival was blasted again while en route from Haifa to Port Said, causing her to take considerable water.

There were no casualties in any of the attacks, all of which have been attributed to Haganas.

Father Drinks Poison As Five Children Watch

SALISBURY, Md., July 23 (AP)—Edward Lee Long, 40-year-old State Department worker, seeing five of his children playing in the yard, called them into the house and told them he was going to kill himself.

He drank a bottle of poison while the children watched, and died an hour later last night in Peninsula General Hospital.

Long, father of seven children, had been employed by the Salisbury Street Department for several years.

Police who answered a frantic call from the children said Long did not give them a reason for drinking the poison.

Dr. Charles T. Fisher, assistant deputy medical examiner for Wicomico County, returned a verdict of suicide.

State Given Warning On Pollution Patrolling

BALTIMORE, July 23—(AP)—John F. Clark, chairman of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission, said today the United States Public Health Service had warned the State of Maryland to "do something better" to patrol polluted waterways.

Clark told the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission, of which he is a member, that patrolling must meet federal standards before Maryland seafood products can be certified for sale.

Meeting today in Baltimore, the commission also heard a warning from Dr. Robert H. Riley, state director of health, that sanitary conditions in seafood packing houses must be improved. Riley said his department had been advised that unless conditions were improved, the Public Health Service would withdraw the state's right to approve marketing permits.

Temporary Truce In Resort Dispute

CEAN CITY, Md., July 23—(AP)—ere was a temporary truce today the tense controversy between ayor Daniel Trimper and his hree city councilmen.

Slot machines, pin wheels, bingo games and the other gambling dodges, which provide the Atlantic resort's chief amusement back of the beach, went merrily on.

The councilmen said there wasn't any connection between their differences with the Mayor and a furore which has been whipped up over gambling and protests that unlicensed dealers have been selling liquor.

The Mayor asked them point blank if it was "me or the liquor" when he walked out of an impromptu meeting with the council last nigh. He said the three councilmen were trying to make him the "goat" and clumped down the stairs. The three councilmen said they didn't know what letter he might have in mind.

The Mayor's leave-taking came after Councilman G. Lester Esham "temporarily" withdrew the letter of resignation which he composed last Saturday and mailed Monday morning.

He said he put the letter in the mail before he saw the first newspaper story, which called attention to the prevalence of slot machines and gambling games along the boardwalk.

Esham said he was withdrawing his resignation because by "pure coincidence" with the gambling stories it had caused unexpected and unfavorable publicity.

Baltimorean Is Elected Head Of Legion Of Valor

BALTIMORE, July 23 (AP)—The 57th annual convention of the Army and Navy Legion of Valor ended today with the election of Joseph F. Mannion, 48, Baltimore, as national commander.

Others elected were Chris L. Edell, Paterson, N. J., senior vice commander; James G. Walsh, Boston, junior vice commander, and Edgar Bain, Goldsboro, N. C., national chaplain.

Membership in the organization is open to veterans who have received any of the nation's three top decorations—The Congressional Medal of Honor, the Distinguished Service Cross, or the Navy Cross.

surrendered to United States marshals today to face federal perjury charges a few minutes after issuing a statement which asserted his indictment in Washington was part of a plan to break the labor movement.

Christoffel appeared at the federal building and was taken to United States Attorney Timothy T. Cronin's office, where he said he would furnish bond of $5,000. He was indicted earlier today by a federal grand jury in Washington on six counts of perjury before the House Labor Committee last March 1, during which he denied any affiliation with Communists or the Communist Party.

Stassen Says Marshall Plan Clash Is Competition Between Ideologies

DES MOINES, July 23 (AP)—Refusal of Russia and eight other European countries to join in the Paris conference on the Marshall plan presages "the greatest basic competition in all history," former Gov. Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, said tonight.

"We are to be engaged in a continuing major competition and clash of economic systems and ideologies," Stassen said in a prepared address to the opening session of the 21st International Sunday School Convention.

Stassen, an announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, is president of the International Council of Religious Education which is sponsoring the convention attended by more than 5,000 persons representing 40 denominations, 48 states, and eight foreign lands.

Stassen told the delegates that "we are entering the decade which may well determine whether we can have a lasting peace or a third world war" and said the moral foundation of Americans "is of prime importance" in the outcome.

Describing the clash between the United States and the 16 European nations co-operating on the Marshall plan with the nine European nations, including Russia, which declined to join, Stassen said:

"It is a competition between the ideology of materialism sponsored by Communists, which denies the fatherhood of God, depreciates the worth of the individual human being, and worships the things of the earth controlled by rulers of men, as opposed to an ideology based on the fundamental concepts of our religious beliefs, humbly recognizing the fatherhood of God, emphasizing the worth and dignity of the individual human being, safeguarding individual freedom, and teaching service and compassion and mercy."

Stassen said the competition does not inevitably lead to war and that it "need not unavoidably be decided by force."

Baltimore Harbor Yields Woman's Trussed Body

BALTIMORE, July 23 (AP)—The nude body of a woman, trussed in canvas wrappings weighted with 83 pounds of iron and lead, was found floating in the lower harbor today.

Dr. George Nerrill, deputy Baltimore City medical examiner, said death apparently came by drowning. The woman's jaw was fractured in two places and her cheek bones were broken, he reported after an autopsy. The post-mortem failed to disclose a head wound which preliminary examination had indicated.

The body had been in the water from two to eight weeks, he said.

Baltimore County police theorized the woman had been beaten into unconsciousness, wrapped and bound in the weighted sack and thrown into the harbor while still alive.

Lt. Carroll Simmons, of the county force, said "there is not a single doubt it could be anything but murder."

He said the woman was between 32 and 35, of medium stature, and had long, light brown hair.

Delegates Shelve Atom Veto Issue

LAKE SUCCESS, July 23 (AP)—United States atomic delegates shelved the vital issue of the veto indefinitely today after the United States and Soviet Russia reaffirmed their sharply-opposed positions.

Frederick H. Osborn, United States Deputy, told the working committee of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission that this country stands firmly behind the principle of no veto on atomic punishments and "will not be a party to any change."

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, declared that Russia still is behind the veto in the Security Council; that any attempts to change the present set-up were "doomed to failure."

U. S. Firm On Aid Stand

LAKE SUCCESS, July 23—The United States made it clear to the United Nations today that she had no intention of abandoning the Truman doctrine of military aid to countries threatened by Communism.

The American position was set forth by Assistant Secretary of State Willard L. Thorp, who told the Economic and Social Council the United States was strongly opposed to a Russian proposal to prohibit international loans for military purposes.

Thorp spoke after Britain and France had challenged another Soviet declaration that certain powerful nations were seeking to impose an economic dictatorship over the weaker countries.

"Unfortunately," he said, "in some parts of the world today there is a relationship between military and economic matters. We do not favor large armaments but we feel we must attack the problem directly.

"By this (the Soviet) suggestion we are permitting countries which have large resources to militarize and saying that those countries which need assistance may not do so."

Billion And Half Cut From Budget

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—House Appropriations Committee statistics show today that on seven of the 13 supply bills already sent to President Truman, Congress has cut $1,502,000,000 from the President's appropriations requests.

On the remaining six still on Capitol Hill, the House has voted reductions of $1,411,000,000, but the Senate has restored $603,000,000 of the House-voted cuts on four of them. The Senate has not considered the other two.

Early this year the House voted to trim $6,000,000,000 from the President's overall spending budget of $37,500,000,000 for the fiscal year that began July 1. The Senate lowered the proposed cut to $4,500,000,000 and the two branches have failed to reach a compromise.

Republican fiscal leaders in the House have made no formal claims recently but are awaiting adjournment before announcing what they have accomplished. They privately count cutbacks of more than $1,500,000,000 as part of their promised savings. These cancellations were of appropriations made in previous years but still not spent.

Democrats, on the other hand, dispute even the Appropriations Committee's statistics and insist that some of the claimed savings are "phony."

He said all the reasons advanced by the United States and Britain were based on "false accusations" and that they were attempting to get the Tirana government to accept conditions dictated by foreign powers. He added that certain powers would not be satisfied unless they could seat a man on the Albanian general staff to suppress the democratic element in Albania.

complexion, he appeared older than the age of 39 which he gave.

The affair took place near the spot where two pistol shots were fired July 12 at Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio). Bricker, boarding the subway car that carries senators between the Capitol and their office building, escaped unharmed. A man identified by Bricker and others as William Kaiser, a former Capitol policeman, was arrested later by Washington police and charged with assault with intent to kill.

Mr. Truman paid his visit to the Senate on a dare after a luncheon at the Capitol with old Senate colleagues.

His appearance touched off a lively ovation as senators and gallery visitors stood up and applauded.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), regular presiding officer, quickly spotted the President and led the demonstration which overlooked the Senate rules against such displays.

As everyone laughed, Vandenberg concluded an ornate welcome with:

"The ex-Senator from Missouri is recognized for five minutes."

Mr. Truman arose at his former desk in the back row on the Democratic side and with a broad smile addressed Vandenberg as "Mr. President," the customary recognition for the Senate's presiding officer.

"You are very kind to me," Mr. Truman said. "In fact, I never received such a cordial reception anywhere — and I have been many places since I left this great body."

Washing Soap

Left over fat from a leg of lamb makes good soap for washing dishes. Here is the formula:

Melt about 6 pounds of fat in a porcelain enameled pan and strain carefully. Add two and one-half pints of water to a can of lye. After the bubbling caused by the lye stops, stir the mixture into the fat until it thickens. Pour the liquid soap into a small enameled pan and allow it to stand overnight. Cut the soap into pieces and let it stand a week before using.

Always be careful when using lye.

American Flag Presented To North End Playground

Clifton E. Fuller Makes Presentation

Clifton E. Fuller, Commissioner of finance of the city of Cumberland, presented a large American flag to the children of the North End Playground at a special ceremony late yesterday at the playground.

In his presentation speech, the commissioner said he was glad and proud to present the flag as a token of friendship to the children from the city. He explained that the colors of the flag were symbolic of the cardinal qualities of every good citizen. The red represents fidelity; the white, purity of motive, and the blue loyalty to our country, he stated.

Miss Jean Burkett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burkett, 801 Piedmont Avenue, accepted the flag on behalf of the girls of the playground and Harry McFarland, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McFarland, Elmwood Lane, accepted the flag for the boys. Each gave a brief talk, thanking the commissioner and the city for the gift.

The program was concluded with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner." Following the presentation ceremony a playground festival was held under the sponsorship of the North End Playground Association, headed by Mrs. Eric Roeder, recently elected president of the group.

Refreshment booths were erected and all playground facilities were open to the youngsters. Proceeds of the festival, which will continue again tomorrow evening, will be used to purchase new equipment for the playground.

Washing Soap

Left over fat from a leg of lamb makes good soap for washing dishes. Here is the formula:

Melt about 6 pounds of fat in a porcelain enameled pan and strain carefully. Add two and one-half pints of water to a can of lye. After the bubbling caused by the lye stops, stir the mixture into the fat until it thickens. Pour the liquid soap into a small enameled pan and allow it to stand overnight. Cut the soap into pieces and let it stand a week before using.

Always be careful when using lye.

The story of Cinderella can be found, in one form or another, everywhere in European folklore.

WIFE PRESERVERS

If onion juice and fine pulp are needed for a clear sauce or soup, cut the onion in half crosswise and grate it over a bowl.

Clifton E. Fuller Makes Presentation

Clifton E. Fuller, Commissioner of finance of the city of Cumberland, presented a large American flag to the children of the North End Playground at a special ceremony late yesterday at the playground.

In his presentation speech, the commissioner said he was glad and proud to present the flag as a token of friendship to the children from the city. He explained that the colors of the flag were symbolic of the cardinal qualities of every good citizen. The red represents fidelity; the white, purity of motive, and the blue loyalty to our country, he stated.

Miss Jean Burkett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burkett, 801 Piedmont Avenue, accepted the flag on behalf of the girls of the playground and Harry McFarland, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McFarland, Elmwood Lane, accepted the flag for the boys. Each gave a brief talk, thanking the commissioner and the city for the gift.

The program was concluded with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner." Following the presentation ceremony a playground festival was held under the sponsorship of the North End Playground Association, headed by Mrs. Eric Roeder, recently elected president of the group.

Refreshment booths were erected and all playground facilities were open to the youngsters. Proceeds of the festival, which will continue again tomorrow evening, will be used to purchase new equipment for the playground.

In 1348 the plague since known as the "Black Death" spread across Europe.

Food Shower

A near-neighbor to the kitchen utensil shower for the bride is a shower of foods for the Emergency Shelf. She might be given an attractive little cabinet or wall shelf laden with a variety of packaged foods which a good home manager keeps on hand "just in case." The Emergency Shelf habit is a good one to cultivate. It provides menu insurance for those days when there isn't a moment to go to the grocer's or when the unexpected guest drops in. It is often a comforting little bridge across many a home food crisis.

"Not Responsible For Wife's Debts"

A young man came rushing into the Clarion office the other day and wanted me to print an ad—"right quick"—saying he won't be responsible for his wife's debts from now on, as he's leaving her for good immediately.

I allowed as how the forms were all closed up, and it was too late to take his ad. He says: "All right, Monday then"—and we agreed on Monday.

Of course, the forms weren't closed. But I had kind of an inkling of what might happen. Then Sunday he phones me, and says, kind of sheepishly: "You can forget that ad. Me and the missus have everything all patched up. And we're having a friendly glass of beer, right now."

From where I sit, if you give folks time enough to think things over, those hasty quarrels that come so often from misunderstanding will give way to tolerance and common sense.

Complicated Collision Results In Fine of $5

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 23 (AP) — A collision involving a rowboat, a life raft, an ice box, a trailer and two cars was described before Trial Magistrate David B. Dunker, of Ferndale, in a case which resulted in a $5 fine imposed on George Gac, Baltimore.

Patrolman Joseph C. Hopp, in his testimony, unwound the complicated collision, which sounded like an imitation of the house that Jack built.

Hopp said Gac was driving along the Ritchie Highway with a 12-foot trailer attached to his car. In the trailer were the rowboat, the life raft and the ice box. Gac turned his car at Pasadena Road, Hopp said, and a car driven by Lester D. Parker, of Hammond's Ferry Road, struck it. The rowboat fell on the hood of Parker's car and the raft and ice-box landed on the road.

Magistrate Dunker fined Gac for reckless driving, but dismissed a similar charge against Parker.

Would Exclude Newsboys

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)— The Senate Finance Committee today approved a measure that would exclude newsboys, who are not on a salary or commission, from provisions of the Social Security Act. The House has already passed the bill.

Floods have caused great loss of wildlife throughout central and southern Iowa.

C. And O. Would Install Telephones On Its Trains

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) —The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company has filed a pioneer application with the Federal Communications Commission for authority to set up public toll telephone service on its moving trains.

It is the first such application to come to the commission.

The railroad said it plans to inaugurate the service on two trains between Washington and Cincinnati, Ohio. The plan involves construction by the railroad of its own telephone lines along the right of way.

A traveler could pick up a phone aboard the train and establish contact with the nearest regular telephone company exchange through a signal radioed to the lines along the track, and obtain a connection to any part of the country.

Racing turkeys have replaced thoroughbreds on the Del Mar race track in California.

Must Behave Or--

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Legislation which would deny retirement annuities to any member of Congress "whose prestige has been used to the disadvantage of the government," has been approved by the Senate Civil Service Committee.

Strathclyde was a British kingdom which first appears prominently in the seventh century as one of the strongholds of the original Celtic inhabitants against invading Anglo-Saxons. It lay in the western part of the island between the Clyde river and the Derwent in what is now Cumberland.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Billy Rose

For several Sundays now I've been playing golf on a course not far from where Eleanor and I are spending the summer. I usually go out alone because my game is pretty awful and I'm not anxious to have my wisenheimer friends stand around and make bright remarks like, "Keep swinging, Rose. At least it keeps the nail cool."

At the clubhouse last Sunday, the caddy master told me, "There's a kid here very anxious to tote your clubs.

The "kid" was in his early twenties. I got the feeling I had seen this caddy somewhere before. As we walked toward the first tee, I noticed he was giving my purple socks the sidewise look.

"Anything wrong with my outfit?" I asked him.

"It's fine," he drawled. "But I think a pair of hip boots would complete it."

"Let's get this straight, son," I told him. "I came out for fresh air, not stale jokes."

"Which reminds me," he said "have you heard the one about the golfer who was sentenced to death and asked the hangman if he could take a few practice swings?"

I ignored it, teed up and swung hard. Something flew straight and true down the fairway. It was my wrist watch.

The caddy laughed. I probably would have hit him over the head had I known which club to use.

"Shut your face, young man," I snapped, "or I'll report you to the caddy master when we get back."

"Then I don't have to worry for several days," grinned the caddy.

It went on like this for the next couple of hours. Every time the young man handed me a club, he tried to hand me a laugh. It was like being marooned with an old gag file.

He told me the one about the golfer who went up to a foursome on the second tee and said, "I wonder if you'd mind letting me play through. I just got word my wife was taken seriously ill." And the one about the dub who took seven strokes on the green—six with a putter and one apoplectic.

On the fifth hole I sliced into some pretty deep rough. As I was searching for the ball, my caddy took something out of his pocket.

"What are you looking at your watch for?" I barked. "We've got all afternoon."

"This isn't a watch," he deadpanned. "It's a compass."

Two strokes later I was really in the rough. "Sure is a tough course," I said, as I hooked into a gully.

"You haven't been on the course for the last half hour," my companion said cheerfully.

The gully was a quiet spot. I found my ball on the edge of a brook. Nearby, an old man was sitting under a tree. There was a shovel on the ground beside him.

"We'd better get out of here," cracked my caddy. "He may shoot us for jumping his claim."

As we finished the nine, I said, "I think I got a 65."

"Not bad," said the youth. "What did you get on the second hole?"

"I've never played so badly before," I mumbled.

"Oh, then you have played before," he chirped.

As I played up the fairway toward the 18th, I saw Eleanor waiting for me there.

"Give me a 3 iron," I said to my caddy. "I want to make a good shot. That's my wife standing near the green."

"I doubt whether you can hit her at 150 yards," he said as he handed me the club.

By some miracle, I smacked the ball to within two feet of the cup.

"How's that?" I asked the thorn in my flesh.

"Wonderful," he beamed. "Now see if you can do it with your eyes open."

But Eleanor had seen me make the shot and I couldn't stay mad. After I sank the putt, I turned to the caddy and said, "Come clean, son. Why have you been trying out those jokes on me? It couldn't be you're interested in show business, could it?"

"It could," he grinned. And it was a nice grin.

"OK, comedian," I chuckled. "Come around to my office next week and I'll see what I can do for you."

Next day, the girl at the switchboard announced, "There's a young man on his way down to see you. By appointment, he says."

"What's his name?" I asked.

"I don't know," said the girl. "But he's been trying to get an audition for the past couple of weeks."

The "kid" winked at me as he walked in.

"Didn't I see you somewhere years ago?" I asked him.

"Remember the four Downeys?" he said. "Snappy songs and classy clatter? I was the kid they used to bring out for the bow."

"I'll see what I can do for you," I said. "In the meanwhile I got a booking for you next Sunday. I'm playing a match with Milton Berle. I'd like you to caddy for him."

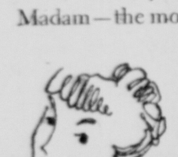
"Such a lucky lady—with a pretty house, nice husband and children—and lots and lots of servants!"

"You're wrong about the servants. I live in a 6-room house, and balance a budget!"

"But, Madam, you have servants to help you in every room! And you pay them very little, indeed. You have a servant to assist with your laundry. Another to cook your meals. A third to protect your food. A fourth to clean. More to heat and light your home, and entertain you when you're bored. You have electrical servants, Madam—the most willing and dependable servants in the world!"



"Of course, I have electricity but I never thought—"

"This army of domestic help costs you less than a bottle of milk a day! So you see electric service is not only high in efficiency, it's low in cost! Twenty years ago the average family got only half as much electric service for the money as it gets today. And think how many more jobs electricity does around the house in 1947! Yes, Madam, yours is a very good fortune, indeed!"

"It's fine," he drawled. "But I think a pair of hip boots would complete it."

"Let's get this straight, son," I told him. "I came out for fresh air, not stale jokes."

"Which reminds me," he said "have you heard the one about the golfer who was sentenced to death and asked the hangman if he could take a few practice swings?"

I ignored it, teed up and swung hard. Something flew straight and true down the fairway. It was my wrist watch.

The caddy laughed. I probably would have hit him over the head had I known which club to use.

"Shut your face, young man," I snapped, "or I'll report you to the caddy master when we get back."

"Then I don't have to worry for several days," grinned the caddy.

It went on like this for the next couple of hours. Every time the young man handed me a club, he tried to hand me a laugh. It was like being marooned with an old gag file.

He told me the one about the golfer who went up to a foursome on the second tee and said, "I wonder if you'd mind letting me play through. I just got word my wife was taken seriously ill." And the one about the dub who took seven strokes on the green—six with a putter and one apoplectic.

On the fifth hole I sliced into some pretty deep rough. As I was searching for the ball, my caddy took something out of his pocket.

"What are you looking at your watch for?" I barked. "We've got all afternoon."

"This isn't a watch," he deadpanned. "It's a compass."

Two strokes later I was really in the rough. "Sure is a tough course," I said, as I hooked into a gully.

"You haven't been on the course for the last half hour," my companion said cheerfully.

The gully was a quiet spot. I found my ball on the edge of a brook. Nearby, an old man was sitting under a tree. There was a shovel on the ground beside him.

"We'd better get out of here," cracked my caddy. "He may shoot us for jumping his claim."

As we finished the nine, I said, "I think I got a 65."

"Not bad," said the youth. "What did you get on the second hole?"

"I've never played so badly before," I mumbled.

"Oh, then you have played before," he chirped.

As I played up the fairway toward the 18th, I saw Eleanor waiting for me there.

"Give me a 3 iron," I said to my caddy. "I want to make a good shot. That's my wife standing near the green."

"I doubt whether you can hit her at 150 yards," he said as he handed me the club.

By some miracle, I smacked the ball to within two feet of the cup.

"How's that?" I asked the thorn in my flesh.

"Wonderful," he beamed. "Now see if you can do it with your eyes open."

But Eleanor had seen me make the shot and I couldn't stay mad. After I sank the putt, I turned to the caddy and said, "Come clean, son. Why have you been trying out those jokes on me? It couldn't be you're interested in show business, could it?"

"It could," he grinned. And it was a nice grin.

"OK, comedian," I chuckled. "Come around to my office next week and I'll see what I can do for you."

Next day, the girl at the switchboard announced, "There's a young man on his way down to see you. By appointment, he says."

"What's his name?" I asked.

"I don't know," said the girl. "But he's been trying to get an audition for the past couple of weeks."

The "kid" winked at me as he walked in.

"Didn't I see you somewhere years ago?" I asked him.

"Remember the four Downeys?" he said. "Snappy songs and classy clatter? I was the kid they used to bring out for the bow."

"I'll see what I can do for you," I said. "In the meanwhile I got a booking for you next Sunday. I'm playing a match with Milton Berle. I'd like you to caddy for him."

368 Transients Given Help By Salvation Army

Employment Is Found For Some

During the past six months, the Salvation Army in Cumberland provided assistance to 368 transient individuals, according to a report of the religious and spiritual activities of the Salvation Army here released yesterday by Major Elmer Wall, commander of the Citadel here.

Lodgings were provided to 281 of the needy individuals as well as 458 meals to the transients. Miscellaneous aid was provided to another 52 transients who appealed to the Salvation Army here.

In cases where the transients wish to stay here, Major Wall said, every effort is made to provide employment.

Assistance was given to 30 families in Allegany County, including 51 grocery orders, 372 garments and 24 pairs of shoes. Such emergency service, it was pointed out, is offered to fill the gap until county welfare agencies are able to take over cases.

In some cases, Major Wall said, efforts are made to provide furniture to the needy families.

The biggest task during the period ending June 31, was providing temporary lodgings to 20 of the 28 persons affected by the fire in the Reinhart building on Virginia Avenue early in April.

Other activities of the Citadel, 115 North Mechanic Street, and the South Cumberland Outpost, 511 Virginia Avenue, include 99 open air meetings, 618 hours of visitation and 35 visits to local hospitals and the county jail.

During the period, 33 persons were converted and the average attendance at Sunday Schools was 131.

City Improvements Should Come With Growth, Smith Says

The steady growth of Cumberland's population since 1900 necessitates improvements in public facilities which the city has allowed to lag, according to Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

The city's population has grown to an estimated 42,000, according to Smith, who pointed out that by 1950, of the present rate of increase continues, there will be 46,000 persons making their homes in this community.

Of major importance to the community at the present time, Smith explained, is the traffic problem which continues to grow more and more acute. Traffic facilities, he said, are poor, and prove a definite handicap to the city.

He cited the much-talked-about cross town viaduct, which could be constructed for an estimated cost of $3,000,000, and said it would give material relief to the communities traffic problems.

Other improvements which he outlined at the estimated costs include:

Revamping of the sewage system and necessity of installing a disposal plant, $1,000,000.

New water pipe lines, plans for which are progressing satisfactorily, $1,000,000.

Settling basin and filter units, $250,000.

Flood control project, needed to permit development of central section of city, $8,940,000.

Smith said the major basic improvements for Cumberland would cost approximately $14,190,000 of which the city's share would be approximately $4,250,000. "This represents a large sum of money," he said, "but spread out over a period of years, it can be met."

all types were conducted by the corps here headed by Major and

The highest iron mines in the world are in operation in the Pamir mountains, in Soviet Central Asia. They are reached by a gorge-scaling funicular railway that rises 8,200 feet in 15 miles.

NEW INFIRMARY SITE—Ground has been broken for the site of the new Allegany County Infirmary, to be constructed on the County property, Valley Road, by Allegany County Commissioners at a cost of $250,000. County Engineer Albert S. Faye said county equipment, some of which has just been purchased for road and other county work, is being used to break the ground and clear the site. The building will accomodate 115 persons, including wings for juveniles who need temporary homes or are delinquent. Bonds are being sold to finance the project, and actual work on the building is expected to start about September 1, officials say.

Answer Filed In Mattress Factory Suit

Defendants Charge Character Attack

In answering the bill of complaint brought against the former operators of Cumberland Mattress Factory, Theresa Shipes, Calvin Shipes, her husband, and their daughter, Elizabeth Jane Fisher, the defendants say charges in the bill are "an unwarranted and reckless use of language to blacken the character of not only the Shipes, but of Abe Feldstein." The building was recently purchased by Feldstein for $8,000.

The bill of complaint was filed a couple of weeks ago by Mary Sines, Edith Kenney, William Wiegand, Elizabeth Daughton and Amanda Kenney, all children of the late Richard Wiegand.

The original bill demanded an accounting of monies received as a result of the operation and sale of the factory by Theresa Shipes, and a division of such among the other heirs of Richard Wiegand.

The factory was operated on land obtained in 1920 from Theresa Thomasson Kuehn, to whom a mortgage of $10,000 was given by the elder Wiegand and his son, William, who originally operated the factory. They were also indebted to the Liberty Trust Company for a business loan of $19,800 which had been reduced to less than $13,000.

Both creditors demanded payment in 1942, causing the financial ruin of both Wiegands concerned, inasmuch as the property had no such value, the answer states.

The complainants' bill states, that as a result of family conferences, and a pool of varied amounts of money, Theresa Shipes was designated to re-purchase the property through the aid of a James Perrin, who purchased it from receivers then resold it to Theresa Shipes.

Private Affair

Today's answer claims the deal with Perrin was a private affair on the part of the Shipes, their daughter and Richard Wiegand, the father, who was then living with the Shipes. It states that Perrin was paid $7,500, one third in cash, and the rest in installments. The final balance of $3,250 was paid June 15, 1947 as a condition of sale to Abe Feldstein.

The heirs in the complaint state also that the property at 18 Orchard Avenue, in which the Shipes resided in 1942 and which was a part of the original Wiegand estate, and a new residence in the name of Elizabeth Jane Fisher in which they now live, was purchased with money originally belonging to all the heirs, and that rentals should be accounted for an divided.

Denies Allegation

The Shipes answer denies that allegation, states that the property in question was purchased with the defendants own money by "the only financially responsible heir" of Richard Wiegand, and that Theresa Shipes has taken no part in a concerted action to get the factory for themselves, although she admits such an attempt.

Of the attempt, the answer charges "the two sons-in-law (unidentified) . . . of fixing up a plan to acquire the business for themselves, although the plan proposed was a gross fraud upon the creditors of Richard Wiegand and his sons William and Charles Wiegand."

The Liberty Trust still has a claim of more than $6,000 of the original loan, which remains unsettled.

No date has yet been set for the hearing.

Mt. Savage Band To Give Concert At LaVale

A concert by the Mt. Savage J. U. O. A. M. Band will highlight Friday night's program at the LaVale Fire Company's annual summer festival which starts tonight.

Twenty-five organizations have signified that they will participate in the parade at 7:30 tonight which will open the celebration.

The groups will form at the intersection of Route 40 and Mt. Savage Road and will march to the Fire hall. According to Cromwell Zembower, chairman of the festival, the parade will be the first in LaVale since 1940.

The Mt. Savage Band, under the direction of Thomas W. Lewis, will present 13 selections Friday night from 8 until 9 on the fire company grounds.

The program is as follows: "Quincy", march; "American Red Cross", march; "Determination", overture; "National Emblem", march; "Wyoming Days," intermezzo; "That Naughty Waltz."

"Knight Errant", march; "Living Pictures", overture; "The Old Lamp Lighter", popular; "Officer of the Sky", march; "Silver Glade", waltz medley; "Thunderer", march; and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Assisting Cromwell on the committee for arrangements are Elmer Lancaster, Lloyd Smith and Joseph Connelly. The members of auxiliary committee who are working with the firemen are Mrs. Alvin G. Youngblood, chairman; Mrs. John German, Mrs. Elmer Lancaster, Mrs. Walter Alexander and Mrs. Lillian Hymes.

Steady Progress In Conservation Noted In County

Allegany District Has 210 Co-operators

Steady progress in conservation practices needed to promote the development of the agricultural resources of Allegany County is indicated in the semi-annual report of the Allegany Soil Conservation District to William W. Nace, district conservationist.

During the six-month period ending June 30, co-operators in the district prepared contour planting on 219 acres of land, contour strip cropped another 141 acres, treated 318 acres of Allegany pasture land and installed 600 feet of farm drains on 41 acres of land.

Work accomplished during the period, Philip Walter, soil conservationist, pointed out, was slightly higher than in the previous six months, which normally is a busy period for farmers.

Another proof of the progress of the district is given in the growth of membership. Some 210 farmers are now co-operators in the district while a report in February, 1946, listed 156 members.

The district was set up here in 1941 and field operations began the following year.

Although steady progress has been made here, the task ahead, as in the rest of the United States, is tremendous, and conservation officials assert that much of the work must be done within the next decade if permanent damage to our land is to be halted.

A work estimate in 1946, for instance indicated that 21,000 acres of cropland should be strip cropped and improved by construction of 245 miles of diversion terraces. Some 20,000 acres of land could be improved by pasture treatment. Forty-one acres of the 3,000 acres of wet land which could be improved by drainage were drained during the six-month period.

100 Year History Of Baptist Church Will Be Depicted

The highlight of the Centennial Week celebration being held by the First Baptist Church this week will be the presentation of a historical pageant depicting outstanding events of the 100 years since the church was formed.

In last night's service, Rev. John T. Coburn, who served as the pastor of the church from 1930 until 1933, stressed the thought that through prayer and faith in Christianity, one can accomplish any goal set before him. Rev. Mr. Coburn recalled many instances from life and related portions of the Bible to emphasize his point.

He stated that the churches of today must go forward in the next few years to keep pace with the many changes in life and environment that are occurring.

Rev. Coburn commented on the remodeling done in the church since his pastorate here and remarked that he recognized many persons in the congregation who were members during his three years at First Baptist Church.

Rev. Mr. Coburn, who has been serving the Baptist church in Roanoke, Va., will go from here to Washington, where he has been transferred to Fifth Baptist Church. He will preach his first sermon there Sunday.

Assistance was given to 30 families in Allegany County, including 51 grocery orders, 372 garments and 24 pairs of shoes. Such emergency service, it was pointed out, is offered to fill the gap until county welfare agencies are able to take over cases.

In some cases, Major Wall said, efforts are made to provide furniture to the needy families.

The biggest task during the period ending June 31, was providing temporary lodgings to 20 of the 28 persons affected by the fire in the Reinhart building on Virginia Avenue early in April.

Other activities of the Citadel, 115 North Mechanic Street, and the South Cumberland Outpost, 511 Virginia Avenue, include 99 open air meetings, 618 hours of visitation and 35 visits to local hospitals and the county jail.

During the period, 33 persons were converted and the average attendance at Sunday Schools was 131.

City Improvements Should Come With Growth, Smith Says

The steady growth of Cumberland's population since 1900 necessitates improvements in public facilities which the city has allowed to lag, according to Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

The city's population has grown to an estimated 42,000, according to Smith, who pointed out that by 1950, of the present rate of increase continues, there will be 46,000 persons making their homes in this community.

Of major importance to the community at the present time, Smith explained, is the traffic problem which continues to grow more and more acute. Traffic facilities, he said, are poor, and prove a definite handicap to the city.

He cited the much-talked-about cross town viaduct, which could be constructed for an estimated cost of $3,000,000, and said it would give material relief to the communities traffic problems.

Other improvements which he outlined at the estimated costs include:

Revamping of the sewage system and necessity of installing a disposal plant, $1,000,000.

New water pipe lines, plans for which are progressing satisfactorily, $1,000,000.

Settling basin and filter units, $250,000.

Flood control project, needed to permit development of central section of city, $8,940,000.

Smith said the major basic improvements for Cumberland would cost approximately $14,190,000 of which the city's share would be approximately $4,250,000. "This represents a large sum of money," he said, "but spread out over a period of years, it can be met."

NEW INFIRMARY SITE—Ground has been broken for the site of the new Allegany County Infirmary, to be constructed on the County property, Valley Road, by Allegany County Commissioners at a cost of $250,000. County Engineer Albert S. Paye said county equipment, some of which has just been purchased for road and other county work, is being used to break the ground and clear the site. The building will accomodate 115 persons, including wings for juveniles who need temporary homes or are delinquent. Bonds are being sold to finance the project, and actual work on the building is expected to start about September 1, officials say.

Answer Filed In Mattress Factory Suit

Defendants Charge Character Attack

In answering the bill of complaint brought against the former operators of Cumberland Mattress Factory, Theresa Shipes, Calvin Shipes, her husband, and their daughter, Elizabeth Jane Fisher, the defendants say charges in the bill are "an unwarranted and reckless use of language to blacken the character of not only the Shipes, but of Abe Feldstein." The building was recently purchased by Feldstein for $8,000.

The bill of complaint was filed a couple of weeks ago by Mary Sines, Edith Kenney, William Wiegand, Elizabeth Daughton and Amanda Kenney, all children of the late Richard Wiegand.

The original bill demanded an accounting of monies received as a result of the operation and sale of the factory by Theresa Shipes, and a division of such among the other heirs of Richard Wiegand.

The factory was operated on land obtained in 1920 from Theresa Thomasson Kuehn, to whom a mortgage of $10,000 was given by the elder Wiegand and his son, William, who originally operated the factory. They were also indebted to the Liberty Trust Company for a business loan of $19,800 which had been reduced to less than $13,000.

Both creditors demanded payment in 1942, causing the financial ruin of both Wiegands concerned, inasmuch as the property had no such value, the answer states.

The complainants' bill states, that as a result of family conferences, and a pool of varied amounts of money, Theresa Shipes was designated to re-purchase the property through the aid of a James Perrin, who purchased it from receivers then resold it to Theresa Shipes.

Private Affair

Today's answer claims the deal with Perrin was a private affair on the part of the Shipes, their daughter and Richard Wiegand, the father, who was then living with the Shipes. It states that Perrin was paid $7,500, one third in cash, and the rest in installments. The final balance of $3,250 was paid June 15, 1947 as a condition of sale to Abe Feldstein.

The heirs in the complaint state also that the property at 18 Orchard Avenue, in which the Shipes resided in 1942 and which was a part of the original Wiegand estate, and a new residence in the name of Elizabeth Jane Fisher in which they now live, was purchased with money originally belonging to all the heirs, and that rentals should be accounted for an divided.

Denies Allegation

The Shipes answer denies that allegation, states that the property in question was purchased with the defendants own money by "the only financially responsible heir" of Richard Wiegand, and that Theresa Shipes has taken no part in a concerted action to get the factory for themselves, although she admits such an attempt.

Of the attempt, the answer charges "the two sons-in-law (unidentified) . . . of fixing up a plan to acquire the business for themselves, although the plan proposed was a gross fraud upon the creditors of Richard Wiegand and his sons William and Charles Wiegand."

The Liberty Trust still has a claim of more than $6,000 of the original loan, which remains unsettled.

No date has yet been set for the hearing.

A concert by the Mt. Savage J. U. O. A. M. Band will highlight Friday night's program at the LaVale Fire Company's annual summer festival which starts tonight.

Twenty-five organizations have signified that they will participate in the parade at 7:30 tonight which will open the celebration.

The groups will form at the intersection of Route 40 and Mt. Savage Road and will march to the Fire hall. According to Cromwell Zembower, chairman of the festival, the parade will be the first in LaVale since 1940.

The Mt. Savage Band, under the direction of Thomas W. Lewis, will present 13 selections Friday night from 8 until 9 on the fire company grounds.

Steady Progress In Conservation Noted In County

Allegany District Has 210 Co-operators

Steady progress in conservation practices needed to promote the development of the agricultural resources of Allegany County is indicated in the semi-annual report of the Allegany Soil Conservation District to William W. Nace, district conservationist.

During the six-month period ending June 30, co-operators in the district prepared contour planting on 219 acres of land, contour strip cropped another 141 acres, treated 318 acres of Allegany pasture land and installed 600 feet of farm drains on 41 acres of land.

Work accomplished during the period, Philip Walter, soil conservationist, pointed out, was slightly higher than in the previous six months, which normally is a busy period for farmers.

Another proof of the progress of the district is given in the growth of membership. Some 210 farmers are now co-operators in the district while a report in February, 1946, listed 156 members.

The district was set up here in 1941 and field operations began the following year.

Although steady progress has been made here, the task ahead, as in the rest of the United States, is tremendous, and conservation officials assert that much of the work must be done within the next decade if permanent damage to our land is to be halted.

A work estimate in 1946, for instance indicated that 21,000 acres of cropland should be strip cropped and improved by construction of 245 miles of diversion terraces. Some 20,000 acres of land could be improved by pasture treatment. Forty-one acres of the 3,000 acres of wet land which could be improved by drainage were drained during the six-month period.

100 Year History Of Baptist Church Will Be Depicted

The highlight of the Centennial Week celebration being held by the First Baptist Church this week will be the presentation of a historical pageant depicting outstanding events of the 100 years since the church was formed.

In last night's service, Rev. John T. Coburn, who served as the pastor of the church from 1930 until 1933, stressed the thought that through prayer and faith in Christianity, one can accomplish any goal set before him. Rev. Mr. Coburn recalled many instances from life and related portions of the Bible to emphasize his point.

He stated that the churches of today must go forward in the next few years to keep pace with the many changes in life and environment that are occurring.

Rev. Coburn commented on the remodeling done in the church since his pastorate here and remarked that he recognized many persons in the congregation who were members during his three years at First Baptist Church.

Rev. Mr. Coburn, who has been serving the Baptist church in Roanoke, Va., will go from here to Washington, where he has been transferred to Fifth Baptist Church. He will preach his first sermon there Sunday.

"Murder" Results In Larceny Charge

BALTIMORE, July 23 (AP) — A faked murder resulted today in a larceny charge against Enrico Noto, 63.

Noto's brother-in-law, Sam Sole, and Lt. Clarence German told Magistrate James R. Cadden the following account of how an act by seven conspirators led Sole to give his life's savings to "hush up" a killing that never took place.

Last May, Sole was threatened by two men after he had refused to sell his fruit stand. He asked the aid of his brother-in-law, Noto, and accompanied by two "body-guards" they went to a night club where Sole identified one of the men who had threatened him.

Then several shots rang out from a gun carried by one of the bodyguards, and the alleged threatener staged a dramatic collapse. A pair of "detectives" appeared on the scene and informed Sole it would take $30,000 to silence the "murder."

Sole then drew $5,000 from the bank and turned it over to one of the bodyguards, with the understanding that Noto would contribute his share of the "bribe."

Magistrate Cadden ordered Noto held in $7,500 bond for grand jury action.

Then several shots rang out from a gun carried by one of the body-guards, and the alleged threatener staged a dramatic collapse. A pair of "detectives" appeared on the scene and informed Sole it would take $30,000 to silence the "murder."

Sole then drew $5,000 from the bank and turned it over to one of the bodyguards, with the understanding that Noto would contribute his share of the "bribe."

Magistrate Cadden ordered Noto held in $7,500 bond for grand jury action.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

By J. GLENN BEALL
(Member of Congress from Maryland Sixth District)

UNDER THE DOME

Members of the Maryland Delegation came to my office Thursday to meet with the Airport Committee of Salisbury. We discussed the application of the Chesapeake Airways of Maryland for a certificate for interstate operations. The Company is now operating an interstate line between Baltimore and the Eastern Shore. This is very well but in order to have complete service to the Delmarva Peninsula area the Company must connect with Washington, Wilmington and Rehobeth.

Since the application for this extra service was filed in 1945, hearings held in January 1946, and the examiners report filed in March 1947, it is reasonable to assume that the certificate should be granted.

It isn't difficult to understand this problem and since we believe the request of the Airline reasonable, we are going to do everything possible to get action.

I am opposed to the Government going into competition with private business. Therefore, I appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee to voice my opposition to the provision in the Appropriation Bill for the District of Columbia which provides for an asphalt plant to be constructed for the District. Economy is essential in Government operation but American fair play is equally important.

Having attended many hearings of the House Public Works Committee of which I am a member, and listened and participated in the discussion of the St. Lawrence Waterway project, I voiced my opposition to this legislation.

There is a milling company in my district that has been ordered by the Pure Food Commissioner to stop the manufacture of flour in the same building where it retails feed and grain. The company has been operating this way for forty years with no apparent ill effects. However, the company is willing to change the set-up in order to comply with existing regulations. However, since now is the time to make flour, I've asked the Commissioners to rescind the order until the flour is made. Then I am sure plans can be made for the milling company to make the necessary changes in order to meet the regulations of the Pure Food Act.

ANOTHER VETO

I told you last week that I thought the President would veto the second tax reduction bill which was identical to the first except that it changed the effective date from July 1, 1947 to January 1, 1948.

It seems certain that the issue of tax reduction—how much and when—will be one of the important issues in next year's Presidential campaign. It is evident that the President does not want a tax reduction. He means to continue the New Deal's policy of taxing and spending, taxing and spending. Republicans in Congress believe that tax reduction is justified and this reduction should be now, releasing greater purchasing power for around 49,000,000 taxpayers, offsetting soaring prices and turning loose investment capital.

MONTGOMERY COMMISSIONERS

I have been watching with keen interest the record of the Republican controlled Board of County Commissioners in Montgomery County.

This is the first time the Republican Party has controlled the County Government in Montgomery, therefore, it is natural that we watch what goes on.

Looking over the record of this Board for the first six months one gets the impression that it is doing a good job.

The Board has adopted a liberal budget which grants to the School Board an appropriation large enough to provide a substantial increase in school teachers salaries among the highest in the State, I believe.

The Board has also inaugurated a number of money-saving devices pertaining to purchasing, gas and oil dispensing to county-owned vehicles. Also noted, is a genuine road building program, school construction projects and sensible administration of the County Police Department.

While Congress is out of session, I am going to make it a point to visit every county seat in my District along with a number of other places in order that I may see and talk with my constituents. I am firmly convinced that the Sixth Maryland Congressional District is one of the most interesting in the country. I hope to tell you more about it.

During the 19th century, gaily painted figures of Indians carved of wood, usually offering a bundle of cigars, were familiar signs in front of tobacco shops throughout the United States. Laws against blocking the sidewalks gradually eliminated them.

Brewers' Protest In Amvets' Battle Upheld By League

Replay Is Ordered; Amvets Are Fined $5

FROSTBURG, July 23 — The executive committee of the Bi-State Baseball League met tonight at the VFW Home and upheld the protest filed by the Queen City Brewers in their game with the Amvets which the latter team won last Sunday by the score 6 to 4.

Manager Charley Doyle of Queen City protested Norman Gerdeman's steal of home in the fourth inning, contending that Plate Umpire Ray Middleton was dusting off the plate at the time, and that it was an automatic time out in view of the fact that the arbiter was in a position between the pitcher and catcher at the time the Amvets' manager made his dash homeward.

The committee ruled that the teams must relay the game from fourth inning when the protest filed. Danny Drew was at bat with the count one and one, Gerdeman was on third base and the score was knotted at 4-4 with two hands retired. Middleton and Warnick are to be the officials and no player signed after July 20 can appear in the innings to be relayed when the teams clash again.

The two umpires, George Layman, umpire-in-chief of the league Charley Doyle and Enoch Price, representing Queen City and the Amvets, attended tonight's session.

President Alexander "Pop" Nicol announced that a fine of $5 will be imposed on the Cumberland Amvets for failure to pay their share of $15 to the league's "expense fund." All teams are required to turn over to the league treasurer $7 by June 1 and $8 by July 1. Nicol said that all clubs have abided by this ruling but the Amvets, who have promised several times to pay their share.

Nicol announced that Midland's Red Sox will finish out the season and will not withdraw from the league as rumored. Midland forfeited its game to Hyndman on Tuesday for failure to notify the Hyndman management of its failure to field a team 48 hours in advance of the game's scheduled starting time.

The league president said he did not believe Queen City could claim yesterday's game with Midland by the forfeit route because the game had not been officially scheduled.

Bob Elliott Hits Four-Run Homer In Boston Victory

Sain Marks Up 12th Win Over Cubs, 12-4

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP) — Homers by Bob Elliott and Phil Masi topped a 15 hit Boston attack which smothered the Chicago Cubs, 12 to 4, today and kept the Braves in National League pennant contention.

Bob Elliott

Ending a stretch of 17 times at bat without a hit, Elliott blasted his circuit blow with the bases filled in the first inning to feature a seven run attack on starter Hank Wyse and Reliefer Emil Kush. Masi followed with a three-run homer in the sixth when the Braves scored four runs off Bob Chipman.

Johnny Sain, in collecting his season's 12th, held the Cubs scoreless until the seventh. Box:

16 Survive Play In Golf Tourney

Crossley Wins Twice In Publinks Tests

By MAURICE PUTNAM

MINNEAPOLIS, July 23 (AP) — Elimination came quickly and in some cases abruptly for 48 aspiring amateur golfers today in first and second round matches in the National Public Links Tournament. The field was pared from 64 who started the 36 holes of play in a hard rain to 16 survivors.

One early afternoon upset was the 7 and 6 triumph by Al Clasen of St. Paul, Minn., over Walter Browne of Atlanta, in the second round.

Browne who attracted much favorable comment in pre-tourney practice rounds failed to win a hole as Clasen took the biggest triumph of the day.

Wilfgred Crossley, Atlanta insurance underwriter who took medalist honors yesterday with a 139, won both his matches today by decisive scores. His first victim was Louis Esposito of Chicago, 4 and 3. In the afternoon he thumped Robert Kay of Toledo, 5 and 4.

Mike Stefanchik, Gary, Ind., steel worker, lost a heart breaking second round match to Avery Beck, Raleigh, N. C., loan firm owner, after making a sensational pitch to the green.

Stefanchik was one down coming up to the 18th green. He laid his approach shot just inches from the cup. He holed out with one putt while Beck two putted to lose the hole and the match was even.

It fell to Marino Caso, Seattle, Wash., to play successively the first stymie of the day's matches. Staying even with Arthur Jennerman of St. Louis coming to the 18th green, Caso laid his approach within 18 inches of the cup. Jennerman's approach was 15 feet short. His putt laid a dead stymie.

Caso, using a No. 9 iron, chipped over Jennerman's ball and into the cup for the hole and the match.

Maccabees at Virginia Ave. (Penn Ave.)

Astor Cab moved into second place in the City Softball League yesterday by defeating the Virginia Avenue Merchants in an overtime battle at Taylor Field by the score of 5 to 4.

Donald "Bubbles" Whitman's homer in the ninth inning decided the game, breaking a 4-4 deadlock. Algeri also hit for the circuit for the winners. Mease, Morgan, Brady and Rizer collected two hits each for the Merchants.

Manager Frank Riehl's Amvets made it eight straight wins for the second half race by downing the Concord Clothiers at Campobello by the score of 4 to 1 behind the four-hit pitching of Bill Whiteman. Doyle George paced the Amvets with a double and two singles while Lou Bell garnered a two-bagger and single and "Doc" Daugherty, second sacker, starred afield. The game was played in 45 minutes.

Lacy's Delicatets staged a two-run rally in the 7th and final frame to eke out a 5-4 decision over the Maccabees at Penn Avenue field. Bob Scaletta made his debut on the mound for the first half champs but his wildness caused his undoing and his brother Gene came to his rescue in the first after the Bees had scored three runs. Gene blanked the Maccabees after the latter had crossed the plate four times in the initial frame. Hardy and Durbin shared four of the Delicatets' six bingles.

Reed's Electricians edged the North End Social and Athletic Club at Community Park by the score of 5 to 4, scoring the winning run in the final frame when Pete Elliott dashed home from third after Pellerzi's fly to the outfield. Lamar Minnick was the "big gun" for Reed's with four hits in as many trips to the plate. Elliott obtained two hits. "Fuz" Hoyle set North End down with five hits, all singles.

Brewers' Protest In Amvets' Battle Upheld By League

Replay Is Ordered; Amvets Are Fined $5

FROSTBURG, July 23 — The executive committee of the Bi-State Baseball League met tonight at the VFW Home and upheld the protest filed by the Queen City Brewers in their game with the Amvets which the latter team won last Sunday by the score 6 to 4.

Manager Charley Doyle of Queen City protested Norman Gerdeman's steal of home in the fourth inning, contending that Plate Umpire Ray Middleton was dusting off the plate at the time, and that it was an automatic time out in view of the fact that the arbiter was in a position between the pitcher and catcher at the time the Amvets' manager made his dash homeward.

The committee ruled that the teams must relay the game from fourth inning when the protest filed. Danny Drew was at bat with the count one and one, Gerdeman was on third base and the score was knotted at 4-4 with two hands retired. Middleton and Warnick are to be the officials and no player signed after July 20 can appear in the innings to be relayed when the teams clash again.

The two umpires, George Layman, umpire-in-chief of the league Charley Doyle and Enoch Price, representing Queen City and the Amvets, attended tonight's session.

President Alexander "Pop" Nicol announced that a fine of $5 will be imposed on the Cumberland Amvets for failure to pay their share of $15 to the league's "expense fund." All teams are required to turn over to the league treasurer $7 by June 1 and $8 by July 1. Nicol said that all clubs have abided by this ruling but the Amvets, who have promised several times to pay their share.

Nicol announced that Midland's Red Sox will finish out the season and will not withdraw from the league as rumored. Midland forfeited its game to Hyndman on Tuesday for failure to notify the Hyndman management of its failure to field a team 48 hours in advance of the game's scheduled starting time.

The league president said he did not believe Queen City could claim yesterday's game with Midland by the forfeit route because the game had not been officially scheduled.

It was announced that no clubs in the circuit can sign additional players after August 1.

16 Survive Play In Golf Tourney

Crossley Wins Twice In Publinks Tests

By MAURICE PUTNAM

MINNEAPOLIS, July 23 (AP) — Elimination came quickly and in some cases abruptly for 48 aspiring amateur golfers today in first and second round matches in the National Public Links Tournament. The field was pared from 64 who started the 36 holes of play in a hard rain to 16 survivors.

One early afternoon upset was the 7 and 6 triumph by Al Clasen of St. Paul, Minn., over Walter Browne of Atlanta, in the second round.

Browne who attracted much favorable comment in pre-tourney practice rounds failed to win a hole as Clasen took the biggest triumph of the day.

Wilfgred Crossley, Atlanta insurance underwriter who took medalist honors yesterday with a 139, won both his matches today by decisive scores. His first victim was Louis Esposito of Chicago, 4 and 3. In the afternoon he thumped Robert Kay of Toledo, 5 and 4.

Mike Stefanchik, Gary, Ind., steel worker, lost a heart breaking second round match to Avery Beck, Raleigh, N. C., loan firm owner, after making a sensational pitch to the green.

Stefanchik was one down coming up to the 18th green. He laid his approach shot just inches from the cup. He holed out with one putt while Beck two putted to lose the hole and the match was even.

It fell to Marino Caso, Seattle, Wash., to play successively the first stymie of the day's matches. Staying even with Arthur Jennerman of St. Louis coming to the 18th green, Caso laid his approach within 18 inches of the cup. Jennerman's approach was 15 feet short. His putt laid a dead stymie.

Caso, using a No. 9 iron, chipped over Jennerman's ball and into the cup for the hole and the match.

Maccabees at Virginia Ave. (Penn Ave.)

Astor Cab moved into second place in the City Softball League yesterday by defeating the Virginia Avenue Merchants in an overtime battle at Taylor Field by the score of 5 to 4.

Donald "Bubbles" Whitman's homer in the ninth inning decided the game, breaking a 4-4 deadlock. Algeri also hit for the circuit for the winners. Mease, Morgan, Brady and Rizer collected two hits each for the Merchants.

Manager Frank Riehl's Amvets made it eight straight wins for the second half race by downing the Concord Clothiers at Campobello by the score of 4 to 1 behind the four-hit pitching of Bill Whiteman. Doyle George paced the Amvets with a double and two singles while Lou Bell garnered a two-bagger and single and "Doc" Daugherty, second sacker, starred afield. The game was played in 45 minutes.

Lacy's Delicatets staged a two-run rally in the 7th and final frame to eke out a 5-4 decision over the Maccabees at Penn Avenue field. Bob Scaletta made his debut on the mound for the first half champs but his wildness caused his undoing and his brother Gene came to his rescue in the first after the Bees had scored three runs. Gene blanked the Maccabees after the latter had crossed the plate four times in the initial frame. Hardy and Durbin shared four of the Delicatets' six bingles.

Reed's Electricians edged the North End Social and Athletic Club at Community Park by the score of 5 to 4, scoring the winning run in the final frame when Pete Elliott dashed home from third after Pellerzi's fly to the outfield. Lamar Minnick was the "big gun" for Reed's with four hits in as many trips to the plate. Elliott obtained two hits. "Fuz" Hoyle set North End down with five hits, all singles.

He holds a similar job at Charles Town, Bel Air, Hagerstown, Laurel and Sunshine Park in Florida. Joe was born December 18, 1913 and began riding in 1931. 'Coney Defeats Barton, 11-5 For Fifth Straight Triumph

Six Runs In Third Win Bi-State Game

Lonaconing's Republican Club tossers extended their winning streak to five games yesterday by defeating the Barton American Legion to the tune of 11 to 5 in a Bi-State League contest in Barton.

By scoring eleven markers in today's game 'Coney boosted its run total to 61 for five straight games, an average of 12 tallies per contest.

The victory was Lonaconing's 14th against 10 defeats. Barton has suffered 20 defeats in 21 starts.

Score Six Runs in 3rd.

The league's fourth place club sewed up yesterday's game by registering six runs in the third frame after Barton had taken a 2-1 edge in the second stanza.

Claude Steele pitched the first six innings and received credit for his sixth mound triumph against three losses. Nicols twirled the last three innings for the winners.

'Coney larruped the offerings of two opposing hurlers for an even dozen safeties, including Dale Broadwater's double and two singles in five trips to the plate. Cameron featured at short for the victors, turning in several nice stops and throws.

Cooper smacked a homer run for Barton in the ninth inning.

Umpire Eddie Martin last night announced that he declared the Queen City Brewers victors over the Midland Red Sox via the forfeit route when the latter team failed to put in its appearance for a scheduled game yesterday at 5:30 at Stitcher Field. Ten Queen City players reported for the game and waited until 6:10 for the arrival of the Midland team. Box:

Small Boat Sailing Races To Resume At Deep Creek

First Postwar Contests Set This Weekend

Saturday And Sunday Events Start At 2:30

Small-boat sailing races on Deep Creek Lake, suspended since 1942 because of the war, will be resumed this Saturday and Sunday at the Deep Creek Yacht Club on Turkey Neck peninsula, Commodore H. H. Muma announced today.

A schedule of three races will be offered on both days and all boats of whatever class on the lake are invited to enter. The starting gun for the first race on both days will be at 2:30 p. m.

The first event will be an open class with Commodore Muma's Cape Cod class Bonnie Louise, Past Commodore Henry K. Duke's Libseth of the same class, and the Seagull class entries of Ralph C. Bowen and John Paul of Wheeling as probable starters.

Snipe class sloops in the water and ready to face the starting gun include those of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Holben of Frostburg, Dr. and Mr. Donald B. Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Steiding, Mr. and Mrs. David T. Davis and H. H. Muma, Jr.

The third event will be for the new Penguin class, with a small fleet from the Pittsburgh, Pa., area making up the majority of entries.

The Deep Creek Yacht Club was founded in 1936 and was granted Divisional Fleet Charter No. 72 by the International Snipe Class Racing Association. Racing in the Snipe class flourished and at one time the club fleet numbered more than a score of boats. In 1938 and 1939 the club's championship boat was entered in the International events on Long Island Sound.

Racing was discontinued in 1941, when almost 100% of the club membership entered the Army, Navy or Coast Guard.

The clubhouse on Turkey Neck peninsula was re-opened three weeks ago and the dining room and dormitories are now available for members and their guests. It is planned to offer racing every week-end this summer until mid-September.

THREE-WHEEL RACER—Something new may be added to the 1948 Indianapolis 500-mile racing scene if the car designed by Edward Shermeister, Jr., of Sheboygan, Wis., gets a trial. It is a three-wheeled car being examined in scale model by Wilbur Shaw, president of the Speedway corporation. The Shermeister car is a front drive racer with its tail in the form of a hydraulic airfoil or fin which can be extended to create the necessary amount of air resistance to stop skidding.

Servo To Fight Kessler

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP) — Marty Servo of Schenectady, N. Y., former world welterweight champion, and Ruby Kessler of Brooklyn were signed by the Twentieth Century Sporting Club today for a ten-round fight in Madison Square Garden, Aug. 22.

First Flight Takes Feature

OCEANPORT, N. J., July 23—(AP)—First Flight, voted best of the 1946 two-year olds, showed her vaunted speed to 10 other three-year-old fillies today in winning the mile and a sixteenth Monmouth Oaks.

Chalking up her second victory in as many starts this season, the baby daughter of Mahoud and Fly Swatter turned in a very impressive race under the expert handling of Eddie Arcaro. She crossed the finish line an easy winner by two lengths over J. M. Roebling's Frantie's Bid to pick up the purse of $9,000.

Whipsaw from Donald Ross' Brandywine Stable was another four lengths back in third place with fourth going to the early pace maker, O. L. Nyberg's Irisen.

Ford Frick Will Rule On Cardinals' Protest

NEW YORK, July 23—(AP)—Ford C. Frick, president of the National League, said today he had received the official protest of the St. Louis Cardinals regarding their 3 to 2 loss to Brooklyn last Sunday. He added that his decision would not be available until later.

The Cardinals protested that Umpire Beans Reardon indicated to Ron Northey that he had hit a home run with the result that the Cardinal outfielder jogged around the bases, only to be thrown out at home plate.

Small Boat Sailing Races To Resume At Deep Creek

Saturday And Sunday Events Start At 2:30

Small-boat sailing races on Deep Creek Lake, suspended since 1942 because of the war, will be resumed this Saturday and Sunday at the Deep Creek Yacht Club on Turkey Neck peninsula, Commodore H. H. Muma announced today.

A schedule of three races will be offered on both days and all boats of whatever class on the lake are invited to enter. The starting gun for the first race on both days will be at 2:30 p. m.

The first event will be an open class with Commodore Muma's Cape Cod class Bonnie Louise, Past Commodore Henry K. Duke's Libseth of the same class, and the Seagull class entries of Ralph C. Bowen and John Paul of Wheeling as probable starters.

Snipe class sloops in the water and ready to face the starting gun include those of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Holben of Frostburg, Dr. and Mr. Donald B. Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Steiding, Mr. and Mrs. David T. Davis and H. H. Muma, Jr.

The third event will be for the new Penguin class, with a small fleet from the Pittsburgh, Pa., area making up the majority of entries.

The Deep Creek Yacht Club was founded in 1936 and was granted Divisional Fleet Charter No. 72 by the International Snipe Class Racing Association. Racing in the Snipe class flourished and at one time the club fleet numbered more than a score of boats. In 1938 and 1939 the club's championship boat was entered in the International events on Long Island Sound.

Racing was discontinued in 1941, when almost 100% of the club membership entered the Army, Navy or Coast Guard.

The clubhouse on Turkey Neck peninsula was re-opened three weeks ago and the dining room and dormitories are now available for members and their guests. It is planned to offer racing every week-end this summer until mid-September.

THREE-WHEEL RACER—Something new may be added to the 1948 Indianapolis 500-mile racing scene if the car designed by Edward Shermeister, Jr., of Sheboygan, Wis., gets a trial. It is a three-wheeled car being examined in scale model by Wilbur Shaw, president of the Speedway corporation. The Shermeister car is a front drive racer with its tail in the form of a hydraulic airfoil or fin which can be extended to create the necessary amount of air resistance to stop skidding.

BERN—(AP)—A threatended strike in the building trades throughout Switzerland, in the face of a housing shortage, has been averted by an agreement for increased wages to the workers. Building contractors agreed to absorb part of the increased wages, the remainder to be figured against basic construction costs. Price-control authorities estimated the cost of building would be increased from 8 to 10 per cent.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—David Selznick's raid on Italian talent has not only produced Valli, the beauty from Rome, but in September he is bringing over Mario Soldati, acclaimed in Europe as the greatest director Italy has ever produced.

Lanny Ross

What I don't know about Signor Soldati would fill this column on account of his pictures have not been released over here. But I must say his record is impressive.

He is a two-time winner of the Venice Festival Award and is the most recent recipient of the European counterpart of the American Oscar.

Soldati is already at work on an original screenplay to co-star Valli and Louis Jourdan. Directing Valli will not be a new experience since he guided her in the prize winning "Little Ancient World". I might add that he speaks English perfectly—which will come in handy.

Lanny Ross, who for 27 months has been a member of General MacArthur's staff in Japan, is scheduled to sing at the Hollywood Bowl August 2. While here Lanny will discuss a movie.

He made "Stagedoor Canteen, in 1943, and 10 years ago did a series of pictures for Paramount. Funny thing is that Lanny, who has a gorgeous singing voice, didn't do too well on the screen. I've always thought it was because of the film material given him. In today's musical comedy he would be excellent.

The news that Shirley Temple expects a baby calls for a change in both "Mary Hagen", the Warner picture she is now making, and "War Party", which she still says she'll do for John Ford.

Strenuous swimming sequences in "Mary Hagen" will be toned down, and in "War Party" the horseback riding scheduled for the former baby star is out.

Shirley finishes "Mary Hagen" August 4, and will immediately join the John Ford Company. Her husband, John Agar, is already there and has started work on the first picture he is to make with her.

Ford was yet to be heard from as to whether or not he will feel it advisable to go on with Shirley. But since it has been much advertised that Shirley and her husband were to make a picture together, John may want to continue with his original program.

Maria Montez tells me that when she sails for Europe August 3, she's taking her 16 months old daughter—"and" said Maria, "five boxes of food for her—all she'll need while we're there."

Jean Pierre Aumont, who's making a picture in England, said that he missed Maria and their baby, so what does she do but pack up and decide to visit him. She'll stay two months and return in time to make "The Scarlet Feather" for Charles Rogers.

She's something, that Maria. Right now she's entertaining her father and mother-in-law, two sisters and a couple of other relatives—and loving it.

Chatter in Hollywood: All this much discussed criticism of Rita Hayworth and her treatment of the French newspaper men and women is really very strange. Rita is always so accessible and pleasant to American movie scribes.

As I understand it, Rita speaks only a few words of French and when the French correspondents met her and started jabbering like mad, she became confused and walked away. She didn't know a word they were saying. She didn't mean to be temperamental or ungracious.

Rita was so upset over the criticism, that for several days she wouldn't come out of the hotel, and when she did she burst into tears.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Martin Gosch, Broadway and Hollywood producer, and his wife, Joan Arliss, former Broadway actress are calling it a day.

Lana Turner's house is for sale. She says she needs a larger one. Meanwhile, Tyrone Power has bought the Henry Hathaway home and will move in when he returns from Europe.

A cable from Merle Oberon from Cannes, France, says she will be there 10 more days before going to Paris. She went abroad to make a picture.

The change in the opening date of "Down to Earth" gave Rita Hayworth a chance to stay in London until August 12. That won't make her mad, on account of David Niven, with whom she has a date, will be there. Just as soon as Rita comes back, she'll file for divorce from Orson Welles.

The William Goetzes leave for England in September. They will be the house guests of the J. Arthur Ranks, and the Ranks, who were much entertained by the Goetzes in Hollywood, will see that Edith and Bill have a wonderful time.

Archie Mayo has asked Tony De Marco to stage the dance sequences for the life of Rudolph Valentino, which sounds as if this long discussed movie is really getting under way.

The old Trocadero Night Club, which has been taken over by Monte Prosser, will be called the Trocacabana. Tony Martin will probably be the opening attraction.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Bultinck are flying to Hollywood to be the house guests of Lucille and Hal Roach. He is the managing director of New York's St. Regis Hotel.

Carmen Miranda's sister, Aurora, who retired from the theatrical world when she married Gabriel Richain, is expecting a baby in August.

Ned Depintet, RKO biggie, became an uncle a few days ago. His sister-in-law, Julie Mary, who is married to Mrs. Depintet's brother, welcomed a baby. She is married to Ben Cammack also with RKO.

Charlie Morrison gave a birthday party for Pat De Cicco at Mocambo and all of Pat's friends were there, including Joseph Schenck, the ex-Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and others.

A Chanteclair twosome—and different, were Bob Walker and Jacquelyne Dalya.

That's all today.

Tough, easy-to-lay, simple to fit over any wood, concrete, stone, tile or asphalt floor, are new asphalt planks that can be nailed or cemented on industrial floors, say the Petroleum Institute.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—David Selznick's raid on Italian talent has not only produced Valli, the beauty from Rome, but in September he is bringing over Mario Soldati, acclaimed in Europe as the greatest director Italy has ever produced.

Lanny Ross

What I don't know about Signor Soldati would fill this column on account of his pictures have not been released over here. But I must say his record is impressive.

He is a two-time winner of the Venice Festival Award and is the most recent recipient of the European counterpart of the American Oscar.

Soldati is already at work on an original screenplay to co-star Valli and Louis Jourdan. Directing Valli will not be a new experience since he guided her in the prize winning "Little Ancient World". I might add that he speaks English perfectly—which will come in handy.

Lanny Ross, who for 27 months has been a member of General MacArthur's staff in Japan, is scheduled to sing at the Hollywood Bowl August 2. While here Lanny will discuss a movie.

He made "Stagedoor Canteen, in 1943, and 10 years ago did a series of pictures for Paramount. Funny thing is that Lanny, who has a gorgeous singing voice, didn't do too well on the screen. I've always thought it was because of the film material given him. In today's musical comedy he would be excellent.

The news that Shirley Temple expects a baby calls for a change in both "Mary Hagen", the Warner picture she is now making, and "War Party", which she still says she'll do for John Ford.

Strenuous swimming sequences in "Mary Hagen" will be toned down, and in "War Party" the horseback riding scheduled for the former baby star is out.

Shirley finishes "Mary Hagen" August 4, and will immediately join the John Ford Company. Her husband, John Agar, is already there and has started work on the first picture he is to make with her.

Ford was yet to be heard from as to whether or not he will feel it advisable to go on with Shirley. But since it has been much advertised that Shirley and her husband were to make a picture together, John may want to continue with his original program.

Maria Montez tells me that when she sails for Europe August 3, she's taking her 16 months old daughter—"and" said Maria, "five boxes of food for her—all she'll need while we're there."

Jean Pierre Aumont, who's making a picture in England, said that he missed Maria and their baby, so what does she do but pack up and decide to visit him. She'll stay two months and return in time to make "The Scarlet Feather" for Charles Rogers.

She's something, that Maria. Right now she's entertaining her father and mother-in-law, two sisters and a couple of other relatives—and loving it.

Chatter in Hollywood: All this much discussed criticism of Rita Hayworth and her treatment of the French newspaper men and women is really very strange. Rita is always so accessible and pleasant to American movie scribes.

As I understand it, Rita speaks only a few words of French and when the French correspondents met her and started jabbering like mad, she became confused and walked away. She didn't know a word they were saying. She didn't mean to be temperamental or ungracious.

Rita was so upset over the criticism, that for several days she wouldn't come out of the hotel, and when she did she burst into tears.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Martin Gosch, Broadway and Hollywood producer, and his wife, Joan Arliss, former Broadway actress are calling it a day.

Lana Turner's house is for sale. She says she needs a larger one. Meanwhile, Tyrone Power has bought the Henry Hathaway home and will move in when he returns from Europe.

A cable from Merle Oberon from Cannes, France, says she will be there 10 more days before going to Paris. She went abroad to make a picture.

The change in the opening date of "Down to Earth" gave Rita Hayworth a chance to stay in London until August 12. That won't make her mad, on account of David Niven, with whom she has a date, will be there. Just as soon as Rita comes back, she'll file for divorce from Orson Welles.

The William Goetzes leave for England in September. They will be the house guests of the J. Arthur Ranks, and the Ranks, who were much entertained by the Goetzes in Hollywood, will see that Edith and Bill have a wonderful time.

Archie Mayo has asked Tony De Marco to stage the dance sequences for the life of Rudolph Valentino, which sounds as if this long discussed movie is really getting under way.

The old Trocadero Night Club, which has been taken over by Monte Prosser, will be called the Trocacabana. Tony Martin will probably be the opening attraction.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Bultinck are flying to Hollywood to be the house guests of Lucille and Hal Roach. He is the managing director of New York's St. Regis Hotel.

Carmen Miranda's sister, Aurora, who retired from the theatrical world when she married Gabriel Richain, is expecting a baby in August.

Ned Depintet, RKO biggie, became an uncle a few days ago. His sister-in-law, Julie Mary, who is married to Mrs. Depintet's brother, welcomed a baby. She is married to Ben Cammack also with RKO.

Charlie Morrison gave a birthday party for Pat De Cicco at Mocambo and all of Pat's friends were there, including Joseph Schenck, the ex-Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and others.

A Chanteclair twosome—and different, were Bob Walker and Jacquelyne Dalya.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

I Don't

Robert L. Ripley's trademark, "Believe It or Not," I've always felt, is an open invitation to incredulity and, since I am by nature skeptical, I frequently accept Mr. Ripley's kind invitation to disbelieve. Mr. Ripley's curiosities, though not Mr. Ripley in person, are on the air again in a fifteen-minute show, (N.B.C. 1:45 p.m. E.D.T. Monday through Friday), directly following the down-to-earth, homilies of Mary Margaret McBride.

Robert Ripley

The Ripley incredibilities are delegated to a man named Gregory Abbott. Like a magician with his opening card tricks, Mr. Abbott warms up the audience with a few oddities liberally pitched in minor key. Then he brings up the disappearing rabbit act. This bit is given a full-scale dramatization which somehow makes it even more implausible; it is at this point that Mr. Ripley and I part company. The other day Mr. Abbott pulled out this particular rabbit.

All set?

In 1895 a revenue officer named Robert O'Connor walked out of his home in a London suburb and was never seen again. Scotland Yard came sniffing about and the inspector was properly buffaloed, if the British will forgive such a phrase. The inspector was moodily having a drop of ale at a pub and happened to mention the mystery when a near-by drunk spoke up. "Robert O'Connor!" exclaimed the drunk. "Why, I know the case well. Revenue officer, wasn't he? Disappeared from his home. The police found his body under the floor of a house in Cholmondsley. (I think that's the name.) The murderer was a woman he'd been carrying on with."

Since the O'Connor case had received no publicity and since the police had no indication that O'Connor had been murdered, the inspector was properly exasperated. (Something about Scotland Yard brings out the British in me.)

Anyhow, it turned out the O'Connor, the drunk was speaking of died almost 250 years earlier, in 1649. The inspector looked up the record and discovered there had been another Robert O'Connor, also a revenue officer, who had disappeared under the same circumstances and later been found dead under the kitchen floor of a house in Cholmondsley, (if that's the name.)

The inspector went nosing about the house still standing, where the 250-year-old murder had taken place, and—hold on to your chairs here—and discovered—believe it or not—an dI don't—that it was inhabited by a Maria Manning, who was the best friend of Mrs. Robert O'Connor, the second (the 1895 one). As a matter of fact Mrs. Robert O'Connor, the second, was at that moment residing there pending the return of her husband. Well, sir, the inspector dug up the kitchen floor, the second time in 250 years, and there was Robert the second, dead as yesterday's newspaper.

O'Connor, it developed, had been dallying with Maria Manning and had been killed just as had the first O'Connor by Miss Manning when he tried to terminate the affair. There was just one more coincidence, and right here my credulity snapped like a violin string. The first murderess had not only lived in the same house, murdered a man of the same name and same occupation and disposited him in the same place, but she was also named Maria Manning.

I have no doubt that Mr. Ripley is up to his elbows in documents on this case but I still don't believe it because I just don't want to believe it. Nothing that works out that neatly should be true. It upsets the law of averages in a most alarming manner. Suppose, I ask you, that a pitcher came along who batted one thousand per cent, fielded one thousand per cent and struck out every batter that faced him for a full season. The game of baseball would forever after be inherently ridiculous. In the same way Mr. Ripley's smooth improbabilities make the game of life just a little silly.

Or perhaps I'm just temperamently unsuited to the Ripley product. If this act appeals to you—and it appeals to a great many persons—you may get your credulity slaked five days a week, same time, same station.

Marine Corps League Surrenders License

Francis K. Finan Chapter, Marine Corps League has surrendered its club liquor license to the Allegany County Liquor Control Board, and several members indicated yesterday that the organization plans to surrender its charter and disband.

Headquarters for the club have been maintained at 120 South Mechanic Street. The decision to surrender the license followed a court case in which Ralph Patch, commandant of the organization, was fined $500 for giving alcoholic beverage to a 17-year-old girl.

Members said yesterday that the formation of the Marine Corps Reserve Company here, and the construction of an Armory will provide activity for Marines, and some members favor disbanding the chapter and surrendering the charter. Formal action has not yet been taken, it was reported.

Three Motorists Fined In Magistrates' Court

Three motorists were fined in Trial Magistrates' Court yesterday for violations of state motor vehicle laws.

Charles H. Rafferty, Pittsburgh, was fined $11.45 for exceeding 50 miles per hour on Route 220 near Amcelle Tuesday. Charles K. Graham, Frostburg, was fined $2.45 for failing to obey a stop sign at Amcelle yesterday. Both motorists were apprehended by State Trooper G. E. Coddington.

Stenson K. White, Cleveland, O., was fined $5.75 for exceeding 30 miles per hour on Route 40 in La Vale yesterday. Trooper Robert Henline preferred the charges.

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew presided at the latter two cases and Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., judged the Rafferty violation.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

I Don't

Robert Ripley

Robert L. Ripley's trademark, "Believe It or Not," I've always felt, is an open invitation to incredulity and, since I am by nature skeptical, I frequently accept Mr. Ripley's kind invitation to disbelieve. Mr. Ripley's curiosities, though not Mr. Ripley in person, are on the air again in a fifteen-minute show, (N.B.C. 1:45 p.m. E.D.T. Monday through Friday), directly following the down-to-earth, homilies of Mary Margaret McBride.

The Ripley incredibilities are delegated to a man named Gregory Abbott. Like a magician with his opening card tricks, Mr. Abbott warms up the audience with a few oddities liberally pitched in minor key. Then he brings up the disappearing rabbit act. This bit is given a full-scale dramatization which somehow makes it even more implausible; it is at this point that Mr. Ripley and I part company. The other day Mr. Abbott pulled out this particular rabbit.

All set?

In 1895 a revenue officer named Robert O'Connor walked out of his home in a London suburb and was never seen again. Scotland Yard came sniffing about and the inspector was properly buffaloed, if the British will forgive such a phrase. The inspector was moodily having a drop of ale at a pub and happened to mention the mystery when a near-by drunk spoke up. "Robert O'Connor!" exclaimed the drunk. "Why, I know the case well. Revenue officer, wasn't he? Disappeared from his home. The police found his body under the floor of a house in Cholmondsley. (I think that's the name.) The murderer was a woman he'd been carrying on with."

Since the O'Connor case had received no publicity and since the police had no indication that O'Connor had been murdered, the inspector was properly exasperated. (Something about Scotland Yard brings out the British in me.)

Anyhow, it turned out the O'Connor, the drunk was speaking of died almost 250 years earlier, in 1649. The inspector looked up the record and discovered there had been another Robert O'Connor, also a revenue officer, who had disappeared under the same circumstances and later been found dead under the kitchen floor of a house in Cholmondsley, (if that's the name.)

The inspector went nosing about the house still standing, where the 250-year-old murder had taken place, and—hold on to your chairs here—and discovered—believe it or not—an dI don't—that it was inhabited by a Maria Manning, who was the best friend of Mrs. Robert O'Connor, the second (the 1895 one). As a matter of fact Mrs. Robert O'Connor, the second, was at that moment residing there pending the return of her husband. Well, sir, the inspector dug up the kitchen floor, the second time in 250 years, and there was Robert the second, dead as yesterday's newspaper.

O'Connor, it developed, had been dallying with Maria Manning and had been killed just as had the first O'Connor by Miss Manning when he tried to terminate the affair. There was just one more coincidence, and right here my credulity snapped like a violin string. The first murderess had not only lived in the same house, murdered a man of the same name and same occupation and disposited him in the same place, but she was also named Maria Manning.

I have no doubt that Mr. Ripley is up to his elbows in documents on this case but I still don't believe it because I just don't want to believe it. Nothing that works out that neatly should be true. It upsets the law of averages in a most alarming manner. Suppose, I ask you, that a pitcher came along who batted one thousand per cent, fielded one thousand per cent and struck out every batter that faced him for a full season. The game of baseball would forever after be inherently ridiculous. In the same way Mr. Ripley's smooth improbabilities make the game of life just a little silly.

Or perhaps I'm just temperamently unsuited to the Ripley product. If this act appeals to you—and it appeals to a great many persons—you may get your credulity slaked five days a week, same time, same station.

Marine Corps League Surrenders License

Francis K. Finan Chapter, Marine Corps League has surrendered its club liquor license to the Allegany County Liquor Control Board, and several members indicated yesterday that the organization plans to surrender its charter and disband.

Headquarters for the club have been maintained at 120 South Mechanic Street. The decision to surrender the license followed a court case in which Ralph Patch, commandant of the organization, was fined $500 for giving alcoholic beverage to a 17-year-old girl.

Members said yesterday that the formation of the Marine Corps Reserve Company here, and the construction of an Armory will provide activity for Marines, and some members favor disbanding the chapter and surrendering the charter. Formal action has not yet been taken, it was reported.

Three Motorists Fined In Magistrates' Court

Three motorists were fined in Trial Magistrates' Court yesterday for violations of state motor vehicle laws.

Charles H. Rafferty, Pittsburgh, was fined $11.45 for exceeding 50 miles per hour on Route 220 near Amcelle Tuesday. Charles K. Graham, Frostburg, was fined $2.45 for failing to obey a stop sign at Amcelle yesterday. Both motorists were apprehended by State Trooper G. E. Coddington.

Stenson K. White, Cleveland, O., was fined $5.75 for exceeding 30 miles per hour on Route 40 in La Vale yesterday. Trooper Robert Henline preferred the charges.

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew presided at the latter two cases and Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., judged the Rafferty violation.

Industrials, Rails Gain In Most Active Market Session Of Week

NEW YORK, July 23—(AP)—The stock market shook off some of its lethargy today and, in the most active session of the past week, selected industrials and rails moved up fractions to around three points although exceptions were plentiful.

Dealings turned lively in the fore noon as blocks of low-quoted issues running to 9,000 shares busied the ticker tape. Carriers came to the fore for a brief interval, then took a rest. Transfers of 1,808,000 shares compared with Tuesday's minimum for the month of 780,000 and were the largest since last Thursday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .5 of a point at 67.7, widest advance since July 11. Industrials were up .9 and only one. Under their peak since last August.

Tops for 1947 were recorded by Allied Chemical which finished up 3¼ at 194¼, Eastman Kodak one at 48⅝, Federated Department Stores three-fourths at 27⅝ and Robert Gair one-fourth at 8¼. Liggett and Myers was up one-half at 91 on a raised quarterly and G. R. Kinney three-eighth at 15⅝ on an extra payment. Ingersoll-Rand voted a $1.50 extra but the stock never sold.

Cudahy added three at 48 and American Woolen 2½ at 41¾. Ahead a point or more were Santa Fe at 89½, Publicker 26¾, Lone Star Cement 69½, Bethlehem 89½, Goodrich 56, Dow Chemical 167½ and Phelps Dodge 42½.

Corporates closing higher included B. and O. 5s of 2000 at 65¼, Central of New Jersey 5s at 34½, Chicago and Eastern Illinois Incomes at 41¼, Rock Island Refunding 4s at 54½, Great Northern adjusted 6s at 19¾, Missouri Pacific general 4s at 30¾, New York Central "A" 4½s at 76½, New Haven 4s of '55 at 48½, Northern Pacific 4s at 107½, Frisco 4½s at 51½, and Wabash 3¼s at 99½.

United States governments held steady in the over-the-counter market.

Sales of $4,600,000 compared with $4,095,000 Tuesday.

Industrials, Rails Gain In Most Active Market Session Of Week

NEW YORK, July 23—(AP)—The stock market shook off some of its lethargy today and, in the most active session of the past week, selected industrials and rails moved up fractions to around three points although exceptions were plentiful.

Dealings turned lively in the fore noon as blocks of low-quoted issues running to 9,000 shares busied the ticker tape. Carriers came to the fore for a brief interval, then took a rest. Transfers of 1,808,000 shares compared with Tuesday's minimum for the month of 780,000 and were the largest since last Thursday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .5 of a point at 67.7, widest advance since July 11. Industrials were up .9 and only one. Under their peak since last August.

Tops for 1947 were recorded by Allied Chemical which finished up 3¼ at 194¼, Eastman Kodak one at 48⅝, Federated Department Stores three-fourths at 27⅝ and Robert Gair one-fourth at 8⅛. Liggett and Myers was up one-half at 91 on a raised quarterly and G. R. Kinney three-eighth at 15⅝ on an extra payment. Ingersoll-Rand voted a $1.50 extra but the stock never sold.

Cudahy added three at 48 and American Woolen 2½ at 41¾. Ahead a point or more were Santa Fe at 89½, Publicker 26¾, Lone Star Cement 69½, Bethlehem 89½, Goodrich 56, Dow Chemical 167½ and Phelps Dodge 42½.

Railroad issues moved smartly forward in the bond market today in continuation of an upward trend virtually unbroken since mid-June.

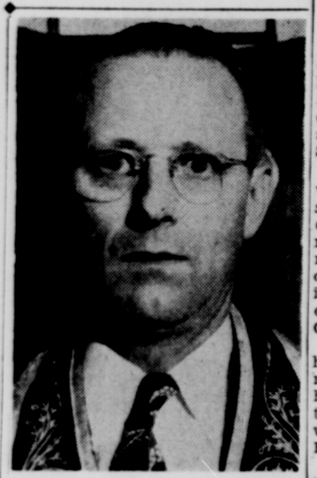
Officer On Reserve Duty At Aberdeen

Capt. Thomas Stafford,

Army Veteran Questioned In Death Of Infant Son

Mervin C. Wills, 20 Arrested By Deputies For State's Attorney

Possible Beating Of Baby Probed



HEADS IOOF—T. Ralph Croyle, 119 Elder Street, has the distinction of being the first and only man in Maryland to hold three top offices in IOOF lodges at the same time. He is Chief Patriarch of Cumberland Encampment No. 23, IOOF; is Noble Grand Subordinate of Chosen Friends Lodge No. 30; and is also Captain of Allegany Canton No. 4, the uniformed body of the IOOF, all of this city. Croyle is an employe of the Celanese plant here.

Mervin C. Wills, 20, Christie Road Army veteran, was arrested about 8 o'clock last night by sheriff's deputies on Virginia Avenue, and taken to the county jail where he is being held in connection with the death of his 18-month-old son, who died in Allegany Hospital Sunday night shortly after being admitted there.

At the sheriff's office, deputies said they had been instructed to pick up Wills for the State's Attorney.

The NEWS learned that Wills had been in the County Jail from Monday night until late Tuesday, and that both he and his wife, Nancy Jorrette Wills, 16, had been questioned for a long period at the State's Attorney's office Monday night. The wife has not been held but was also questioned by authorities.

Died Sunday night

The Wills infant was taken to Allegany Hospital late Sunday by the parents, who told attaches there the child was ill from several falls it had during the week. The baby had a broken collar bone, multiple bruises and lacerations about its body and other injuries. The baby boy, whom the parents called "Little Butchie," died Sunday night.

An autopsy was performed by Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, and Dr. Benedine Skitarelic, pathologist at Memorial Hospital. Dr. Deming has not issued a cause of death for publication, and told the News last night "the State has not yet broken its case and I have no complete report to make."

County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle has been working on the case and it was learned that he made a thorough inspection of the premises where the Wills live on Christie Road.

Investigator Boyle was contacted last night and asked why Wills had been picked up again and he referred the News to State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris.

The News also learned that Assistant State Attorney Paul M. Fletcher has been active in the investigation and when he was contacted last night, he referred the News to Harris.

Efforts to reach Harris at his home or office were unsuccessful, and at his home, a request was left with his family to have him call the office when he came home. He had not called when this was written at an early hour this morning.

The only statement that has been forthcoming from county authorities in the case was to the effect that the parents claimed the child was injured when he fell several times during the past week and became suddenly ill Sunday. The child seemed to have difficulty breathing Sunday, and the parents took him to the hospital.

The parents at first told authorities the child fell once from a lumber pile, fell over an embankment and fell while chasing a pet dog.

Authorities were suspicious because of the nature of the little boy's condition and because of bruises on his upper legs, lower back and other injuries.

From an authoritative source deemed reliable, it was stated, "the child looked as if it had been beaten half to death, and probably paddled with a hair brush or some other instrument."

The NEWS also learned that the State is investigating the possibility that the child was severely beaten and otherwise mistreated Saturday or Saturday night, and probably previously.

Funeral services for the child were held yesterday at Stein's Chapel here with interment in the Allegany Cemetery.

Rev. M. A. Keesecker, pastor of Kingsley Methodist Church, officiated.

When Wills was arrested he wore the olive drab trousers and khaki shirt which was part of his Army uniform. He also wore his identification tags around his neck, and told officers, "I just put them on today."

Wills was arrested by Deputies Edgar M. Lewis and William "Scotty" Orr, and booked at the jail by Deputy William Chappel.

New Playground Is Planned In Mapleside Area

Public Meeting Is Scheduled July 29

Plans to organize the Mapleside Playground Association will be made at a meeting scheduled for next Tuesday, July 29, at 7 p. m. in the social room of Mapleside Methodist Church, it was announced yesterday.

Mrs. Robert J. Bealky, 41 New Hampshire Avenue, contacted Street Commissioner Myers G. Light last week to ask whether it would be possible to clear a vacant lot in that neighborhood for use as a playground.

A Street Department crew cleared and graded a large city-owned lot bounded by New Hampshire Avenue and Gleason Street, completing the work last Monday.

At next Tuesday's meeting, officers of the new association will be elected, and plans will be made to hold a series of festivals to raise funds for purchasing equipment.

Light explained that no playleader will be assigned to the playground this year because no equipment has been secured. The lot was the first to be cleared following a suggestion made recently by William H. Buchholtz, president of the City Playground Associations, that large vacant lots at safe distances from surrounding buildings be cleared for use as play fields to keep children from playing in the streets.

Mrs. Bealky said that when it is put into operation, the playground will serve children in the Mapleside section and those living on Oldtown Road up to Louisiana Avenue. At present the nearest playground is the South End Playground, nearly half a mile away.

All parents interested in forming an association are asked to attend the meeting. The Mapleside Playground will be the 12th in the city, and the fourth to be opened this year. The other three are at Centre Street, Virginia Avenue and Lafayette Avenue, with official opening of the latter scheduled tonight.

Officials Optimistic On Kelly Contract

Harley V. Brown, URCLPWA representative, asserted last night he believed there were "no issues which should keep the parties apart" in the current negotiations of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, for changes in its contract with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Brown, with Paul Welker, District field representative, met last night with local union officials to discuss the negotiations which have been in progress at the local tire plant for some time.

Both of the URCLPWA officials will attend the contract negotiating session which will open this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the plant.

Both of the union officials praised the Kelly local for its record during the past year.

Baltimore Firm Asked To Aid In Smoke Abatement

Conference May Be Held Soon

Burrill and Gwin, a Baltimore firm of registered professional engineers, has been invited to send a representative here for a preliminary conference on the city's smoke abatement program, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday.

The mayor recalled that the firm was named smoke abatement consultant to the City of Hagerstown earlier this year, adding that its representative may be able to furnish local officials with the names of qualified persons who would be interested in applying for the post of smoke abatement engineer in Cumberland.

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, has contacted several local men with regard to the position, but none has been able to accept because the engineer would be required to work on a full-time basis, Mayor Post reported.

Last March the mayor received a letter from H. G. Burrill of the Baltimore firm, outlining the basis on which the firm operates in Hagerstown's smoke control program, and offering the same type of service to Cumberland.

Burrill explained in his letter that in Hagerstown the firm operates on an annual fee basis not exceeding $250 annually, giving the city four days' time per month and handling a daily inspection through the local Health Department. He added that he did not believe a good smoke abatement engineer could be secured for less than $4,200 per year.

The smoke control ordinance passed in May by the Mayor and Council calls for appointment of a smoke abatement engineer for Cumberland and a three-man board of appeals. An appropriation of $3,500 for smoke abatement was made in the city budget for the current fiscal year.

Although the ordinance will not become effective until next January 1, the mayor said it is hoped to secure a smoke abatement engineer prior to that time so that the program can be set up with a minimum of delay.

Juvenile Duo Admits Theft On King Street

Between $20 And $30 Taken From Purse

A juvenile duo, questioned last night by city police, admitted to entering the home of Leo Brighner, 7 King Street, early Tuesday night and taking between $20 and $30, according to Detective Thomas J. See.

Police identified the youths as Robert Brown, 11, 234 Elder Street, and Donald Hare, 8, 18 Elder Street. Both were brought to headquarters last night after Mrs. Brighner told officers they were at her home earlier Tuesday trying to sell wood.

Brown, according to his confession entered the home through a window that was left open, while Hare "stood watch" outside. The money was taken from a pocketbook found in the home.

Money Not Recovered

Detective See said the money has not been recovered, and added the youths, have not told what they did with it. Both boys were releasedo in the custody of their parents pending further investigation.

Brown, according to police, is at present on parole for a previous robbery, and was implicated in wrecking a truck in South Cumberland.

Police were also searching for two unidentified youths, believed to be 14 and 16 years of age, for questioning in connection with the theft of a wallet containing $36 that was taken Tuesday night about 8 o'clock from the McGee Service Station, North Mechanic Street.

Detective See, who is investigating, said the wallet was found yesterday in the rear of the Buchanan Lumber Company property, North Centre Street, but the money was missing.

Police said they received a report on the alleged theft late Tuesday night and were informed by David Rinker, 858 Speery Terrace, owner of the wallet, who is employed at the station, that he had left the wallet and money in his clothing, when he changed to go to work.

Rinker told police that he usually wears clean clothing to work and then changes in a private room at the station. He said he observed two youths "loafing" around the station and that after servicing a car about 8 p. m. he returned to the room and found the wallet missing.

Police said he listed the contents of the wallet as $36 in cash, operators license and several cards of importance.

Secretary Of State Marshall Loses His Way During Visit To Frederick

If Secretary of State George Marshall doesn't have any more luck with foreign affairs than he did finding a street in Frederick Tuesday night, he isn't going to do so well. He said so himself.

It all started when the Secretary and Mrs. Marshall went to Frederick Tuesday night to visit some old friends, Col. and Mrs. Harrison McAlpine, 300 Rockwell Terrace, but couldn't find the street.

William T. Delaplaine, co-owner of the Frederick papers, recognized Gen. Marshall when he stopped his car near Hood College campus at 9 o'clock to "try and get his bearings." He had been lost an hour, he said.

Delaplaine, according to reports, stepped up to the former Chief of Staff of the United States Army and remarked:

"You have a big job on your hands, General, and I wish you every success."

Marshall replied: "If I don't do any better than I have in finding the streets of Frederick, I won't do so well."

Delaplaine then inquired as to where the General wanted to go and gave him directions to the

Army Veteran Questioned In Death Of Infant Son

Possible Beating Of Baby Probed

Mervin C. Wills, 20, Christie Road Army veteran, was arrested about 8 o'clock last night by sheriff's deputies on Virginia Avenue, and taken to the county jail where he is being held in connection, with the death of his 18-month-old son, who died in Allegany Hospital Sunday night shortly after being admitted there.

At the sheriff's office, deputies said they had been instructed to pick up Wills for the State's Attorney.

The NEWS learned that Wills had been in the County Jail from Monday night until late Tuesday, and that both he and his wife, Nancy Jorrette Wills, 16, had been questioned for a long period at the State's Attorney's office Monday night. The wife has not been held but was also questioned by authorities.

Died Sunday night

The Wills infant was taken to Allegany Hospital late Sunday by the parents, who told attaches there the child was ill from several falls it had during the week. The baby had a broken collar bone, multiple bruises and lacerations about its body and other injuries. The baby boy, whom the parents called "Little Butchie," died Sunday night.

An autopsy was performed by Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, and Dr. Benedine Skitarelic, pathologist at Memorial Hospital. Dr. Deming has not issued a cause of death for publication, and told the News last night "the State has not yet broken its case and I have no complete report to make."

County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle has been working on the case and it was learned that he made a thorough inspection of the premises where the Wills live on Christie Road.

Investigator Boyle was contacted last night and asked why Wills had been picked up again and he referred the News to State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris.

The News also learned that Assistant State Attorney Paul M. Fletcher has been active in the investigation and when he was contacted last night, he referred the News to Harris.

Efforts to reach Harris at his home or office were unsuccessful, and at his home, a request was left with his family to have him call the office when he came home. He had not called when this was written at an early hour this morning.

The only statement that has been forthcoming from county authorities in the case was to the effect that the parents claimed the child was injured when he fell several times during the past week and became suddenly ill Sunday. The child seemed to have difficulty breathing Sunday, and the parents took him to the hospital.

The parents at first told authorities the child fell once from a lumber pile, fell over an embankment and fell while chasing a pet dog.

Authorities were suspicious because of the nature of the little boy's condition and because of bruises on his upper legs, lower back and other injuries.

From an authoritative source deemed reliable, it was stated, "the child looked as if it had been beaten half to death, and probably paddled with a hair brush or some other instrument."

The NEWS also learned that the State is investigating the possibility that the child was severely beaten and otherwise mistreated Saturday or Saturday night, and probably previously.

Funeral services for the child were held yesterday at Stein's Chapel here with interment in the Allegany Cemetery.

Rev. M. A. Keesecker, pastor of Kingsley Methodist Church, officiated.

When Wills was arrested he wore the olive drab trousers and khaki shirt which was part of his Army uniform. He also wore his identification tags around his neck, and told officers, "I just put them on today."

Wills was arrested by Deputies Edgar M. Lewis and William "Scotty" Orr, and booked at the jail by Deputy William Chappel.

Public Meeting Is Scheduled July 29

Plans to organize the Mapleside Playground Association will be made at a meeting scheduled for next Tuesday, July 29, at 7 p. m. in the social room of Mapleside Methodist Church, it was announced yesterday.

Mrs. Robert J. Bealky, 41 New Hampshire Avenue, contacted Street Commissioner Myers G. Light last week to ask whether it would be possible to clear a vacant lot in that neighborhood for use as a playground.

A Street Department crew cleared and graded a large city-owned lot bounded by New Hampshire Avenue and Gleason Street, completing the work last Monday.

At next Tuesday's meeting, officers of the new association will be elected, and plans will be made to hold a series of festivals to raise funds for purchasing equipment.

Light explained that no playleader will be assigned to the playground this year because no equipment has been secured. The lot was the first to be cleared following a suggestion made recently by William H. Buchholtz, president of the City Playground Associations, that large vacant lots at safe distances from surrounding buildings be cleared for use as play fields to keep children from playing in the streets.

Mrs. Bealky said that when it is put into operation, the playground will serve children in the Mapleside section and those living on Oldtown Road up to Louisiana Avenue. At present the nearest playground is the South End Playground, nearly half a mile away.

All parents interested in forming an association are asked to attend the meeting. The Mapleside Playground will be the 12th in the city, and the fourth to be opened this year. The other three are at Centre Street, Virginia Avenue and Lafayette Avenue, with official opening of the latter scheduled tonight.

Officials Optimistic On Kelly Contract

Harley V. Brown, URCLPWA representative, asserted last night he believed there were "no issues which should keep the parties apart" in the current negotiations of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, for changes in its contract with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Brown, with Paul Weiker, District field representative, met last night with local union officials to discuss the negotiations which have been in progress at the local tire plant for some time.

Both of the URCLPWA officials will attend the contract negotiating session which will open this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the plant.

Both of the union officials praised the Kelly local for its record during the past year.

Baltimore Firm Asked To Aid In Smoke Abatement

Conference May Be Held Soon

Burrill and Gwin, a Baltimore firm of registered professional engineers, has been invited to send a representative here for a preliminary conference on the city's smoke abatement program, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday.

The mayor recalled that the firm was named smoke abatement consultant to the City of Hagerstown earlier this year, adding that its representative may be able to furnish local officials with the names of qualified persons who would be interested in applying for the post of smoke abatement engineer in Cumberland.

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, has contacted several local men with regard to the position, but none has been able to accept because the engineer would be required to work on a full-time basis, Mayor Post reported.

Last March the mayor received a letter from H. G. Burrill of the Baltimore firm, outlining the basis on which the firm operates in Hagerstown's smoke control program, and offering the same type of service to Cumberland.

Burrill explained in his letter that in Hagerstown the firm operates on an annual fee basis not exceeding $250 annually, giving the city four days' time per month and handling a daily inspection through the local Health Department. He added that he did not believe a good smoke abatement engineer could be secured for less than $4,200 per year.

The smoke control ordinance passed in May by the Mayor and Council calls for appointment of a smoke abatement engineer for Cumberland and a three-man board of appeals. An appropriation of $3,500 for smoke abatement was made in the city budget for the current fiscal year.

Although the ordinance will not become effective until next January 1, the mayor said it is hoped to secure a smoke abatement engineer prior to that time so that the program can be set up with a minimum of delay.

Police were also searching for two unidentified youths, believed to be 14 and 16 years of age, for questioning in connection with the theft of a wallet containing $36 that was taken Tuesday night about 8 o'clock from the McGee Service Station, North Mechanic Street.

Detective See, who is investigating, said the wallet was found yesterday in the rear of the Buchanan Lumber Company property, North Centre Street, but the money was missing.

Police said they received a report on the alleged theft late Tuesday night and were informed by David Rinker, 858 Speery Terrace, owner of the wallet, who is employed at the station, that he had left the wallet and money in his clothing, when he changed to go to work.

Rinker told police that he usually wears clean clothing to work and then changes in a private room at the station. He said he observed two youths "loafing" around the station and that after servicing a car about 8 p. m. he returned to the room and found the wallet missing.

Police said he listed the contents of the wallet as $36 in cash, operators license and several cards of importance.

Secretary Of State Marshall Loses His Way During Visit To Frederick

If Secretary of State George Marshall doesn't have any more luck with foreign affairs than he did finding a street in Frederick Tuesday night, he isn't going to do so well. He said so himself.

It all started when the Secretary and Mrs. Marshall went to Frederick Tuesday night to visit some old friends, Col. and Mrs. Harrison McAlpine, 300 Rockwell Terrace, but couldn't find the street.

William T. Delaplaine, co-owner of the Frederick papers, recognized Gen. Marshall when he stopped his car near Hood College campus at 9 o'clock to "try and get his bearings." He had been lost an hour, he said.

Delaplaine, according to reports, stepped up to the former Chief of Staff of the United States Army and remarked:

"You have a big job on your hands, General, and I wish you every success."

Marshall replied: "If I don't do any better than I have in finding the streets of Frederick, I won't do so well."

Delaplaine then inquired as to where the General wanted to go and gave him directions to the (Continued on Page 10, Col. 5)

Deed Prepared In 1899 Finally Filed For Record In Court House

An old deed was filed for record in the office of the clerk of court here yesterday, for a small plot of ground in Lonaconing.

Dated June 24, 1899, the deed conveys part of a tract of land known as "Ethiopia and Isles" in Lonaconing from Michael Morgan and Mary Morgan, to Norah McGregor, of Piedmont, W. Va., for the sum of $55. The property is worth little more than that now, officials said and is assessed at $100.

The document shows the land was originally acquired by Michael Morgan in a deed dated April 11, 1891, from James Cardinal Gibbons, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Baltimore.

The deed was prepared by the late Taylor Morrison, attorney, who lived and practiced in Piedmont, W. Va., at that time and later moved to Cumberland. It was attested by W. W. Wood, of Piedmont, notary public.

At the Court House where a number of Lonaconing people of proud Scottish ancestry have been serving the county for years, one official chuckled and said, "looks like the Scots held on to this about as long as they could."
